FRENCH ADVANCES ON WESTERN FRONT. Map shows the British and French gains on July 20th. The German salient around Shaules and Roye is beginning to crumble.

BRITISH FIGHT NIGHT AND DAY

Australian and Territorial Troops Take Outskirts of Village.

FIGHTING IS VERY VIOLENT. Struggle for Guillemont and Longueval Contested Every Inch.

(By Frederick Palmer)

At the British Front, July 23.—(5 p.m.)—To the Australians is the glory of to-day's action, which takes the British offensive to the end of the third phase. Not once in three weeks have the guns been silent. All the while the fighting has continued until the spectator becomes numbed with the routine of this superhuman struggle.

Mud-covered men return to the trenches and rested battalions go in. Prisoners taken in each fresh attack express the same wonder at the persistent hammering. The British have become a twenty-four-hours-a-day army, fighting at night as well as day.

The attack of July 1, initiating the offensive, began at 7.30 in the morning, that of July 14 began at 3 in the morning, and that of to-day began at about 1 in the morning.

Delville Wood a Shambles

While resisting the many counter-attacks through the week, and although the Delville Wood has become a shambles, the British have been creeping forward.

More little round spots, new advanced posts and pencilled lines of saps and trenches extend as the human moles dig their way forward. More German artillery and more troops have massed to meet the increasing number of British, while British guns have kept moving nearer and practicing shots at targets for future concentration of fire.

More important than ever for either side there are points of high ground on the front of the British pressure. Either of the straining combatants in the strife for the positions say: "I must have that!"

All last week the correspondent kept his eye on some black stick-like points, resembling broken telegraph poles, which were once shade trees in the village of Pozieres. Villages like La Boisselle have become so unrecognizable from shell fire that one does not know where the village begins or ends. Sticks of trees, whittled and whittled by shell bursts, finally are leveled by a direct hit at the base.

Pozieres is deserted.

By the location of bursts of shells this morning a spectator knew how far the British had wormed their way up over night.

Through all the army there is a sense of exaltation, which seems to allow no one to become tired—at all—on the eve of the army's first offensive.

The British yelled satirical thanks to the Germans for the timbers from their trenches, which are being made into British.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Cleveland, O., July 25.—Four are dead, the police say morning, as the result of last night's explosion in a tunnel under Lake Erie. Twenty-one bodies are said to be in the tunnel, and three men rescued. Relief parties have died in hospital. Among the dead is Gustav C. duSen, superintendent of water construction, who was at the scene of one of the relief parties. A relief party is being organized which will enter the tunnel as soon as sufficient number of oxygen tanks are secured.

Rescuers Overcome.
The explosion of gas, about a hundred feet from the new tunnel under Lake Erie, which will connect with the existing tunnel, resulted in a disaster. They found the air lock jammed. William Dolan, lock tender, was thrown through the inside wall and admitted to the rescuers. He was rescued, but he was plunged into the tunnel, but he was rescued. Dolan, aged 42, was one of the men who reached the elevator in the crib. All three were in a dazed condition from the gas, but managed to get out. Rockets were sent to the alarm. Settlement of Irish Problem Not in Sight.
Nationalist Members House Angry With Asquith.

Difference on Two Points.
Premier Bluntly Asks Opportunity to Pa

The attempt to bring about a settlement of the Irish problem has failed. After yesterday's session, it is obviously a proceeding with the bill embodied in the Nationalist members during the adjournment of the House. Mr. Redmond at question time recalled the stormy day of Irish agitation.

When Mr. Redmond spoke in support of his motion, the House was densely packed, with restraint and moderation with tremendous effort. The adjournment of the cabinet has departed from the original agreement, willing still to stand by the bill, but will oppose a bill deviating from it. The government has a third of his speech came a third and a successful allusion to the Unionist members of the cabinet.
