Hon. Geo. E. Foster Speaks on "Future Business Relations Between U.S. and Canada."

Notes From The Planet's Correspondent Who Attended the Civic Club's Banquet at Ni-

The Honorable Geo. E. Foster, of Toronto, ex-Fmance Minister of Canada, was the guest of the "Civic Club" of Niagara Falls, N. Y., this evening on the occasion of their "fiftieth club dinner," held at the International here, and delivered a very interesting and appropriate address upon the subject, "Future business relations between the United States and Canada." Some 90 odd members and guests presented.

which they have been enjoying the benefits of undisturbed for a lengthy period.

The honorable gentleman dwelt very explicitly upon the strong sentiments of imperialism, that had of late years permeated amongst the people of the Dominion of Canada, more actively and sincerely cherished by the community at the present time, than possibly any remote era had before witnessed. The honorable speaker intimated the possibility of this more intense feeling, to the possibilities apparently confronting the people of Canada when they found out they had through the McKinley and the Dingley tariffs such a desperate tariff wall encircling them, they abandoned all hopes of refrenchment and after a long period of burdensome and hard toiling, they gradually began to throw off the load that had stooped their shoulders and cast their heads and spirits downward, and putting their shoulders to the wheel they were not very long in discovering that there were other countries and people that were willing and ready to discriminate with them and offer them some preferential trade concessions that they had not the remotest chance of acquiring in any modified form whatever from their closer and intimate neighbors; and so that the whad sent forward to South Africa, had not been entirely forgotten; this the honorable speaker sontended might be one of the reasons for a stronger feeling of imperialism that had permeated the masses of the people, and this along with the confederation of the Pro-His Kidneys.

Then His Rheumatism and Other Pains Vanished Once And For All—His Case Only One of Many.

Barwich, Ont., June 13.—(Special).—That Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Rheumatism, or any other disease resulting from disordered Kidneys is the experience of many of the settlers in this Rainy River country. The case of William John Dixon of this place is a fair sample of the work the great Canadian Kidney Remedy is doing.

"I had Rheumatism so bad I had to use a stick to walk. I had pains in my back and right hip and I had no comfort in sleeping.

"I could no more than dress or undress myself for nearly two months, and I was for nearly two months, and I was for nearly three weeks I could not lace my right shoe.

"My mother advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and I did so, After taking three boxes I could walk around and lace up my shoes and do my work. Six hoxes cured me completely."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the one sure cure for sich Kidneys. Sick Kidneys are the cause of nine-tenths of the ills the human family suffers from.

Bowser Tries Playwriting ;

He Returns to the Old Subject With Though Mrs. B. Gives Him No Encouragement.

copyright, 1904, by C. B. Lewis.] FTER one glance at Mr. Bow ser's face Mrs. Bowser ha no doubt that he had some-thing on his mind to bother but whether he was trying to figure out a new flying machine or seek-ing to find out how long it would take bear running at twenty miles an our to catch a boy running at eight-en she couldn't say. As he was quiet and good natured over it, she let him igure away, and it was half an hour fter dinner before he finally said:

"Look here, now, but I'd like to have a talk with you-a real sensible talk. I'll agree not to get mad, and you must agree to say nothing sarcastic." "I'll talk, of course, and be glad to," she replied. "What is it that's bother

"Well, you know I belong to the Primrose Dramatic club. I haven't attended but two or three meetings, and they are pushing me to show up. In fact, they want me to write a play to be produced two weeks hence."

"I want to oblige them, of course and I want the honor and prestige of the play, but can I write one? That's what I want to talk to you about Don't jump on me with both feet, as you generally do, and cry 'fad,' but give me a candid opinion."

"Mr. Bowser, how many times in your life have you been to the theater?" she asked as she laid aside her

"And did you pay the least attention to what is called the action of the play—to the construction—to the situations—to the stage craft?"

"I—I don't know that I did, but what has that to do with it? Some of the plays written by people who were never inside a theater have been

"Yes, you wrote a play. Do you remember where the scene was laid?"

"In Bagdad."

"Yes, in Page 19

"In Bagdad,"
"Yes, in Bagdad, and for no other reason than that you wanted to show as many Bagdad curtains as possible. Are you thinking of laying this one in Arabia, so as to get as many dates into it as you can?"
"But Bagdad curtains are not dates,

"But Bagdad curtains are not dates,
Mrs. Bowser."

"No, and dates are not California
prones. Why not lay it in California?
However, we won't dispute about that.
What is your plot?"

"A young man loves a young girl."

"That's nothing stariling."

"He is poor, but proud."

"He generally is."

"Her father is a rich old skinfilnt and would sell her to an old chap of the same lik for $50,000. The young man asks for her hand, and of course he gets the bounce. Right there, when he throws his hat down and jumps on it and says he will defeat the father's villainous machinations or perish, is a chance for some of the strongest acting on the American stage. It makes my hair curl to think of it. Adolphus stands like this, and gestures like this, and hurls his words"— my hair curl to think of ft. Adolphus stands like this, and gestures like this, and hurls his words"—

It was the cat. He had been sitting up and listening to every word and wondering when Mr. Bowser would begin to get red in the face and yell out, and his attitude and gestures struck tersor to his heart, and he uttered a howl and dived under the lounge.

"By thunder, but that infernal old feline shan't live another day!" he exclaimed as he located the interruption.

"Never mind the cat," replied Mrs. Bowser, "and you needn't go on with what Adolphus says either. There is no originality about that. All poor and proud young men get off the same expressions when told to go forth and hoe potatoes at 50 cents a day. How does your hero finally get the girl?"

"He bears her away at midnight aft-

"That's very fair. But how much

If your heroine weighs 160 pounds and your hero only 140 the audience won't be prepared to see him throw her over his shoulder and trot across a grapevine bridge and up the side of a steep mountain. However, you can have her take antifat and feed him upon corned beef at the same time and thus get the right proportions. He bears her off at midnight, but where to?"

to?"
"I said there was to be no sarcasm," protested Mr. Bowser.
"And there is none. I am just making friendly comments. Does he bear her to a depot, a ferryboat or where?"
"He bears her to the mountains, of course. I want mountains in for scenic

The cat had come out, thinking the performance had closed, but when Mr. Bowser's right hand went up he realized the peril of the situation and made a second scramble for life.

"Never mind," consolingly observed Mrs. Bowser as the hand fell.

"Thir will mind," he savegely re-

"But I will mind," he savagely re-torted. "Do you think I'm going to have one of the best plays of the century knocked out by a cross eyed, dou-ble jointed old spotted tomcat!"

He spent five minutes freezing the cat's soul with terror by words and glares and then gave it up, and Mrs.

"Well, Adolphus gets the heroine to a cave, and they have a picked up breakfast of johnnycake and bologna sausage, and then what happens?"
"Who said they had any such break

"Then they couldn't have had any at all. That isn't so material to the play, nowever. The father and his fifty men follow on, of course?"

"Of course. What are they there for?"
"But you should have the villain guide them. You have a villain, haven't you?"

haven't you?"

"Ye-s-that is, I'm going to have.
There's no particular hurry about the villain butting in. He will naturally lead the crowd when he does come in."

"Well, the villain, the father and the fitty armed men set off up the mountain, and then what happens?"

"They are overwhelmed," replied
Mr. Bowser.

"By a snowslide?"

Mr. Bowser.

"By a snowslide?"

"Yes, by a snowslide started by Adolphus. He sees them coming. He sees a snowslide just ready to slide. He would spare the father in order to have a father-in-law, but he cannot. He swings his hat. He calls out. He warns them to return before it is too late. He stands thus, and—and"—And Mr. Bowser looked around for

And Mr. Bowser looked around for the cat. The feline had his head out from under the lounge, and the two stood glaring at each other till Mrs. Bowser had to laugh in their faces. "Thanks for the insult," stiffly re-plied Mr. Bowser. "But it is no insult, Please go on with the plot"
