

CONSECRATED THE BISHOP.

Very Rev. Dean Farthing Now Bishop of Montreal.

Imposing Ceremony Presided Over by the Primate of All Canada.

Bishop DuMoulin Among Those Who Assisted.

Montreal, Que., Jan. 6.—The weather conditions to-day were anything but favorable for the ceremonies connected with the consecration of Very Rev. Dean Farthing as Anglican Bishop of Montreal, in succession to the late Bishop Carmichael.

The consecration service was fully choral, and was witnessed by a gathering which completely filled the edifice, several hundred being unable to obtain admission. His Grace, Archbishop Sweetman, of Toronto, Primate of All Canada, presided over the ceremony, and he was supported by Bishop DuMoulin, of Niagara; Bishop Mills, of Ontario; Bishop Williams, of Huron; Bishop Worrell, of Nova Scotia, and Bishop Cadman, of Maine.

The Primate, bishops and their chaplains and the clergy, robed in the chapter house of the cathedral and marched into the cathedral by way of the south transept, the Primate being preceded by his chaplain bearing the Metropolitan's crozier, the choir singing "The Church, Our One Foundation." Holy Communion was then celebrated by the Bishops of Ottawa, Niagara and Quebec. The sermon was then preached by Rev. Canon Welch, rector of St. James' Cathedral at Toronto, following which came the presentation of the Bishop-elect to the Primate by the Bishops of Ontario and Huron. The record of the election to the office was then read and the oath of obedience to the Metropolitan Archbishop taken. After the reading of the litany the Primate addressed the Bishop concerning doctrine and conduct. Then the new Bishop retired to the chapter house and returned fully attired in his bishop's robes, after which the service was brought to a close with the remainder of the Holy Communion office. Following the service a luncheon was tendered to Bishop Farthing by the lady of the diocese at the Windsor Hotel, at which all the visiting prelates and clergy took part, constituting a distinguished company.

FIRST DEGREE.

Youth Found Guilty of Murdering His Grandfather.

Brignton, N. J., Jan. 6.—Walter Zeller, the 19-year-old Vineland youth, who, with two companions, is charged with the murder of Zeller's grandfather, Wm. Read, was convicted of murder in the first degree to-day by a jury which had been out since yesterday afternoon.

In the court room during the night hours sat Mrs. Edwin Cooper, Zeller's mother, and daughter of the murdered man. She hoped that the jurors would either free her son or convict in the second degree.

Zeller confessed that with two youthful companions he had participated in the killing of Read for the purpose of robbery. During the trial the defense pleaded for a verdict less than the first degree.

Cline Wheeler and Herbert Grigg, Zeller's alleged accomplices, are awaiting trial.

THINK THEY HAVE CLEAR MAJORITY.

License Reduction Will be Brought Before City Council on Monday Next.

A request from the Citizens' Campaign Committee, which succeeded in electing eight temperance aldermen, will be in the hands of the city clerk by Monday next, and will be one of the first things the new City Council will have to deal with. Although it was first thought that the best temperance people could hope with eight straight pledged candidates would be to get a by-law before the people, the reductionists declared to-day that they had the assurance of three other aldermen that they will line up with them. If this is a fact, the number of licenses will be reduced without going to the people. There was a meeting of a small committee of the temperance people last night, and a meeting of the general committee will be held in a few days.

There are many opinions as to what the reduction should be. Some go as far as to suggest that the present number be cut in half. Others would make the reduction 18, fixing the limit at 50 for this year and submitting a by-law to the electors next January for a further reduction.

Messrs. Johnston and Burke Leave For Gold Fields.

When a man like Mr. T. J. Johnston, whose business dealings have identified him as one of Hamilton's progressive and respected citizens, decides to sell out and leave the city, it is not strange that many of his friends should make the event an occasion to show their appreciation of him and to express in a tangible way their regard.

Pick your 1909 chairman.

Perhaps we will have a fair division of the independent boards.

The talk is license reduction—fewer bars and more hotels.

For Finance Chairman we want a man who will cut out the overdrafts.

The good roads by-law wasn't good enough. In fact, the electors decided that it was no good.

You'll see the people won't stand any more monkey work from the License Commissioners. Mr. Callaghan better get used to that idea.

GOES TO KINGSTON AFTER MANY YEARS

City Freed of Two Men Who Have Long Troubled the Police.

For the last twenty-five or thirty years, according to the police, David Vint, 6 Morden street, has been making for Kingston Penitentiary, but has never got any farther than Hamilton jail. The terms he has spent in the local jail, all short ones, and most of them for sneak thieving, would, if added together, make a long sentence, but David outdid them all this morning, when he drew a ticket for three years in Kingston for stealing a $15 fur cap. He was arrested yesterday by Detectives Coulter and Bleakley on a warrant sworn out by Adam Clark, father of the alderman, who owned the fur cap which Dave stole. This morning Vint elected to be tried by the Police Magistrate, and pleaded not guilty. Mr. Clark said that yesterday afternoon he heard some person in the front hall while he was in the parlor, and he glanced out to see who it was. He saw a man whom he had often given food to when he had come begging at the door, and was a little surprised to see him walking about the house as if he had a share in it. He promptly stepped to the lawn window, and waited. The beggar walked out with an innocent look, but Clark tackled him, and a struggle ensued. The struggle lasted from Clark's house to the corner of the street, and Mr. Clark broke one of his knuckles by punching at one of the thief's orbits, and leaving his trade mark there for identification. Clark broke away, but Clark grabbed his coat and tore it open, and out fell the new fur hat which Clark had bought only a couple of days ago for $15. Vint got away, but Mr. Clark gave the detectives a good description, and they nabbed him.

When asked, after the usual manner, if he wished to question the witness, Vint asked Mr. Clark, "Was I drunk or was there another man with me?" He was told he was sober and alone. Dave had a hazy idea in his mind that there was another man with him, but he thought he might have looked at himself while drunk and thought this.

Detectives Coulter and Bleakley said Vint told them when he was arrested another man, a stranger from Toronto, was with him, and stole the cap. Vint took the stand and played on the stranger part of it strongly, a little too strongly, in fact, for he denied that he had even seen the cap, and expressed surprise that his friend had stooped to theft.

"Why, the cap was inside your overcoat," said the Magistrate.

"Was it?" queried Dave innocently. "Then he must have given it to me," he added.

"That story is, absolutely false, and I find you guilty," said Magistrate Jellis. "I have been waiting for the chance of getting rid of you. You are a noted criminal, and it is no use showing you any leniency. You will have to serve three years in Kingston Penitentiary."

Vint numbled a noise like a bad remark as he was hustled below.

"That saves us three years of hard work tracing door mats and other small articles," said Chief Smith.

When Vint was sentenced Richard Gracey huddled farther down in the corner of the dock which he occupied and trembled visibly. "Richard Gracey," called Sergt. Robinson, and he stood up. He was found guilty yesterday of highway robbery, having stolen a dollar from a small boy named Clarence Price, on election day, on Walnut street, by taking him into an alley and searching his pockets.

"You're another of the criminal class who is absolutely bad," said His Worship. "You have thirteen convictions against you and can expect no leniency. You, too, will have to go to Kingston and you will serve a term of two years and three months in penitentiary."

Gracey took his dose rather calmly, and was led away at once in the footsteps of Vint. Chief Smith and his men breathed one more sigh of relief as Gracey was sent away. "They're two bad men," he said.

Two west end young men who were caught by Plain Clothes Officers Robson and L. McLean last Sunday playing clap in a west end lot were up before the court this morning, charged with gambling on the Lord's Day. They pleaded guilty and were fined $15 each.

They both refused to divulge the names of any other members of the gang, which dispersed so quickly that the police only got this pair.

William Neilson, Toronto, was fined $2 for being drunk. Constable Duffy got him during the night half full, and almost frozen.

LET GO, BUT RE-ARRESTED.

Bond, of Nashville, Back to Jail For Week

And New Start Will be Made For Extradition.

Mr. Kerr Won a Round on a Technicality.

Before the courts are through with B. Bond, for whose extradition the Nashville, Tennessee, First National Bank is asking, he will have caused a lot of trouble and expense. This morning his lawyer, Mr. George S. Kerr, K. C., was successful in obtaining Bogd's release from the extradition warrant that was issued a couple of weeks ago, on the grounds of illegal arrest.

Mr. Kerr, in addressing Judge Snider, said that in the evidence put in at the trial, it was clearly shown that Bond had been put in custody by Detective Jags, of Nashville, without a warrant.

Mr. S. F. Washington, K. C., who is acting for the state of Tennessee and the First National Bank of Nashville, said that according to the authorities, Mr. Washington pointed out that in that event Bond was not properly before the court. He would ask on behalf of the state that Bond be discharged.

Judge Snider then addressed Bond. He said that he was satisfied that his retention was not legal, owing to the way in which he had been arrested. His honor refused to take the responsibility of committing Bond for extradition.

Mr. Kerr then asked that the court make an order for the payment of the costs of the prosecution up to the present time out of the money that is being held by the police. His honor refused to make such an order, holding that he did not have the power.

Mr. Kerr wanted a further order that all the money and personal belongings of Bond that had been taken from him be returned. This His Honor also refused to do, for the same reason as before.

When Bond was discharged he did not leave the court-room, and there was a long consultation in the judge's private room, between Mr. Washington, Mr. Kerr, Col. Sheppard and His Honor.

Finally Mr. Kerr came out and held a conversation with Bond, telling him he would be re-arrested and committed to the jail again, on the same charge.

It was rather an amusing scene to see three detectives following Mr. Kerr and the prisoner to the outskirts of the Court House building, and then Jack Bleakley read the warrant again, and Bond was taken before Judge Snider and committed to jail until Tuesday next.

Mr. Kerr stated that all the evidence would be gone over again, and the parties interested would have to come back for the trial. Mr. Kerr says that he has another objection to his sleeve, that promises to be of some value when the trial begins.

BOTH LOST IT.

Boys Fought Over Money and Man Pocketed It.

If one wants to know the sport that is occupying the public mind at this season of the year, the action of the boys on the street are an indication. If they are chasing a ball of rags up and down the street, football is the rage. If they are tearing around with rights and lefts on foot, racing is in vogue. Since Tommy Burns entered the pugilistic ring and piled up a fortune, it has been the burning ambition of the street boy to become a past master in the manly art. Pedestrians along MacNab street, just below King, about 6:30 o'clock last night, were treated to an exhibition. Two boys were walking on MacNab street, when both spied a few loose coins on the pavement. They dived simultaneously for the money, and a wild scramble ensued. The smaller lad started the fun by landing a scientific uppercut on the jaw of his opponent, and pretty soon all thoughts of the money had vanished; it was a fight for blood. A small crowd gathered, and a big burly blacksmith stopped the kids for a minute to learn the cause of the trouble. He was told that it was the few cents lying on the sidewalk, and, being a philosopher, he decided to let the best way to stop any trouble was to remove the cause, so acting on this decision he stooped down, gathered in and pocketed the coins, and proceeded serenely on his way.

HAINS FEELING THE STRAIN.

Thornton Being Put Through a Severe Cross-Examination.

Denies Reported Conversation Between Him and Mrs. Hains.

Felt Poorly and Priest Spoke Words of Comfort to Him.

Flushing, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Thornton J. Hains' own story of the shooting of Wm. E. Annis, on the float of the Bayside Yacht Club, will be dissected word for word to-day when the story writer again faces the State's Attorney for further cross-examination. Prosecutor Darrin said significantly to-day that he had only just begun to cross-examine Hains. The prosecutor indicated that he had some surprises ahead for the defendant. The defendant came into court to-day, showing signs of weariness and a sleepless night.

Thornton Hains became slightly ill this morning, just before court opened, but recovered quickly and took his place in the witness stand. Before entering court the Right Rev. Mgr. Donnelly, of St. Michael's Church, of Flushing, spoke a few words of encouragement to the prisoner.

Thornton Hains denied that while talking with Captain Hains and his wife over a year ago he had complained bitterly of Annis because his manuscripts had been refused.

"Did you tell Mrs. Hains at that time that you would get even with Annis yet?"

"No, I did not."

The witness said he had learned from the servants that Annis had often visited at the home of Captain Hains. He denied that Mrs. Hains had ever pointed Annis out to him.

"Do you remember ever saying to Mrs. Hains about Annis? 'I don't want to meet that man. I will have to shoot him if I meet him, for you know I have threatened to shoot him on sight.'"

"No, I did not."

District Attorney Darrin, in his cross-examination of Thornton J. Hains to-day, asked the witness many questions concerning his conduct towards Mrs. Claudia Hains during the absence of her husband, Captain Hains, in the Philippines.

Answered by the interrogations concerning his bearing towards Mrs. Hains, the defendant made protest to the court. Hains on several occasions admitted that he could not recall what he had testified to with regard to certain things on Monday.

CAN THIS BE TRUE?

Strange Statement Made in Case in Toronto To-day.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Toronto, Jan. 6.—At the trial of Mrs. Quinn, charged with subornation of perjury, it was sworn that John MacGregor, K. C., had instructed Mrs. Quinn's witness in a civil suit what to say, regardless of the objection that the evidence was not true. One of Mrs. Quinn's witnesses, Miss Mabel Smith, was sentenced to six months for perjury.

TRIED SUICIDE.

Mrs. Kauffman Had Almost Succeeded When Discovered.

This morning about 11 o'clock Mr. Israel Kauffman, who resides with his wife at 320 King street east, had occasion to go into his bedroom, and was horrified to find his wife on the bed with a length of gas tubing tied tightly around her neck. Her face was purple and swollen, and she was almost unconscious. The husband sent for the police and Dr. Bingham, and then set about doing what he could for his wife. Constable Gravelle and Patrol Driver Edith H. Brown were sent to the City Hospital, and she was revived there, and is now resting easily and will recover. No cause is assigned for her act, but that it was a deliberate attempt to end her life the police have no doubt. The woman had evidently preferred strangulation to gas poisoning. If her husband had not found her when he did it is believed she would have been dead in a few minutes.
