MEAN.—A short time ago.a pedlar travelling through Colborne was so unfortunate as to lose a package of goods of considerable value, for which he offered $10 rawed but did not succeed in recovering it. Lately it has leaked out that a party in that neighborhood has it, and we would advise him if he wishes to keep out of the meshes of the law to try and find the owner.

ANOTHER OLD SETTLER GONE.—Death has been making and inroads among our old settlers during the past few months, leaving comparatively few behind to tell of the hardships and privations that were endured in clearing up the forest and old settlers during the past few months. leaving comparatively few behind to tell of the hardships and privations that were endured in clearing up the forest and creating the comfortable homesteads that are now so abundant in this country. Last week a brief notice was given of the death, in her 80th year, of Mrs. Sheppard, of Goderich tp. She was born in the town of Kilcoughy, county of Tippard, of Goderich tp. She was born in the town of Kilcoughy, county of Tipperary, Ireland, and emigrated to this country, with her husband, in 1826, first taking up their residence in St. Catherines, at the time when the Welland Canal was started, and after remaining there a short time they removed to a farm in the rear of Toronto, where they removed to the County of Huron, where they removed to the County of Huron, where they hewed out for themselves a permanent heme. Early in life she united with the Methodista, with whom she remained till her death, although her husband was an Episcopalian, and so long as she was alle was always a constant and faithful attendant at the house of God. She had been a widow for twenty-mine years, being assisted by her grown up children in providing for a large family, as she now leaves behind her its sons (three of which reside here) and three daughters.

It had been customary in all the historie world to recken the years as consisting of 365 days until about fifty years before the Christian era. Julius Crear then finding that by this reckening the year had been and was dropping back about six hours annually, by the advice of an Egyptian astronomer, enacted that one day should be added to every fourth year, in order to use up this fraction of six hours and preserve the year from falling back still further. Now as the exact length of the tropical year is 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes, and 49 seconds, the six hours added by the Julian calendar was to much by 11 minutes and 14 seconds. This overplus from 44 B. C. to 1582 of the Christian era had amounted to little more than ten days. Pope Gregory X111. then corrected the Julian calandar by setting the new year back ten days, and to
