OBITUARY.

mr. Jean Shipley.

of the Huron road, Hellett, was a man known f r and vide, and early on Wednesday afternoon, March 26th, the people of Olhaton were shoc! I to hear that he was dev!. For a moment they could scarcely the inveit in the stiffing ann nacement was made, but the man day was the man of Rattanbury's stable, onlimed the and intelligence, and soon attracted a large c.wid. He was usually as was a made, but the man diversity healthy man, never being side of any account. After esting his dimner, on the standing mer Spooner's heelt alting room and sat down, to vait till it is felt better, ecoplaining to Mr. Spooner of violent heart-burn. Mr. W. W. Craig came in and he sold him a heifer while waiting. He shortly after left and walked towards home, and as he was in the habit of dropping into Rattenbury's stables, being a large dealer in horses, it is supposed to have turned-in, and doubtless instantly dropped dead, as he was found lying on the floor moment after he had been seen on the street. I was plain that he was beyond all human aid, and the lifeless body was taken to the heart stables, being a large dealer in horses, it is supposed to have turned-in, and doubtless instantly dropped dead, as he was found lying on the floor a moment after he had been seen on the street. I was plain that he was beyond all human aid, and the lifeless body was taken to the heme that he had so lately left in the supposed bloom of health and strength. On two previous occasions suffissed from him to mount his loss.—[Sarnia Observed Here 1842]. Mr. Hossies do the marked from him to the 'married and acquired some property. He leaves a wife and invalid on to appear to suffer. Mr. Shipley was born in Dalton, Norkshire; in early was born in Dalton ration, and from the effects of which he did not appear to suffer. Mr. Shipley was born in Dalton, Yorkshire; in early life being apprentice with his father as a waggon maker, and having Mr. W. Smithson, of this place, as his co-laborer. In 1851 he came to this country, Mr. A. Dodsworth forming one of the same party, and with his father, settled on the base line, but shortly afterwards moved base line, but shortly afterwards moved to the farm now occupied by Mr. S. Andrews. About 17 years ago he moved to the farm on the Huron road where he has since resided. He was one of the early councillors of this place. He was one of the early councillors of this place. He was one of the most prudent, industrious, and enterprising farmers in Huron, deal-and enter ing largely in cattle and horses, and in his transactions was conscientous, honorable and straightforward to a degree, and had accumulated considerable property. He was one of the few men who have the faculty of being on friendly terms with almost everybody, and not the slightest ce sure can be passed on his life or actions. A number of years ago he joined the Methodist church, but afterwards he left it and went to the Bible Ch. stian church, as other members of his family belonged there, and he was also a trustee of this church. He leaves a wife, three sons and six daughters, the eldest one being Mrs. Thomas Gibbings, of this place. We can safely say that among the many deaths that have lately taken place in this vicinity, none has caused a more profound sensa-tion or elicited deeper heartfelt sym-pathy than this one.— New Era.

Not unexpectedly are we called upon to chronicle the decease of one of the most worthy residents of Morris, in the person of W. G. Hingston, who died on Tuesday fore. John Cunningham, captain of the fire company, was seriously injured by some falling timbers.

Nandrews, Plymouth Co. Devon, England, He emigrated to America in 1883 and settled at Victoria Square, township of Markham, where he carried on busing the serious of Markham, where he carried on busing the serious of the fire company, was seriously injured by some falling timbers.

Goderich Township

Arthur Churchill and sister left for Markham, where he carried on busing the serious of the fire company was partly burnt and wrecked. As the whole clock was of frame buildings, it was deemed necessary to tear down a small stere. John Cunningham, captain of the fire company, was serious ly injured by some falling timbers. of Markham, where he carried on business as a blacksmith until 1858, when he removed to Morris and purchased lots 29 and 30 on the 5th con., containing 200 acres, from Messrs. McLeod and Mcacres, from Messrs. McLeod and Mc-Murchie, where he resided up to the time of his death. Notwithstanding he was 76 years of age he was as smart on his feet as a young man and although poorly for some months he was not confined to his room until 4 weeks before his lecease. The cause of his death was bronchitis. Mr. Hingston took a foremost position in agricultural effects and most position in agricultural affairs and has always been connected with the various societies whose object was to encourage the farming community. For 16 years he was president of the Grey Branch Agl. Society, and although he often asked for someone to be appointed in his stead at the annual meeting, every veice was always unlifted for his re-elec tion. In connection with the East Huron Society he filled the president's chair for the past 10 years, successively, and in connection with the above positious he performed his work so faithfully and energetically that he was elected an honorary member of each at the last meeting. His place will be a difficult one to fill as in all his term of office the closet observer never knew him to percloset observer never knew him to per form one selfish act. Ever since the brick school house was built in Brussels he was a member of the School Board and for years was chairman, and it was regretted by many that he resigned a few years ago. In his carrier life he took an active part in military affairs and held the position of captain in a volunteer Co. The deceased was a member of the Episcopalian Church, also connected with the Masonic Order, under whose direction the funeral will be on Friday. Although Conservative in politics, he was very liberal and never pressed his views on liberal, and never pressed his views on anyone. A wife, 7 sons and 1 daughter are left to mourn the irreparable loss of a good husband and kind father. Many will miss his kindly word of wisdom, adleng live in the memory of his very large circle of friends for his many good good qualities of head and heart.—[Brussels Post.
