TO THOSE IN ARREAR.

For the past few weeks we have been sending out accounts to persons ewing us for subscriptions, advertising and jobwork, and will continue doing so, until all who owe us have received notification.

We hope everyone to whom an account is sent will at once forward the amount due to THE SIGNAL.

The amount in each instance is not large in itself, but when it is known that it is one of several hundred similar accounts, it will at once be seen that the total amount of money due us is large.

We have large paper and ink bills to meet regularly; replenishing our type and keeping cour machinery in repair costs a lot of money; our employees have to be paid every Saturday night; and we depend upon our customers to furnish us with the necessary funds to enable us to meet our obligations.

No business can be carried on without others, therefore, as you would be done
