My Favourite Hobby Horse.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"I haven't a record in my collection that cost less than three collars," a man told me the other day.
He was evidently very proud of the fact. To my mind he had a more reasonable reason to be ashamed of his money-ridden viewpoint.
He evidently enjoyed his records, not as music but as money.
If some one should offer him a record that was not at all beautiful as music, but for some reason cost ten or twenty dollars, I feel sure he would buy it and be very proud of it.
You see I'm astride my old hobby horse—the folly of confusing cost and value.

Cost Versus Value.

What factors determine the cost of an object? The cost of production and the rarity of it.
But what factors determine its value to you? Its beauty, its utility and its sentimental associations?
To be able to judge objects by their value to you instead of by their cost—that is, to have taken a long step toward the best kind of culture.
We were looking over a collection of old coins the other day. There was one which its owner said was worth fifty dollars—a commonplace looking little drab coin. "Why is it so valuable?" some one asked. "Because it's so rare," answered its owner with an evident scorn for the absurdity of the question.

To my mind he was much more absurd in his delight in possessing the coin. The only value in that coin lay in the fact that there weren't enough for everyone to have one.
There was no beauty to the thing, no use and no sentimental association. No one of the people who owned one of them, no one of the possible purchasers who were willing to give fifty dollars for the thing, would get any good out of it except the joy of knowing that the thing was rare, and comparatively few people in the world could have one.

Why Don't We Set All the Diamonds Mined?

It is said that a great many more diamonds are produced at the mines than ever see the markets. Why? Because if diamonds became common, people wouldn't buy them. Would the diamonds be any less beautiful? No, but people don't value them for their beauty, but for their rarity.
If orchids were common and roses rare, who would prefer orchids? Not one in every thousand who now rave about them.

The happiness that you squeeze out of the fact that you own something which the common run of people can't get is a tawdry thing compared to the happiness that comes from appreciating true beauty and utilizing true worth.

Questions and Answers.

Questions: "I would like to know if there is any truth in the statement that cutting hair according to the moon helps it to grow, and if there is, what time of the month is the proper time?—M. W."

Answer: I do not usually answer health and beauty questions, but the shampoo lady being handy I asked her and she said that the moon has nothing to do with hair. The only value in the old superstition is that it is well to clip it once a month, whether the first, last or middle doesn't matter, so long as you're regular.

Neptune Docked.

The expedition steamer Neptune has gone into dry dock to have a new propeller shipped, replacing the one lost at the icefields. Other repairs will be made to the ship as well as alterations on deck, including the erection of a new room to be used for the development of moving pictures while the ship is on her expedition, as referred to in yesterday's Telegram.

CANADIAN LOSSES AT LANGE. MARCK WELL UP TO 6,000.

"Memorandum regarding what may be termed the Battle of Langemarck, near Ypres, Belgium."
"From a cablegram received, the following is an extract:
"Other ranks, 22nd to 36th—Killed, seven hundred and five; wounded, two thousand one hundred and sixty-two; missing, two thousand, five hundred and thirty-six."
"This makes a total of 5,403 and is exclusive of the officers already reported. In short, our casualties from the 22nd to the 36th, amount well up to 6,000.

At the House.

FRIDAY, May 7th.

Petitions were presented by Mr. Jennings from Explotis, Springdale and Tilt Cove on the subject of prohibition.

The General Hospital Bill passed the Committee Stage with some amendments.

The Stamp Duties Bill came up for second reading and will go into the Committee Stage on Monday.

The Premier moved the second reading of the Bill relating to the establishment of a Permanent Disasters' Fund. He briefly referred to the disasters of the past year, and reviewed the salient features of the work of the Marine Disaster Committee, explained the different sections of the Bill before the House, and felt that the Bill would command the unanimous support of the House.

Mr. Kent thought that there should be no two opinions regarding the desirability of establishing a Permanent Disasters' Fund. Some questions were asked in connection with the Bill.

The idea of establishing such a fund should be directed from the original intentions of those who subscribed to it, and as to how the funds might best be applied in the case of widows who might remarry and of children who might become self-supporting.

In such cases it would be necessary to consider if allowances to those still dependent might be increased or the amounts directed to other objects.

The idea of establishing such a fund would be accepted by all and he had much pleasure in giving the Bill his earnest support.

The Bill was then read a second time, and will go into the Committee Stage on Monday next.

Before adjournment the Premier gave notice that he would on Monday ask leave to introduce a Bill relating to the Newfoundland Patriotic Association, also that he would move the House into a Committee of the Whole to consider certain Resolutions relating to an Agreement between the Government and the Newfoundland-American Packing Co. on the matter of the establishment of Cold Storage and other matters in connection with the fisheries of Newfoundland.

The House adjourned at 4.10 until 3 p.m. on Monday next.

A Suggestion.

It has been suggested to us to call the attention of the Civic Commission to that piece of land near Rawlins' Creek, where the erection of a building to replace that destroyed by fire some time ago is now about to take place. If the city could acquire this triangular piece of land it would mean a great improvement to this much used thoroughfare, and we trust the Commission will consider the suggestion in the spirit in which it is given, viz., the desirability of improving the city wherever possible.

The acquiring of the piece of land may be a matter of no great difficulty, and the benefits to the city would be quite obvious.

Sir,—I see in the papers that five or six hundred Newfoundland fishermen have volunteered for the Navy. After the expiration of the war I am willing to take on deck crews for all our Atlantic Mail Ships, six or eight in number, permanently under two years' agreement, paying them sea wages plus a bonus of £5 per annum for good behaviour, etc. These men will be constantly employed.

If you care to put this before them I beg that you will do so.

I am, Sir,
Yours obedient servant,

A Good Contest.

Last night there was a record house at Rossley's, the high class and talented artists, Mr. Ballard Brown and Miss Madge Locke, are the finest ever seen here, and as for their voices—well they are singers that really sing.

The contest was a huge success, and there were many competitors; Mr. Rossley intends to show the audience another novelty soon that for pure originality has never been equalled; one thing the Rossleys always have something new and original to put forward. The 1st prize was won by an elderly gentleman named Taylor who is a first class dancer; 2nd prize, Miss Perry; 3rd prize, Miss Georgina Squires. There were so many competitors all could not take part.

The children's contest takes place to-day at the matinee. Hundreds turned away last night.
