Gower St. Sunday School.

Interesting Address by Hon. J. A. Robinson.

The members of Gower Street Methodist Sunday School were yesterday privileged in having with them Hon. J. A. Robinson, who had been asked by the Superintendent, Mr. W. H. Peters, to give the School a talk on the happenings of the past two weeks, but particularly on the life and death of Earl Kitchener.

Every boy in the school knew of Earl Kitchener, to every boy he was a hero, but as Mr. Robinson sketched his life, briefly told of his career in the Army, of the battles he had fought, the honors he had won; as he told how when the war broke out, Kitchener, home in England on furlough, was looked to by the whole nation as the one man for the work of the War Office, he loyally gave himself again for service; how, under his leadership the Army grew steadily day by day, till eighteen months after it was declared it numbered five million men; as he told that at the very moment when his critics were bitterest, he was planning, silently and carefully, his last journey and business for his King; as he imagined the last scenes on the deck of the Hampshire or in the life-boat; as he described the survivors from the ship with their last breath murmuring "Kitchener, Kitchener," the silence was intense. Every boy was listening breathlessly. His appeal to the boys, in whatever sphere of life their work may be, humble or exalted, to ever do their duty, made an impression that will be lasting. He quoted Lord Tennyson's poem "The Revenge," where Sir Richard Grenville, fighting to the death with his one ship against the enemy's fifty-three, said: "We have fought such a fight for a day and a night As may never be fought again."

It was not Horatio Herbert Kitchener's to fall on the battlefield, or in the heat of battle on the sea, but he too had fought such a fight for a year and a half in bringing his small army of 150,000 men up to a voluntary army of 5,000,000 as may never be fought again. With Sir Richard he too could say: "I have fought for King and Faith as a valiant man and duty as a man is bound to do."

In concluding his appeal, the speaker said, "What matter where, or when, or how we die, whether we lie in a thousand fathoms of water, or in six feet of earth, if we too can say, 'I have only done my duty as a man is bound to do,' 'Kitchener, Kitchener,' he said, 'Never, Kitchener lives! and will live to the end of time.'"

Mr. Robinson also made reference to the loss Gower Street School has met in the death of three of her boys of former days—Jack Chaplin, who was the first of "Ours" to lay down his life, not on the battlefield, but no less in service; his brother Hal, who went to his death with Kitchener, and Ned Peters, the nephew of the School Superintendent and son of a former Superintendent. "These three," he said, "have done their duty."

The School desires to thank Mr. Robinson for his words of help.

NOTICE!

Complying with widely expressed public opinion as voiced by the Press and individual citizens, We, the undersigned members of the Municipal Board, deem it our duty to offer our services to the City for the next two years.

While making this announcement as a body, we wish it to be clearly understood that we are standing as individuals, and desire to express our readiness as individuals to work with any Mayor or with any other Councilors that the Citizens may see fit to elect.

In respect to the Charter which has been submitted to the Legislature, we beg to state that, while firmly of opinion that its adoption will enable the City to be more effectively governed than at present, we have always recognized that some of its provisions are debatable. We have supposed that the Legislature and the Citizens would carefully consider such sections and would arrive at some decision in respect to them which would be generally satisfactory.

We can point with some satisfaction, if not with pride, to the improvements which have been made during our short term of office, and it is in the hope that we may be able to complete and perfect the work begun, and to institute further improvements, that we now signify our willingness to serve the City for another term of two years.

House Almost Burnt to the Ground.

At 7:40 this morning, a fire broke out at the house owned and occupied by Mr. Arthur O'Neal, cabman, 62 Pennywell Road, and resulted in the building being practically destroyed. The Central and East End Companies were quickly on the scene and for upwards of an hour they continued to pour several streams into the burning building before the flames were extinguished. The fire is supposed to have originated through the medium of flying sparks resting in a pile of straw in the roof which soon burst into a spreading blaze. The loss to Mr. O'Neal is a heavy one as it represents the savings of years. We understand there is $300 insurance which will in some measure compensate for the damage done.

Forest Fire Raging.

We learn from passengers on the train which reached town this morning that a big forest fire is raging along the railway from Shial Harbor to Port Blandford and in several places as far as Glenwood. In the vicinity of the Terra Nova River the fast spreading flames are making their way along both banks of the river for several miles inland. The fire first broke out near Caribou Lake, midway between Port Blandford and Shial Harbor, early Friday morning, and despite the efforts of section men and others the flames spread rapidly. This is the second big forest fire to take place this year, the other being near Stephenville and Flat Bay in St. George's Bay.

Police Court.

(Before Mr. F. J. Morris, J.P.)
A blacksmith charged with being drunk and disorderly while in charge of a horse, was released on depositing $5.

A fisherman of the Goulds, concerned in an affliction case was released on giving bonds.

An old offender, who refused to appear in Court when summoned, for maliciously damaging a woman's door, was fined $2 or 5 days.

A laborer, convicted of assaulting his wife was ordered to furnish bonds in $100 for his future good behaviour.

The Armlet Question.

With reference to the delay mentioned by "Yorkshire" in this morning's "Daily News," in the provision of armlets to rejected volunteers, we are requested to state that the matter has some time since passed out of the hands of Mr. Morris and the Recruiting Committee into those of the Reserve Force Committee. The former accordingly have no further responsibility in that connection.

Destructive Fire.

House and Contents Destroyed.
A message was received to-day by Deputy Minister of Justice Hutchings from Magistrate Currie, Bay L'Argent, stating that a serious fire occurred there at 2:30 o'clock this morning, the house of Mr. Philip J. Blandford being burned to the ground. The entire contents were wiped out by the blaze, the savings of fifteen years. Blandford's wife and six children escaped in their night clothes.

Supreme Court.

(Before Mr. Justice Kent.)
In the case of Martin and others vs. The L. M. Trask Co., the arguments by counsel were concluded this morning. The Court takes time to consider.

The War

The past seven days have been eventful ones, justifying the predictions of those who foretold great activity with the approach of summer. The news has on the been distinctly cheering, the of Vaux by the Germans being the only dark spot in it. It has now been definitely learned result of the great naval engagement to establish it as a British victory, flight alone of the German fleet constitute it such, but that their es should actually have been than ours, and in the class of wherein they could least be attributed is a piece of good news far other the first reports led us to expect world is waiting greedily for the Jellicoe's report.

How closely all parts of the story are correlated is shown by one attributed by experts to this the paralysis of German naval operations against Russia in the Baltic, the case of a German military move against Russia, the left wing their army would have invaluable assistance from their navy, and the greatest menace, would for excellent pivot on which to swing ward, farther south, against All danger, it is said, of any advance through Courland against Riga removed by the weakening of the man navy and the increasing success of British submarines in those waters.

However that may be, Germany now compelled to look to herself another place, Russia having in the initiative in no uncertain manner. The weight of her blow, however, aimed chiefly at Austria, as have been expected. Russia bent on surprising the world, rapidly and strength of the which reduced Erezum and Trebizond are here repeated. Galicia. Allowing for exaggeration in the reports, the Russian progress against strong defences, support topographical difficulties, is surprising, and if the figures are to be believed, more than one hundred thousand prisoners is not a bad bag for a days' fighting. It is now known from Petrograd that the Styrian river rises near, and runs north of, Lemberg, which seems to be finally threatened.

If the Russian successes are as predicted to great length, they are said to have not only a military a political effect. Whether Roumania will be influenced will be seen, but it should help to the situation in Greece, where the are becoming intolerable. Greece, even a Graco-Bulgarian alliance. Might may not be right, seems to be the only argument of Balkans. Strong pressure by the lies will, no doubt, hasten a crisis, the overthrow of Skoulis and the return of Venizelos. would at least give the Allies a hand at Salonika, where they have been massing troops for nothing.

On the West front the capture Vaux by the Germans is of importance which should not be underestimated.
