WASHINGTON, Nov. 1. A week more may elapse before the United States Government can form an official opinion of the sinking of the Marina and Rowenmore by German submarines. It became evident to-day that the American Embassy at Berlin has been instructed to obtain informally and with all haste possible the German version of the attacks. The submarines could not return to their bases for several days, however, and the transmission of the command papers would require some time. Until these are available it is not believed the Washington Government would take any decisive action.
