Matters of interest to the order were discussed, and at the conclusion of the business the brethren adjourned to the Commercial Hotel, where the visitors were entertained by the local lodge. The brethren from outside places were highly pleased with the manner in which they were entertained by Mount Brydges lodge, and also with the choice made by the grand master for the district deputy's chair.

BUYING SUGAR BEETS.

St. Thomas Journal: R. S. C. Nealy, of Detroit, sugar beet expert of the Peninsular Refining Company, Caro, Mich., has been in the neighborhood for two or three days arranging for sending the sugar beets grown by farmers here, under contract with the London Sugar Refining Company, which will erect a factory at London next year, to Caro. Mr. Nealy is well pleased with the results and says that the soil in this vicinity is well adapted to Miss Ella Case, formerly of this city, sugar beet culture. The yield in this vicinity will be from fifteen to eighteen tons per acre, while twelve is considered very good. Some of the beets tested at Caro gave 14 per cent sugar, while 12 is considered standard. One of the best plots in the vicinity is that of James Coleman, River road, Southwold, and Mr. Dickson, in the same vicinity has another fine one. The farmers are paid $3 per ton delivered on the M. C. R. here, the company paying the 75 cents per ton duty, and the freight. They are also taking the beets raised in the neighborhod of London and Strathroy.

UNVEILED HANDSOME MEMORIAL

St. John's Bible Class Honors Its Soldier Members.

Second Anniversary of Their Departure Fittingly Marked.

Other Interesting Services in London Pulpits Yesterday—Winter Series at Y. M. C. A. Opened.

At one o'clock on the afternoon of Wednesday, Oct. 25, 1899-just two years ago-the chimes of St. Paul's Cathedral rang out a merry peal as the members of B Company, of the first Canadian contingent, stepped briskly off, at the word of command, from Wolseley Barracks, under Col. Holmes, on their memorable journey to South Africa, to "conquer or die, as their sires of old," in defense of the grand old flag of the British Empire. Thousands of the citizens of London lined the streets, and as the strains of military music grew nearer, great enthusiasm was manifested. The "goodbyes" were said-in some cases for the last time—as the gallant little band moved on. In many homes during the following year vacant chairs were solemn reminders of the sacrifices that were being made. Particularly was this the case in St. John's Bible class. There were ten of its members who responded to the nation's call to arms. A former member, Mr. Arthur C. Houseman, was already at the front as a member of the Natal volunteer force, foremost portion of the war he gave up his life in his country's defense. It was particularly fitting that the second anniversary of the departure of B Company for the front some tablet was unveiled in the Church of St. John the Evangelist, which had been erected by the members of St. John's Bible class in honor of the mem-bers who served on the veldt of South Africa, and to the memory of one who will never return. The tablet, which is of brass, is handsomely mounted on oak, and is beautifully inscribed. It is church, to the left of the rector's pulpit. The lettering, which is of pretty design, is artistically done in black,

as follows:

AC LAUDI VIRTUTIS. It is with feelings of great pride that the members thus feelingly refer to their list of heroes, for, almost without exception, the representatives of the class successfully served throughout the campaign of the Canadians, having taken part in the surrender of Cronje at Paardeberg, the Zand River fight, and also in the triumphal march or

Pretoria under Commander-in-Chief

Lord Roberts. At the King Street Presbyterian Church last night, Rev. J. G. Shearer, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, spoke to a very large congregation on the subject of "The Workingman and the Day of Rest." Mr. Shearer took as Mark, ii., 27-"The Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath." These great words of the Master, bringing out as they do the benign meaning of the Sabbath, are the Magna Charta of the workingman. One of its main objects is to lighten labor's burdens. It was intended by God that the human life should be a continuous Sabbath, but man's falling brought on himself the curse, and one of the conditions of that curse was that by the sweat of his brow man should eat bread; but that the curse should not be greater than man could bear, God gave him the day of rest-the Sabbath-and it has continued so down through the ages. The ten commandments were given specially for the toilers. In giving the commandments God impressed upon the children of Israel that they observe the Sabbath day and keep it holy, therefore God laid down an imperative command which we could not disobey without disobeying Him. The workingman has an interest in the Sabbath which no other can have not merely because the Sabbath was made for man-but because man resumed work after the day of rest with re-newed vitality. The man who has to work seven days a week has no opportunity to renew that vitality. The Sabbath, said the speaker, is not meant to limit but to conserve men's liberties. Jesus said the Sabbath was made for man, therefore for all men everywhere, but especially for the poor. There were many reasons why the workingman is interested in the pro-per observance of the Sabbath, and labor does not lessen wages. Let the ously injured: Martha Bonsell.

workingmen accept the seven-day week, and they will find that they will very soon receive the same wages for the seven-day week as they previously received for the six-day week. He cited the case of an electric railway which was paying $40 per month while working six days per week, but shortly after being allowed to operate for seven days a week the employes were reduced to $35 per month. If the workingman wants his privilege of the day of rest he must continue to work and fight for the weekly rest

A case came under his notice of a mine superintendent in New Ontario ordering his workmen to work on the Sabbath, and when they refused, they were promptly discharged. A notice was inserted in some United States papers for men who understood mining and did not object to work on Sun-day. The places of the Canadian workmen were soon filled by aliens, but when the attention of the alien labor officer was called to the fact, very little notice was taken of the matter. Wealthy corporations, paper mills, railways, compel their employes to work on the Sabbath on the plea of commercial urgency, and by so doing are encroaching on the workman's rest day. He attended a meeting in the city of Ottawa at which Ralph Smith, M.P., president of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, and one of the vice-presidents of the Lord's Day Alliance, said, "Workingmen, I have made it a principle that I would not accept anything that was not an imperative necessity which caused a fellow-workman to toil on the Sabbath, and that our trades unions should always be on record for the day of rest." "If that," said Mr. Shearer, "is the opinion of the trades unions, I say 'God bless the unions."

Mr. Shearer urged his hearers to join hands with the Lord's Day Alliance for the proper observance of the Sabbath, and said that London and Win-nipeg were the best Sabbath observing cities in the Dominion. In conclusion, he left the matter with the workingmen and women to think over and decide whether they deem it worth while to save the Sabbath as a day of rest, and he ventured the hope that he could count on the influence of everyone to hold what we have-the proper observance of the Sabbath.

AN ADDRESS TO MEN. An address to young men, the first of the winter series, was given at the Auditorium yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Conklin, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who spoke upon the subject of "Social Purity." The address was in many ways one of great merit and helpful to all who heard it. Mrs. Conking is a woman of much originality, who expresses new and old truths in a pleasing, earnest and forceful manner.
The large attendance yesterday was gratifying both to speaker and committee in charge, and it is highly desirable that future meetings should be as well or even better attended. They are always interesting, the speakers being men or women who have by their ability in particular lines, risen above the ordinary run, and either young or old men, whose Sunday afternoons are not wholly occupied, would be benefited by attend-

ON BEHALF OF MISSIONS. An earnest appeal on behalf of missions was made yesterday to the congregation of the First Methodist Church by Rev. R. Whittington, D. D., superintendent of Indian missions in British Columbia. Dr. Whittington congregation the needs of the denomination the way of mission work. That more men were required he plainly pointed out, and just as plainly did he show that until the church as a whole contributed more liberally the work in many quarters would be ously hampered. In the course of his

"The income of the missionary society is a manifestation of Christ. In this commercial age, may I not say it is the manifestation that the church giving to the world. This year the income is $272,000. Last year it was $270,000, while the expenditure was $282,000. The actual collections so far this year have amounted to $217,000. Against this I put a church member-ship of 290,000, and the about 75 cents per head. We are not going to find fault with that. "Then compare ourselves with our neighbors. We have a membership of 290,000 and raise $270,000. The Presbyterian Church has a membership ot 212,000, and it raised between $300,000 and $400,000, an average of something like $1 50.
