FROZEN TO DEATH.

Turned Out of a Home with the Thermometer Thirty Degrees Below Zero.

Regina, N. W. T., Dec. 29.—From a locality 25 miles north of here comes the news that the house of William Thompson, a farmer, was burned yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Thompson and two children were badly burned, and one of the latter died shortly after being taken from the house. Picking his wife and the remaining child in a henhouse, Thompson set out for a neighbor's, one mile and a quarter away, having only some rags around his feet and head, being otherwise nude, although the mercury was 30 below zero. He reached within 100 yards of the neighbor's house, when he fell exhausted and almost frozen stiff. Fortunately he was seen, and carried into the house and cared for. When assistance reached Mrs. Thompson and child, the frost had added to the torture of their burns, and it is doubtful whether they can survive. Thompson is also in a critical condition.

Previous to this friends are said to have made good the deficiency, and McDonald pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three months in jail. The affair has created considerable excitement throughout Cape Breton.

The administration at Kinchow has been in operation since Dec. 16.

Celebrated His 55th Birthday.

Mr. Gladstone celebrated his 55th birthday, and was the recipient of hundreds of letters and telegrams of congratulations, and parcels containing birthday gifts.

Mr. Gladstone is in remarkably good health and spirits, and despite the stormy weather through the village of Hawarden to the church, where he met a deputation of Armenian Christians from Paris and London. On behalf of Mr. Gladstone, the deputation presented a silver chalice to the church.

The chalice was presented to the Rev. Stephen Gladstone, son of the ex-Premier and rector of the Hawarden Church, in recognition of the interest his father has taken in the Armenian outcasts.

In reply to the presentation address the ex-Premier expressed his sympathy with the suffering of the Armenian Christians. The deputation took luncheon with Mr. Gladstone at Hawarden castle.

The Prince of Wales and Lord Aberdeen were among those who telegraphed their congratulations to Mr. Gladstone.

Mr. Gladstone, in reply to the deputation, said that it was perhaps too early to say that all the allegations of outrage were true, but rather to await the result of inquiry which had been instituted. However, he said the published accounts pointed strongly to the conclusion that the outrages, riots and abominations committed in 1876 in Bulgaria had been repeated in 1894 in Armenia. If this were true, it was time that there should be one general shout of execration against these wicked wrongdoers from humanity.

If the facts were established, it should be written in letters of iron upon the records of the world that a Government which could be guilty of countenancing and covering up such atrocities was a disgrace to civilization at large, and a disgrace to mankind. Mr. Gladstone, continuing, said: "Don't let me be told that one nation has no authority over another. Every nation, great or small, has the right to be governed by the laws of humanity and justice. He had been silent, he said, because he had full confidence that the Government knew its duty. If the allegations made should prove true it was time that the execration of humanity should force itself upon the ears of the Sultan of Turkey and make him sensible of the madness of such a course as was being pursued. Mr. Gladstone spoke for a quarter of an hour. He was remarkably deliberate in his delivery and vigorous in action and gesture, and was loudly cheered as he concluded his remarks.

Mr. Gladstone, in conclusion, said: "The history of Turkey is a sad and painful one. The Turkish race has not been without remarkable, even fine, qualities, but from too many points of view it has been a scourge which the world has made use of by a wise Providence for the sins of the world. If these tales of murder, violation and outrage be true, well then they cannot be overlooked, nor can they be made light of. I have lived to see the Empire of Turkey in Europe reduced to less than one-half what it was when I was born; and why? Simply because of its misdeeds and the great record written by the hand of Almighty God against its injustice, lust and most abominable cruelty. I hope and feel sure that the Government of Great Britain will do everything that can be done to pierce to the bottom this mystery, and make the facts known to the world. If happily, I speak, hoping against hope, the reports be disproved or mitigated, let us thank God. If, on the other hand, they be established, let there be a lesson, however severe it be, that can teach certain people the duty of prudence and the necessity of observing the laws of decency, humanity and justice. If the allegations are true, it is time there should be one general shout of execration against these deeds of wickedness from outraged humanity. If the facts are established it should be written in letters of iron upon the records of the world that a government which could be guilty of countenancing and covering up such atrocities is a disgrace to civilization at large, and a disgrace to mankind. Now, that is strong language, but strong language ought to be used when the facts are strong—[hear, hear]—but strong language ought not to be used without the strength of facts. I have counselled to still and keep your judgments in suspense, but as the evidence grows the case darkens and my hopes dwindle and decline, and as long as I have voice it will utter in behalf of humanity and truth. I wish you heartily every blessing, and also wish with every heartiness prosperity to your nation, however dark the present may seem."

The Whole Crew Went Down.

The British bark Osseo was wrecked in a gale at Holyhead early this morning and with her perished her entire crew of 26 men.

Holyhead breakwater. Her signals of distress were first heard by the coast guard about 4 o'clock in the morning. At that time it was pitch dark, and heavy waves were washing over the breakwater. In spite of the danger of being washed into the sea the guard proceeded along the breakwater, and having rigged up the rocket apparatus began firing life lines in the direction of the wreck. The faint light of the rockets soon discovered the wrecked vessel had broken in two amidships, and the mast had fallen, crushing the lives out of several of the crew. A few survivors could be seen clinging to each half of the vessel, and their piteous cries for help could be heard above the roar of the storm. After many failures the coast guard succeeded in firing a line over the wreck, but by that time all on board had perished. A lifeboat vainly tried to assist and again to approach the wreck, but a vestige of the bark could be seen to-day, and there is no prospect of any salvage. The Osseo was a bark of 1,399 tons. She arrived at Falmouth on Dec. 15 from Talbot, and had been ordered to Antwerp. Reports of stormy weather continue to be received from all parts of Europe. Numerous small wrecks and casualties are reported in Great Britain and Ireland. Many lives were saved by lifeboats. Boats and wreckage washed ashore on the coast of Lancashire indicate that the British bark Loweswater has been lost. She left Falmouth on tow on Dec. 21 with fourteen persons on board. The bawser with which she was being towed parted in a gale, and the tug took refuge at Llandudno on Dec. 22, since which time nothing has been heard of the Loweswater.

The Czar's Envoy Meets the Pope.

Prince Lobloff, the Czar's special envoy, was received by the Pope at noon to-day. After presenting to the Pope an official letter from the Czar, Prince Lobloff said that he was happy to fulfill an office which enabled him to express his veneration for the Pope and to convey the good will of His Majesty the Czar, whose policy was a pacific one. The Pope replied that he always supported the principles of order and peace such as inspired the Czar. The audience was held in the presence of the Papal court, and lasted ten minutes. Afterward the Pope and Prince Lobloff were closeted together for three quarters of an hour. In the evening Cardinal Rampolla, the Pontifical Secretary of State, gave a dinner to Prince Lobloff, M. Izvolsky, the Russian representative at the Vatican, and a number of Cardinals. M. Izvolsky will give a similar dinner on Jan. 1.

Berlin and the South German Capit-

The German Chancellor, Prince Hohenlohe, is arranging to go to Friedrichshafen after the New Year's reception at the palace. The Chancellor's interview with Bismarck will have high political import.

One reason for the Chancellor's pilgrimage to the Baxon forest lies in relations between Berlin and the South German capitals, where Bismarck has great influence. These relations have grown more strained since the Grand Duke of Baden, angered by Count Caprivi's fall, sent a minister to the Courts of Munich and Stuttgart. The recent disturbance of good feeling which Bismarck matured so carefully and which there have been strange rumors in the athletic and social worlds, has really presented no difficulties worth speaking of, compared with the initial darning of the scheme itself, the costume being modelled closely on that of the men.

A French Governor Recalled.

President Casimir-Perier has recalled M. De Lanessan, Governor General of French Indo-China, for permitting unauthorized persons to have access to official and confidential documents. It is supposed that either M. Charles Canivo, the well known editor of Soleil, or M. Armand Rousseau, formerly a member of the Chamber of Deputies, will be appointed as M. De Lanessan's successor.
