The Philadelphia Record got off a great gag on its unsophisticated readers on April I. It printed a whole column capitally worked ur of a supposed twenty-round bare-knuckle fight between McCaffrey and Sullivan for $10,000 given by R.K Fox, who had previously won the money at seven-up, the fight resulting in a draw, each man receiving $5,000. The concluding sentence of the article is: "The fight lasted one hour and twenty-one minutes, and, as Johnny Clark put it when telling the story early this morning, "wouldn't it have been a daisy if it had really come off an hadn't simply been a 1st of April dream?" It would certainly, but space on the Record must be awfully cheap

Sometimes people who are not backers of race-horses or enthusiastic sportsmen hear more about sport than its votaries. As then, I have heard a few items of news that I think will be of interest to racing men and women I give my sporting readers the benefit of my knowledge. I. Although it is not absolutely certain, in all probability St. Simoon will never race again, as he has never recovered from the hammering his legs got on the hand ground at Newcastle, 2. It is more than probable that St. Gatien will never be seen on a race-course again. He has been suffering from a disease something like p euro-pneumonia, that was first taken to Newmarket by the American horses. He nearly recovered, but has recently had a relapse.—London Truth.

In the course of his remarks he said look at the world to-day. Is human nature any better than it was on the day which this day is set apart to commemorate? He drew attention to the host of land speculators intent upon filling their pockets with their thousands, but what had the government done to improve the moral condition of these men who were in open rebellion? They had done nothing and the church had done less than nothing.

Sacred Concert at Elm St The Elm street Methodist church choir gave one of their annual Good Friday concerts last night, the attendance being very large. The choir, under the directorship of Mr. Warrington, had been materially augment d for the occasion, and sang several choruses with fine effect. Mr. R. Sutcliffe, tenor, of New York, who had been brought over for this concert, was well received. His voice is sweet and sympathetic, and his first solo. "Sound the Alarm," (Judas Maccabaeus) was a pleasing effort. Exception might be taken, however, to his method, which, in certain passages, was somewhat jerkey; and in his second solo, "In active Worth," (Creation) this was more noticable, and the beauty of the solo was in consequence not so fully brought out. Mrs. Lawrence, Miss Hardman, Miss Berryn an, vir. Warrington and Master also sang solos, and their pleasing efforts carned for them due recognition on the part of the addence. Mrs. Blight, who played the accopaniments in good taste, gave Flowtow's overture. "Stradella," with vigor, and was heartily applauded, The concert was a decided success.

Editor World: In your editorial "The Best Man Must Go," you do a great injustice to Col. Williams, M.P., of Port Hope. Your information of him must have been derived from some unfriendly source of you would not have spoken of Col. Wil-nams as you did. I have known him for the past quarter of a century—for the past fifteen years very intimately—and I can say fearlessly that no more competent, efficient militia officer is connected with he force in Canada to-day than Col. Wil tiams. At duty's call he has always been first in the field. In the fenian scare of first in the field. In the fenian scare of 1866 Col. Williams was one of the first at the front with his battalion, the gallant 40th, and if you will look back to that period you will find he occupied Sandwich for about six months. On other occasions he has not been found lagging behind, and in the recent emergency of the mother's country, he was the first to offer his services to go to the Sondan. It is not therefore sur to the Soudan. It is no, therefore, sur prising to find that he should be one of the peace and safety of the Dominion is threatened. Col. Williams is one of the most popular as well as efficient officers in the Dominion, and as the first officers in the Dominion, and as he has devoted great deal of his time and means in cor nection with the militia, unfair criticiso nection with the militia, unfair criticism through the press is a poor return to make to him for the many sacrifices he has made.
