THE BRIEF ACCOUNT OF THE SIX RICHEST MENIN THE WORLD.

How They Made Fortunes Which Aggre-

In a former article we gave a brief account of the rise of three of the world's richest men. These included Li Hung Chang, the Chinamen who is reputed to be worth $500,000,000; Col North, worth $100,000,000; and the Duke of Westminster, whose possessions are valued at the same figure. This article will deal with the other three o the sextette, whose combined wealth exceeds one thousand million dollars. Years ago, when the oil excitemen was the talk of the country, fortunes were made and lost. The days of Coal Oil Johnny may never return again, but in all the history of the world there never was an instance when paupers became millionaires so rapidly as then. John D. Rockefeller made his vast fortune, which is estimated at over $180,000,000, out of oil as easily as the farmer's wife gets pin money from her chickens. The Vanderbilt money as inherited and the system bearing the name, is supposed to be worth near three hundred millions, of which this favored son owns a third. While he is some what of a society man, Cornellus Vanderbilt does not care for that kind o life, except for the pleasure it gives his family. He finds most pleasure it the quiet of his library. He wants to be left severely alone. He enjoys par-ticularly a month's walk in the Swiss Tyrol or a vacation in the wildernesses of the Norwegian forests. While he is a subscriber to all the social gayeties at Newport, Trouville and other resorts, he does it more for the social position of his children than
