Basil Gault, Gunner Geo. Parker, Gunner Clare Fuller.

Dear Boys:—It is with feelings of great pride that we, the members of your Sunday School and friends of this community have gathered here tonight for the purpose of expressing in some small way our appreciation of the noble stand you have taken. We feel that in taking this stand you are going forth to defend the homes and families of this community and we therefore feel it our duty to take this opportunity to express our deep gratitude and pride in the noble sacrifice you are making. As a slight token of our respect and esteem, we beg of you to accept these testimonials as a remembrance from the Sunday School, and these companions on behalf of the friends and neighbors of the community. May they ever be a reminder to you that the best wishes and prayers of the people at home go with you. We trust that our Heavenly Father may guard and protect you and we all join in wishing you a safe and speedy return to our midst. Signed on behalf of Zion Methodist Sunday School and friends and neighbors of the 2nd line south, MRS. JOHN PARKER, Mr. T. A. GAVLE, Mr. J. E. COLLIER.

The boys made a reply thanking their friends, and then all joined in singing "They are jolly good fellows". Lunch was then served and a social hour spent together and the evening was closed by the singing of "God be with you till we meet again", and the National Anthem. Gunners Geo. Parker and Clare Fuller left by auto for London; from there they took the early morning train for Petawawa.

For literally shooting trees to death a pistol has been invented by an Englishman that fires steel bolts into their limbs to tear out the living cores.

A stalk of corn grown on the farm of Mrs. Robt. Bell, R. R. Camden, was brought The Herald Monday. It measured 14 feet 6 in from the root to the end of the tassel. While getting some hay from the mow one day last week, Mr. Stanley Mills, con. 3, had the misfortune to stick the fork in his side, injuring himself severely. It appears that when he was through using the fork, he threw it into the side of the hay, and, in doing so, it rebounded, with the above results.

Where Thomas Yale Rests.

In the new American army there are many officers whose alma mater is Yale college, and some of them regard Wrexham, in North Wales, as a place of almost personal interest. For it is there that Thomas Yale, who inaugurated the great seat of American learning, was buried, and it is interesting to recall that in the early nineties a root of ivy from his grave was sent to Professor Phelps, formerly the American minister in London, to plant against the college building.

Are Aviators Born?

There was a time when it was held that a man must be especially born for aeronautic duties. Experience has brought out the fact that the average young man can make an excellent aviator. "Captains" Guyener, Major Bishop, Captain William Thaw, Captain Ball of the Lafayette escadrille, and practically all the famous aviators were not men who impressed anybody with being different from other men.

Of the thousands of allied aviators there are probably not five hundred men who had seen more than a few months of military service before joining the air service. Most of them had never seen any military service.

In planning an organization for the selection and training of aviators, the aircraft board and the signal corps of the United States have had to prepare to deal entirely with men who had never seen military service, as other countries have done.—Henry Woodhouse in Everybody's.

Americanisms in Britain.

Lord Derby, in advising us not to "get rattled," has added another word to our war vocabulary, or, at any rate, given an old word a new meaning. In this sense "rattled" is an Americanism, and we remember reading an article by W. D. Howells some thirty years ago, in which he said he was not very easily rattled. Of course we have used the word in this country with other meanings for many centuries; even Pepys relates on one occasion how he rattled his wife, but that was more in the nature of grumbling, while Lord Derby evidently intends us not to get alarmed or excited, which is the real American sense of the word.—London Chronicle.

Phosphorescence on the Moon?

Several European observers of the total lunar eclipse of July 4-5, 1917, have reported that the brightness of the lunar disk appeared much greater around the limb than near the center. These observations lead M. A. Nodon of Bordeaux to revive a suggestion that has sometimes been made to account for the brilliancy of certain lunar craters; viz., that the surface of the moon may possess a luminosity of its own in the nature of phosphorescence. In that case, perspective would increase the apparent luminosity toward the limb.—Scientific American.

Our Ladies' Coats

are a grand collection.

A VOLUMINOUS COLLAR that wraps cosily around the throat and is usually of fur, and panels at the sides or front—these in a nutshell are the new features in the styles of the coats for Autumn and Winter.

Sometimes the belt passes all round, but more often than not it appears in the front only, and the back is loose or cleverly panelled.

And very charming they are—very graceful and slender-looking with their long, straight lines, and equally captivating the modish colors and materials.

The former are browns of many shades, particularly noteworthy being the new reindeer; dark greens, Pekin and navy blues, and wines.

The prices run from $15.00 to $35.00, and each and every garment will cost considerable more for repeat orders.

Head Cut off in Threshing Machine

Port Hope, Aug. 30.—Fred Albert James, aged thirteen years, a ward of the Port Hope Shelter met a horrible death yesterday afternoon. The little fellow made his home with Mr. Wm. Morton at Osaca, and yesterday when Mr. Morton went over to Mr. Geo. Smell's farm to thresh he went with him. The threshing was proceeding merrily, and the boy was quite interested in the work, and climbed upon the machine to get a better view, but missed his footing, and toppled into the blower. He came in contact with the fan, and the top of his head was completely cut off, one arm was broken and he suffered numerous other injuries. Dr. Alrich rushed to the scene of the accident, but the little fellow had passed away before he arrived.

Remember the Sailors of the Merchant Marine!

This week has been set aside as "Sailors' Week" all over Canada. Watford will do its share!

At a representative meeting held in the Public Library Wednesday evening, at which Col. Kenward was appointed Chairman and J. W. McLaren Secretary-Treasurer, it was decided to make a canvass of Watford and vicinity in aid of the widows and orphans of the sailors. The objective has been placed at $500.00 by the meeting but it is hoped that much more will be raised. The village has been divided into sections and canvassers have been appointed for each section.

Canvassers will call FRIDAY of this week and people are asked to have their contributions ready.

Considering the debt we owe Our Sailors it is hoped that all will give freely—especially as no contributions have been given here for over two years.

The Committee ask the people of the surrounding country to join with them in making this a generous offering and have requested the Ministers to give an opportunity in their several Churches on Sunday to make donations to this cause.

THE CAUSE IS A NEEDY ONE;
GIVE UNTIL YOU FEEL IT!
