

POLITICAL SCIENCE

(including Federal-Provincial Relations)

Introductory Works

1. Richer, J.C. and Saywell, J.T. How Are We Governed? Toronto, Clarke-Irwin, 1969.

A useful introductory text for junior students.

2. White, W.L., Wagenberg and Nelson. An Introduction to Canadian Politics and Government. Toronto, Holt 1972.

A somewhat more advanced text for beginning students.

3. Dawson, R. MacGregor and Ward, Norman. The Government of Canada. 5th ed. Toronto, University of Toronto Press, 1970.

A standard, substantial work on the institutions of government in Canada.

4. Van Loon, R.J. and Whittington, M.S. The Canadian Political System. Toronto, McGraw-Hill, 1971.

Recently adopted as a basic text in many introductory university courses in Canada. Follows a systems analysis approach to the processes of government and politics.

5. Corry, J.A. Democratic Government and Politics. 3rd ed. Toronto, University of Toronto Press, 1959.

Another solid, standard work, written some years ago, with coverage less full than that by Dawson.

6. Government of Canada. The Constitution and the People of Canada. Ottawa, Queen's Printer, 1969.

A useful brief book explaining the constitution in readily understandable terms.

7. Meekison, H.C. (ed.) Canadian Federalism: Myth or Reality? 2nd ed. Toronto, Methuen, 1971.

Views and interpretations of the federal system.

8. Smiley, D.V. The Canadian Political Nationality. Toronto and London. Methuen, 1967.

Insights of a leading Canadian political scientist.
