These results have been published in various medical journals and in instances given to medical meetings here and abroad. Prof. Calmette of the Pasteur Institute, Lille, France, has independently made the same observation, his conclusions in many details are strikingly similar to my own and predict that marked advances will be gained by further study. Urtfortunately, my department lacks the organization for testing whether or not the principles underlying the production of this antibody mean that we define the same attempt was made to apply this reaction to tuberculosis, but the results were quite uncertain and unsatisfactory.

Dr. Caulfeild, who was thoroly familiar with the reaction when we went to Gravenhurst, proceeded to try and find this investigation he discovered a new reaction, which is incorporated in his report. It direct clinical application he indicated in his address at the Academy of Medicine, Buffalo. An interesting point in regard to it is that independently of Dr. Caulfeild, Prof.

Dr. Caulfeild of the pathological department in the Muskoka Cottage Sanitarium at Gravenhurst is one of the quiet workers who has achieved remarkable results. A more extended account of Dr. Caulfeild's researches has been given by Prof. J. J. Mackenzie of the chair of pathology and bacteriology in a letter to W. J. Gage, chairman of the executive committee of the National Sanitarium Association.

I have been following Dr. Caulfelld's work in the National Sanitarium Association with very great interest from the beginning, and during the winter I went up to Gravenhurst and arranged for Dr. Caulfelld to demonstrate to me the reactions which he has been applying to the cases of tuberculosis in the sanitarium.

It is perhaps somewhat difficult to present briefly to the layman the importance of Dr. Caulfelld's work, but I may be able to give some idea in regard to it by a short statement of what the status of immunilogical work has been in regard to tuberculosis up to the present time.

Since the introduction of Kcch's Tuberculin, all laboratory workers who were interested in tuberculosis have attempted to find some reaction in the tuberculosis patient which would give an indication of how the disease was
