Splendid Speeches Featured Big Gathering Held Here Last Evening.

The Life Underwriters' Association of London gathered for its twelfth annual festive event at the Tecumseh House last night. There was a large House last night. There was a large turnout of members and inany women. Several out-of-town insurance workers were present, and interesting tales of the profession, interesting advice and statistics made the event a fruitful one for all. The officers of the association provided an excellent musical program, Mrs. T. G. Coleman and E. Wilmer being well received in their solos. The speeches were of an instructive nature for the most part. Patriotic utterances were not lacking. Optimistic predictions that the Allied arms on the western front would ultimately dominate the Hun were applauded to the echo.

Many Speeches.

The repast provided was an excellent one, and was followed by speeches by Mayor Somerville, Principal Rogers of the Collegiate, T. H. Purdom, president one, and very resident Wilson and Vice the Northern Life Insurance Company, and President Parkes of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada. President T. B. Parkinson of the local association acted as toastmaster.

Mayor Somerville, President for the Northern Life Insurance Company, and President Parkes of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada. President T. B. Parkinson of the local association acted as toastmaster.

Mayor Somerville featured his remarks with the declaration that he considered it a big mistake for the city to take in the annexed district. He first outlined the city's progress since 1855, which had been gradually upward. However, at the present its clothes are far too big for it; in other words, on its present plans it was too large. Improve G. T. R. Depot.

The mayor spoke of the G. T. R. depot, and hoped that some day there may be a union depot—or at least a new G. T. R. depot. "People never die of joy," and miracles have happened, were two of his remarks.

In telling the outsiders more of the city, he said London enjoys two seasons, summer and winter, the other two being by-products. two being by-products.

London's Spiendid Schools.

Mr. Rogers, in speaking of "Our Educational Institutions," said the schools of London opened the eyes of the provincial inspector. He had never seen such fine schools as there are here. Principal Rogers declared they were equal if not superior to any in Canada. As to the studies, he said that he would like to change some of the present day methods. "We are too strong on tradition and adverse to meeting present day methods."

He did not think the present day scholar should pay so much attention to the classics. "This is a modern world and we must use modern methods. We must keep pace. I am afraid we are too conservative." Mr. Rogers predicted that the time was not far distant when there will be a closer opproximation of the needs of the present day.

GET RID OF HUMORS

Have this. He must look at everything favorable on his side.

Mr. Purdom said that there was talk that after the war there would be greater co-operation, that selfish strife would disappear. The speaker declared he hoped so to a very great extent. He hoped the war would soon be over, and opportunity will be ours. No one can see what our great future is. Will the twentieth century surprises be the equal twentieth century surprises be the equal of those of the nineteenth? Will there be surprises such as the stage coach be surprises such as the stage coach giving way to the present day transportation, sailing ships to steamships, the candle to electricity? He said it was predicted that this continent would have 300,000,000 of people at the end of this century. Then how great will be our opportunities. They are boundless, declared the speaker. We will have great companies. They will outlive the largest of our present day companies.

started about forty years ago in the United States and sixteen years ago in Canada. The start was made with small associations, and the Dominion association started in 1906. Great benefits have been derived, and interest holds strong.

Teach in Colleges.

He predicted that it would not be long before life insurance would become a part of the curriculum of the colleges and schools. This he said would make it much better for the insurance men of the day.

Mr. Wilson handed out some strong advice to the individual members, and also urged that the local association keep their meetings going full swing, keep up the interest and make the association stronger.

Insurance Figures.

Vice-President T. J. Parkes, Sherbrooke, Que., gave some decidedly interesting figures on the insurance business in Canada and the United States. Today there is one and a half billions in insurance, made up of 2,000,000 policies. Since 1879 there has been paid out in Canada $400,000,000 in insurance music.

He spoke of the troublesome times of 1903 to 1907, which was the period of the famous insurance investigation. Since these dark days insurance has never done so well. He touched on the kaiser's claim that the first Canadian contingent had been wiped out. This, he said, was untrue. One company had seven and a half million dollars of insurance claims on men in the contingent; only 26.2 per cent had been paid up to the end of 1916.

Another great boost which insurance received was when the United States Government undertook to insure its million or more soldiers. They will pay $8. It is estimated that it will cost $80 a thousand, and the man at home must pay the other $72, and, said the speaker, "rightly so."

BILLIE, Q.—1. What is the salary of a gunner of the R. N. Volunteers of Canada patrolling in Canadian Yaters?

2. Are the R. N. W. M. P. exempt from service under the M. S. A.?

A.—1. The seamen receive $1.10 per day, and separation allowance is provided at the same rate as in the C. E.

F., if required. A gunner, a signalman, or a cook would get extra pay for his additional qualifications. No recruits are being accepted at present for that branch.
2. They are not exempt by the terms of the act, though they might be ex-empted by the tribunals, as other po-licemen have been, when they were found to be needed more in their pres-ent position than in the army.

R. B. Q.—I am a banker, and was placed in A2. The bank obtained exemption for me until May 1. On seeing the decision of Justice Duff re bank clerks, I signed up with a Toronto battery, but on being examined was placed in B2, and therefore rejected. What am I to do? Can I be called under the M. S. A., or am I exempt until B2 is called? A.—Men in category B2 have now been called to the colors under the M. S. A. You will be called at the expiration of your exemption, unless you are S. A. You will be called at the expira-tion of your exemption, unless you are applying for and obtain an extension. If you are called up, you will be exam-ined, and if in A will be placed in a combatant unit, and if in B, will be posted to a non-combatant unit.

Arthur White, president of George White & Sons Company, stated that owing to certain continuous processes in connection with their work, they could not close down one hour a day without losing a lot of material and half a day's time in that department. Manager E. V. Buchanan of the utilities commission then outlined the reasons why it had been found necessary to order a closing down of the current.

C. R. Hunt of Hunt's Mills stated that every time the mill closed down it meant approximately the loss of 50 bushels of wheat. The processes had to be continuous, otherwise the wheat would be useful only as a stock food.
