CEMETERY ROADS WOULD BE COSTLY LAMBTON PARK HONORS ITS DEAD

Prospect Thorofares Estimated at Forty Thousand Dollars Each.

Roadways thru Prospect Cemetery for pedestrian and wheeled traffic was the subject of considerable discussion at a well attended meeting of the North York and East York ratepayers' association recently held in the club house, Harvie avenue.

Reeve Ericson pointed out that the cost of two roads thru from North Eastcourt to Silverthorn would cost $80,000 or $40,000 each, an excessive price, and would not allow the cemetery trust to allow the board walk at present used by the residents thru the cemetery, north of Morrison avenue to remain open, but a roadway at this point is as much a benefit to the City of Toronto as the township for pupils attending Hughes' school on Castledonian road. Mr. Miller cautioned that the city should take the matter up in the interest of the citizens of Eastcourt.

Interesting addresses illustrated by limelight views were given by Wynn Roberts and Frank Barber, town-sup engineers, explaining the trunk sewers and work of construction in the western section. It was pointed out that the sewer and water mains are the biggest of its kind in any municipality in Canada.

Regarding the inauguration of the Hydro-Electric power for the western section and the threat of the Toronto electric power already in operation to shut off their power, these matters will receive the attention of the reeve and council.

EAST END ALIVE WITH HAPPY THRONG

From an early hour yesterday, the residents of the eastern section of the city were on holiday bent, the main thorofares being alive with a ceaseless stream of men, women and children, wending their way to out-of-town points and amusement centres, the civic and Toronto Railway Company cars carrying capacity loads continuously during the morning hours, and an endless stream of motor cars and wheeled vehicles passed along Danforth avenue, the Bloor street viaduct, East Queen street, East Gerrard street, and other main arteries in both directions. The crowds at the corner of Broadview and Danforth were admirably handled by the traffic officers stationed at these points.

Riverdale Park was patronized with thousands of visitors, as also were Withrow, Monarch and other parks in the eastern district.

Long lines of waiting patrons stood patiently for admittance to the thronged theatres, and many dances and socials were held at various public halls and assembly rooms. The weather was ideal and displays of fireworks by groups of children thruout the evening brought a happy day to a close.

Memorial to Ten Heroes of War Consists of Tree Planted for Each.

About a thousand men, women and school children gathered at Lambton Park School yesterday afternoon to honor the ten of their boys who had fallen in the battlefields of France in the last war. Nine of the ten were married men. The memorial was under the management of the ratepayers' association, President C. Adams acting as chairman.

The Lambton branch of the G. W. V. A., 40 strong, co-operated with the ratepayers, and the ladies' auxiliary supplied refreshments.

The memorial was in the form of the planting of trees in front of the school grounds, a tree for each of the fallen men. Col. J. A. Currie, M.P., planted those on the west of the school entrance and Sergt.-Major McNamara those on the east.

The Salvation Army band of West Toronto, many of whom had served with the fallen comrades overseas, were present upon invitation, and played "The Dead March in Saul" while the trees were being set. Besides the devotional music, led by the S. A. band, and special selections by the band itself, the children, among whom were sons and daughters, brothers and sisters of the honored dead, sang sweetly in their turn. Led on by Principal C. E. Sprout, who was for 12 years a major with the 84th The Last Post was sounded. One minute's silence after a short dedication prayer by Rev. A. Simpson, of St. John's Church, marked the close of the memorial. The invocation was made by Captain Currie, of the Salvation Army.

"I feel lost for words to express the depth of feelings within me at the present time," said Sergt.-Major McNamara, rising to express gratitude for the opportunity given him to assist in the planting of the memorial. "Many of the men whose names you have just read belonged to my own individual detachment, and I myself have been thru some of the actions with those who will never return."

Do Not Understand. Speaking of those who had returned maimed and crippled, Sergt.-Major McNamara stated: "The general public sometimes sympathizes with us, and sometimes they do not understand us." He paid tribute to the sympathy of the women however, and the part they were playing. In tender words he charged the boys and girls to take care of the trees that were planted. They would learn to know that their fathers and brothers had made it possible for the world to be free from the curse of militarism.

Col. J. A. Currie had been glad to come from Ottawa. "In looking over the lists of men it was now known that Suburban Toronto had supplied 90 per cent of the city's men of military age. I had men belonging to my regiment from here and know how they fought for freedom."

Referring briefly to the beginning of the war, the Colonel said that the hand of God alone saved the day where 200,000 men found themselves in front of one division. "There is someone who moves in a mysterious way."

"Many people think things should go on as they used to do," he continued, referring to reconstruction. "It is a mistake to think that for everything is changed. But there is plenty for all of us to drive in cars and enjoy ourselves." He advised the Old Country born residents of Canada to tell their brothers and sisters that Canadians were the most quiet and self-possessed people in the world.

"I do not approve of those programs of taxation," he said, taking a turn at politics for the moment.

Deputy Reeve W. M. Graham, of York Township, presented two medals from the ratepayers' association, to Pte. W. A. Parker and Pte. John Brown, these men having been omitted when their comrades received their medals. Mr. Graham believed no new stores opening. Evidently a war record like the Lambton section.

RICHMOND HILL IN GALA ARRAY

Ideal Weather Makes Spring Fair One of Most Successful Held.

Under ideal weather conditions and before a crowd of close to four thousand, made-up of village folk, farmers, their wives and families, all attired in their best for the occasion, the annual fair of the Richmond Hill Agricultural Society was held yesterday on their own grounds. After one managed to secure entrance into the grounds which were packed with jolly-jostling good-natured holiday crowd, the first thing that met his eye was the midway, with its games of chance, ice cream booths, games, etc., around which numerous little crowds were eagerly awaiting their chance to try their luck or to purchase the dainties that were spread for their approval.

The more sedate members of the crowd were to be found in the live stock building, which housed the pride of many a farmer for miles around. Shetland ponies, Hackney stallions rubbed noses and were patted. Holsteins and Jerseys were all there in their glory, as were also sheep and pigs. In the centre of the large oval, the judging of the stock took place under the watchful eyes of hundreds of critical farmers.
