Announcement!

We take pleasure in announcing to the public of St. John the fact that we have purchased and have taken over from May 21st the store, stock and fixtures of the Philip's Stores at the corner of Douglas Avenue and Main Street.

Our intention is to operate there a grocery store that will rank second to none in the lower provinces both in point of service and price. The cash system of selling will be introduced entirely—no charge accounts. By eliminating charge accounts we remove the greatest cause for high price. Cash selling requires no bookkeeping, cuts out bad debts; and by buying for cash we can secure the lowest net prices which we pass on to the consumer.

The location is in every way highly desirable, and the capacity of the store is sufficient to make the quicker turn over more than compensate for any additional expense a store larger than either of our present stores would entail.

The store of E. Roy Robertson at 599 Main street, and that of Harold C. Robertson at 554 Main street, will close after May 31st. In the mean time the three stores are prepared to serve you promptly, courteously and at the lowest prices.

ROUMANIAN PLOT IN INTERESTS OF SEPARATE PEACE DISCOVERED

Odessa, May 21.—According to the Odessky Listok secret correspondence has recently been carried on between a group of influential Roumanians resident in Jassy and others who remained in Bucharest with regard to terms of peace with Germany. Copies of the correspondence are stated to be in the hands of Mikuloff, Russian war minister. The journal states that the existence of these intrigues was known to War Minister Gulevich. From trustworthy Roumanian sources, however, it is informed that the correspondence from Bucharest was dictated by Germans. No doubt must be entertained with regard to the prevailing sentiment both of the Roumanian people and the army, which remains loyal to the Russian alliance. While German soldiers are endeavoring to fraternize with Russian revolutionaries all along the frontier, German aeroplanes have been engaged in killing Russian workmen and others at Kilia, at the mouth of the Danube. Five aeroplanes were shot in the attack.

HINTS FOR GARDENING

(By W. Saxby Blair, Supt. Experimental Station, N. S.)

CABBAGE

Any good garden soil will grow cabbage. A warm, well drained sandy loam, very rich in plant food, is best for early cabbage. A northern exposure is best for late cabbage and a heavy soil may be used. The cabbage is a gross feeder and the ground too rich. Twenty tons or more per acre of manure can be used, and this may be supplemented with from 500 to 1,500 pounds of commercial fertilizer for an acre. Commercial fertilizer is especially advisable for early cabbage where the object is to develop marketable cabbage quickly.

If the ground has been manured in the fall and ploughed, it should be again ploughed in the spring and thoroughly worked to a depth of six inches. For early cabbage start the seed about March 15. The seedlings are transplanted to two inches apart three weeks later, and will be ready for the open ground early in May. The plants are usually set on the level in rows thirty inches apart and eighteen inches apart in the row. Late cabbage are usually grown from seed sown thinly in a cold frame early in May and plants from these are set in the field about the middle of June, spacing the plants in rows thirty-two inches apart and twenty to twenty-two inches apart in the row.

The usual maintenance tillage should be given during the summer, and the ground not allowed to become hard and compact or to dry out. In the storing of late cabbage cut the heads during a dry day and store where good ventilation is possible. The air should be kept dry and the temperature as low as possible. The heads should be placed on slatted shelves far enough apart to store two or three tiers of cabbage, with a good chance for ventilation under the shelves. A confined atmosphere renders cabbage storage impossible.

CAULIFLOWER

The cauliflower requires a cool, rich loam. A northern exposure is best. Continuous growth is important, and anything that tends to check the plant in any way should be avoided. Dry weather often results in failure, and where watering is possible it may be advisable. For early and late cauliflower start the seed and handle the same as for early and late cabbage, except that more careful attention should be given to detail in the development of plants. Like the cabbage, it takes about seven weeks to develop a stocky, properly headed plant. They may be spaced in the field the same as cabbage. When the heads are three to four inches in diameter the leaves should be tied together over the head in order to develop a good white flower.

TURNIPS

The early turnips may be sown as soon as the ground is fit, in well prepared soil. The Swede turnip should be sown about the last of May. They do best on a good loam retentive of moisture. Continuous growth is necessary to develop good quality. Like most of the root crops, they develop best during the damp, cool fall weather, and the advantage of late sowing is that they make little growth during the hot summer, developing a succulent tissue in the fall. Swede turnips planted early are very liable to be checked in growth during the heat of the summer, developing a root containing much fibre, and lacking in quality.

DEATH RATE IN THE CANADIAN FORCES

One Man Out of Every Seven According to Life Insurance Actuaries

New York, May 21.—That the loss of life among Canadian troops on the battlefields of Europe has been as high as one man in every seven was indicated today from reports of representatives of insurance companies in the Dominion, who are delegates to the convention of the Actuarial Association of America, at the Hotel Astor.

The highest mortality has been in the infantry service, where, some of the actuaries said, the death rate at times reached 20 per cent. The lowest is in the medical corps.

Canadian and other insurance companies doing business in the Dominion paid out nearly $7,000,000 in claims up to December 31, 1916, according to A. B. Wood, actuary of the Sun Life Insurance Company.

"The war rates of the Canadian companies run from $75 to $150 a thousand per year to men in service in Europe," he said. "At the outbreak of the war $80 a thousand was charged, but as soon as the casualties began to come it was realized that this was too low and the rates were advanced."

"All the Canadian companies have protected the policies that were in force when the war began," said Mr. Wood. "They charged no extra premiums on these. At that time most of the companies charged no extra premiums on new policies for service within the country. The difficulty in fixing a war rate was that we had no definite basis to work on, for this war is unlike any other, most of the mortality being caused by battle and very little by disease."

A surprising thing about the war, he said, was that it had made the general public realize how valuable a thing insurance is. The result was that the companies, despite the millions they had paid out since the war began, were using a larger business than ever in their history.

"The companies have been able to meet all their obligations, and have not found it necessary to make any changes in their dividends to policy-holders," Mr. Wood added. "War has popularized insurance, and made the once unwelcome insurance solicitor a friend, who is received with open arms."

"It is remarkable to think that, despite the fact that more than 400,000 of our best young men have gone to the front, or are on their way there, there has been a big increase in our business each year over the previous year."
