

REVOLUTION IN PORTUGAL IS CRUSHED

Martial Law Proclaimed in City and Province—A Few Wounded.

LISBON, July 20.—An unsuccessful revolution ended with complete victory for the Government Sunday after violent street fighting which compelled the application of martial law to the whole of Lisbon province.

Fighting began Saturday night when a group of officers, led by Captain Balthazar, escaped from the San Juliao fortress, where they had been confined for participating in the bloody revolution of last April and attempted to seize the capital.

MARTIAL LAW DECREED.

The fighting continued during the night and martial law was proclaimed Sunday. The revolutionists took refuge in the telephone office. The militant officers, insurgent citizens who had aided them, and some members of the crew of the cruiser Vasco Gama were finally arrested by the authorities. Other revolutionists resisted and were wounded in an exchange of fire.

With President Teixeira Gomes' authority, the Government called out the Republican guard, surrounded the telephone office and issued an ultimatum that the revolutionists surrender or be bombed.

BULK OF NAVY AWAY.

Only the cruiser Vasco Gama remains at Lisbon, the other units of the navy having proceeded to Lagos for maneuvers. The Minister of Marine is at Lagos.

The latest revolutionary disturbance before the present outbreak occurred in April, when a street fight before a restaurant grew into an attempt at revolution which was put down finally by the use of artillery. The revolutionists had taken refuge in a building where they were surrounded and shelled by government troops. Subsequently 200 of the revolutionists were transported aboard a warship. Armed political eruptions have occurred in Portugal with unpleasant regularity since former King Manuel was compelled to relinquish his throne more than ten years ago. Cabinet changes have been frequent. The Portuguese Government resigned last Friday after holding office a month.

EARL HAIG'S PARTY SEES BEAR FIGHT

Lt.-Col. Clarke Drives Off From Jasper Park Tee and Brains Rend Ball.

JASPER, Alta., July 19.—What golf rule covers this? Lt.-Col. F. F. Clarke, D. S. O., a member of the party accompanying Field Marshal Earl Haig across Canada, per Park Lodge golf course Saturday afternoon just at the moment when a big brown bear had decided to amble across the fairway about 150 yards ahead.

The ball landed in front of him, who immediately gave chase to it. In the woods another bear had his curiosity aroused by the antics of his fellow creature and he also gave chase to the ball. Both bears reached it at almost the same moment and fought for its possession.

They waged a battle royal while excited members of the party looked on. When the strife was over there was left only a few shreds of gutta percha. Members of the Earl's party are debating whether or not new rules will have to be added to those covering the royal and ancient game for the sole benefit of the Jasper Park Lodge course.

E. A. SMITH DIES WHILE ASLEEP

Watchman, Absent From Post, Escapes Injury—No Fatalities.

CHICAGO, July 19.—A terrific explosion of 125,000 gallons of gasoline and oil aboard a barge of the Texas Company anchored in the north branch of the Chicago River at noon today caused damage estimated at $200,000 and occasioned a near panic among residents of the congested district bordering the river.

The barge and tug alongside it were destroyed, nearby factories were damaged and flaming gasoline turned the river into an inferno that threatened to consume docks and bridges and spread destruction over a wide area. Jacob Jabersek, a watchman, first reported killed and later found unhurt.

SMALL BOY FOUND.

A small boy was found wandering about the street Saturday morning and taken to police headquarters where he was later called for by his mother.

EXCELLED AS MARKSMAN.

Mr. Smith's death will be regretted all over Canada, where he had many friends through his business, his literary ability and his interest in sport. It was said of him a few days ago by one who went on several trips to his home in England with him that he was the best shot in Saint John.

He was a member of the Saint John rifle company and later became captain, following Major J. Twining Hart. When the company amalgamated with the 2nd Fusiliers he continued as captain and under his leadership it retained its former marksmanship efficiency.

BORN IN ST. ANDREWS.

Mr. Smith was born in St. Andrews, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Smith. He leaves, besides his wife, one sister, Miss Otis Smith, and three brothers, Herbert, George and Melville, all residing in California, whom he and Mrs. Smith visited two years ago.

The funeral will be held from his late residence to Greenwood church Tuesday afternoon for service and interment will take place in the beautiful cemetery overlooking the bay, beyond the Algonquin Hotel.

NOTED IN GOLF AND CURLING.

Mr. Smith excelled in golf and curling. He won a cup last year at St. Andrews in a sharply contested series of golf games. He was past president of the St. Andrews Curling Club and won many trophies. It was, however, in his shooting that he was most proficient and it is stated without question by his friends here that he held more trophies, medals and badges for exceptional skill in the use of the rifle on the range than any other citizen of Saint John.

"What he did he did thoroughly," was said of him today and this quality of doing things well was carried into his business, which he made a great success. He had a composure and steadiness of mind which stood him in this as it did in shooting, one said. He was president of the Smith Brokerage Company, which carried on actively, with occasional trips from him, on his trips to and from St. Andrews.

He began his business career in a government office at Fredericton. He later was in commercial life for a time as a traveler for a firm in Montreal. Then he became junior partner with Harding and Smith, which became Smith and Tilton and finally the Smith Brokerage Co., Ltd., of Saint John.

MOUNTAIN LION SAVES MAN'S LIFE

Indian, After Falling 200 Feet, Lands on Animal and Lives.

BANFF, Alta., July 19.—A mountain lion saved the life of Yellowstone, a Stoney Sioux Indian, north of here, it was learned today.

The Indian with a number of his tribesmen was on his way from Wabamun Lake to take part in the Banff Indian day ceremonies on July 23. They left their horses in the foothills to be brought here through the pass by the Bears Paw hand of Stoney, and attempted to make the remainder of the journey afoot across the Fairholm range of mountains. As they were rounding a narrow mountain sheep ledge several thousand feet above the valley, Yellowstone's foot slipped and he went hurtling to what appeared to be a rocky grave nearly 200 feet below.

Ghost skin, another Stoney, who was walking directly behind him, succeeded in lowering himself to the pit below 20 minutes later and he found his companion sitting with his head in his hands, his nose bleeding, but otherwise unhurt. Beside him lay the crushed remains of a seven-foot mountain lion, whose hairy body was badly mired up with that of a half eaten mountain goat. The lion had apparently been feeding on the goat when the Indian's body struck it. Yellowstone has reached here none the worse for his miraculous escape from death.

"Is it as bad as all that?"

"I feel terrible," he groaned. "And the worst part about it is that I have to pay this same penalty after almost every meal I eat."

"I used to be up against the same thing," his friend sympathized. "When I think of all the indigestion cures I tried, I gasp. Why, I used to be a regular walking apothecary shop. But never real relief. Until just recently I hit on something new."

"In the name of humanity, please tell me."

"It's the simplest thing you could think of," he went on. "Peppermint—you know, the same using our grandmothers used to use. But I have it in a new and really convenient form—Pep-o-mint Life Savers, the little candy mints with the hole. Here's a package—try them."

It sounds very simple and old-fashioned. But Pep-o-mint Life Savers really do the trick. Try them after meals when that heavy, lousy feeling comes over you—or to relieve the gnawing distress of indigestion.

Pep-o-mint is displayed at all good stores so you may help yourself; also Wint-o-green, Cinn-o-mon, Lic-o-vice, Cl-o-ve and Vi-o-let. —Life Savers, Limited, Prescott, Ont.
