DORY AND DEAD FISHERMAN PICKED UP BY PRINCE ARTHUR ON WAY HERE

Body is Turned Over to the U. S. Consul for Return to Boston.

The Eastern Steamship liner Prince Arthur, which arrived in port this morning, reported picking up a dory containing the dead body of a fisherman, while en route here from Boston. There were no marks on the boat or clothing of the unfortunate man to identify him, who is about 30 years of age and from appearance was taken to be an Italian or a Portuguese. Death had apparently been from exhaustion or exposure.

The body was picked up yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock, when the liner was approximately 18 miles east of Cape Anne, on the Massachusetts coast. At that time Second Officer Nickerson, who was on duty on the bridge, noticed the dory floating some distance away and changed the course of the steamer to come up to it. As they approached the small craft he saw a body in it and immediately notified the captain.

When the liner came alongside, First Officer Charles Burke ordered the ladder put over the side and then went to make the dory secure so that it could be hoisted on board. After the violent storm of Tuesday night the seas were running high and choppy and as a result he had a hard task preventing himself from being dashed against the side of the steamer or having his hold torn from the rope. Before he succeeded in making all fast he was on the point of exhaustion.

Dead Six Hours.
When the dory was hoisted to the deck a wireless message was sent to the agent in Boston and instructions were received to proceed and turn over the body to the American consul at this port. Dr. Baxter, a passenger on the liner, examined the body and estimated that the man had been dead about six hours. There was a mark on the head or body and it was evident that death had resulted from either exhaustion or exposure, or both.

When the dory was picked up the body was in a position indicating that the man had fallen back from his seat, probably during the morning, and was holding a cup over his face, presumably to protect it from the sun. His face was quite black, which was thought to have resulted from pressure of blood to the head while he was in that position. An examination of the clothing and dory failed to disclose any clue which would lead to his identity. He was wearing underclothing, two pair of pants, oil skins, high rubber boots and cap. In the dory was a quantity of fish, but nothing to identify the boat with any fishing fleet.

Believed Fisherman.
It is thought that he was either out alone from some American port fishing when he was caught in the storm, or carried to sea or else was a member of the crew of some fishing smack and was carried away from her during the storm. There was practically no water in the boat and it was taken for granted that the unfortunate man evidently kept steadily bailing during the storm, which was raging along the Atlantic coast. It was thought that his long vigil fighting for his life against the raging seas and elements might have been such a strain on his heart that death resulted or else that he had been so weakened by his struggles that exposure was the cause of his death.

The body and dory were placed aft between decks and on the arrival of the steamer Edward H. Carter, vice-consul of the United States, who is acting consul, was notified and he made the necessary arrangements to have the body viewed by a coroner and then sent back to the U. S.

3,000 BOUQUETS ARE PLACED ON GRAVES

Many Turn Out for Decoration of Knights of Pythias Graves.

One of the most successful turnouts ever held in this city was the decoration day parade of the Knights of Pythias this afternoon. The day was fine for marching and the members turned out in good numbers. A large number of people gathered at Fernhill to listen to the service conducted there after the graves had been decorated.

Flowers had been sent in in great profusion and over 3,000 bouquets were made by the committee of ladies. It required two barouches and an automobile to convey the floral offerings to the graves.

The procession started at 2 o'clock from Castle Hall, Union street. First came the flowers, then St. Mary's Band, followed by the members of the Union Rank, under the command of Mayor F. L. Potts. Next came the Carleton Cornet Band, and following them the four chancelor comrades of the city lodges leading the members.

On the return trip to the city the procession will be led by the Carleton Cornet Band.

ALTAR BOYS ENJOY DAY IN COUNTRY

St. Peter's altar boys had an enjoyable outing to Chapel Grove yesterday. Bright and early they assembled at the church grounds and marched to Marble Cove where they boarded two motor boats and set off for their destination. On their arrival they vied for honors to see who would get undressed and into the water first. After a good swim they enjoyed other sports until the bell sounded a summons to dinner. After they had "tucked away" a goodly amount of "cats" they repaired to one of the large fields nearby where a baseball game was staged. After a most enjoyable day they returned to their homes tired but happy. Before disbanding a vote of thanks was extended to M. A. Harding for the use of his large motor boat.

CHILDREN HAVE DONE GOOD WORK

Display of Articles Made is Feature of St. Peter's Playground Closing.

The official closing of St. Peter's Playgrounds is being held this afternoon and evening. A special programme was arranged for the children, consisting of drills, basketball games, tennis and races. One of the features was to be a basketball game between the Roses and Shamrocks for the championship of the league. Each team had won five and lost one game, and speculation among the followers of both teams ran high as to the probable outcome. The teams are composed of the following players: Roses—Mary Kyffin, captain; Bernice Henneberry, Dorothy O'Connor, Margaret McGuire and Kathleen Sullivan. The Shamrocks—Helen Butler, captain; Mary Hughes, Doris Garvin, Margaret Kyffin, Helen Display of Work.

In aid of the sports there will be a display of the work done by the children during the summer months. It consists of some exceptionally fine crocheted and needle work, well knit sweaters and small mats of all kinds. The boys also had some exhibits consisting of miniature household effects, which showed clever workmanship. A number of booklets were also erected and refreshments were sold to many visitors who attended the closing. This evening there will be tennis matches and possibly a baseball game. The work of the children will be displayed in a booth at the exhibition.

ALL READY FOR MILK FUND GAME TONIGHT

Collins Will Pitch for Visitors and Ray Hansen for War Vets.

The Milk Fund game tonight on the East End grounds between the sailors from the U. S. S. Detroit now in port and the War Vets should draw a large crowd. The game will be a battle to a finish. It will be the first game of the week on these grounds and the grounds of this city are most worthy of the occasion. There is keen interest also among the fans as to what kind of a game the sailors can put up and it is surprising the number of fans who believe the sailors can trim the locals. The price of admission, 25 cents, is small and the contribution goes to help save the lives of little babies there can be little excuse for not turning out and watching the fund. Being a benefit game all passes are cancelled. The admission price entitles purchaser to a grandstand seat and as these are limited, the fans are advised to come early. The game is called for 8.45 o'clock.

Lieut. George Russell, manager of the taxi team, announced this morning he would send Pete Collins to the mound against the Vets. Ray Hansen will twirl for the locals. The sailors will catch the 8.10 p.m. trip of the ferry and will be conveyed to the grounds in motor cars.

R. sheds and in so doing passed in front of the street car which was proceeding along the street towards Paradise row. The driver of the truck claimed to have put out his arm as a signal that he was about to make the turn, but the motorist of the street car said he saw no signal and was not aware that he was going to cut across the street until it was too late to prevent the collision. The car fender was broken and one of the wheels of the truck was demolished.

As Hiram Sees It

"Hiram," said The Times reporter, "I want you to shed a tear with me, in sympathy with all the boys and girls of the country."

"I don't see what they got to cry about," said Hiram. "Young folks never shed as good times as they have these days."

"Quite so," said the reporter — "but the schools are about to re-open. Did you think of that?"

"Well, no—I didn't," said Hiram. "I guess that does make a difference."

"A difference?" said the reporter. "Now, it changes the world. Keep your eyes open and you'll see. In the next few days the boys and girls will be going about saying good-bye to the haunts of happy days—and to new friends they have made—and sighing because it is all over."

"Yes—that's so," said Hiram. "We got some little fellows from town out to The Settlement—and they're on the rampage this week to get all the fun they can out of the next few days. Well—they've had a great summer—an' I hope they'll all live to come back to us again next year. They make a little trouble sometimes—but they wouldn't be worth their salt if they didn't. Bless their little hearts—they hev my blessin' alwus—yes, sir."
