This, however, was not the case, and as morths came and went the reverend gentlemen showed no sign of improvement, and in August last he was obliged to discontinue the long walks and out-door exercise that he had so regularly kept up under the advice of his New York specialist, and in a short time was confined to his bed. Charles Wright, Episcopal minister at the agency, left here today to attend the funeral of his father, Chief White Cloud, who died at White Barth Agency last week, aged 69. Mr. Wright says he prefers not to assume the many responsibilities of the head chieftainship, but if it would be for the best interests of the whole of the Chippewas and if the request were unanimous, he might agree. Mr. Wright predicts still further trouble when the soldiers go over to the mainland. He believes that a delegation of peaceable Indians could secure the alrest of the hostiles, but they will never give in to the soldiers, and just as soon as the soldiers come in sight they will be fired upon.
