

done for us, though Willie, very much.
Henry may come home on Saturday. He is feeling great and is beginning to want to see Barchinell again.

Well, John, Violet and I myself, have certainly had various holidays.
I went to a shorter dance last night and started to school this morning. I guess parties continued until next year.
The old crowd has gone back to University where I hope to be next year myself.
I was in Toronto one Saturday and took an English lecture with John.
It was a worth-while experience but I hope that my English professors will have letters bit more imagination than Professor Snow. I thought his lecture rather dry and I do love English.
I know you're terribly busy so I'm going to stop. Everyone else gets to bring flowers for the New Year. I'm again for your kind remembrance. I am your affectionate niece, Ann.
