

the most, becoming corner stones in that vast empire of which we might say with the poet:

“Wider still and wider
Shall thy bounds be set
God who made thee mighty
Make thee mightier yet! . . .”

TERESA COSTIGAN ARMSTRONG.

Ottawa, March 10th, 1914.

