THBILLING RESCUE OF CREW OF ST. JOHN SCHOONER CORA B. WRECKED ON CAPE ANN LEDGES

Captain George Johnson and his crew | ashore early this morning. of the St. John lumber schooner Cora B., wrecked on the Cape Ann ledges today, was the most thrilling and danger-fraught attempt ever recorded to the credit of the hardy Gloucester life savers.

As the vessel was being pounded to pieces in the terrific northeast gale, the life savers rigged a rope bridge from the schooner to the beach. Over this bridge the crew of the ill-fated vessel made their perilous way until shallow water was reached, when they dropped

60 BOSTON, Nov. 25 .- The rescue of the hardy men of the sea were brought Just as the life savers had forced their surf boat through the boiling waves and had taken the almost exhausted sailors off, the schooner started to break up. With a reaking of bers heard above the howling of the gald the seams of the staunch vesse came apart, and what had been a seaworthy craft became a shapeless hulk. By daylight this morning the sca had claimed her. Not a spar or a plank remained to tell of the disaster.

About 8 o'clock last evening Captain Frank Sousa of the schooner Lucy E. decided to put into harbor for the night off and struggled through the surf to to avoid the gale that had come up uddenly .The sea had not becom especially stirred up at the time, and from the dreaded Normans' Wee, the he anticipated no great difficulty. But
