> Yankee Soldiers Boast of in the Philip pines-Murder and Torture is Common.

A story, so horrible as to be incredible, comes from an Omaha boy, A. F. Miller, of Co. H., 32rd regiment United States volunteers, now serv ing in the Philippines. In a letter to a friend, he says:

"We are now at Orani. We left Angeles the 5th of Jan., arriving at this place on the 27th, just' before "The detachment that has been in "The detachment that has been in Gen. Grant's advance over the mountains, arrived here the 8th. They were a tired and worn-out gang and awfully dirty, as they had not had a change of clothing for over a month. They had seen some fighting, though not much. The morning they went They had seen some fighting, though not much. The morning they went into Subig the battleships Oregon and Baitimore were in the bay, getting ready to shell the town, when our boys came over the hill, firing a volley or two, gave a rush into the town and ran up the American flag.

"The following day they received a note from Gen. Sammagtte, a negrogeneral, saving he was upon a moun-general, saying he was upon a moun-tain just outside the town and if they wanted him to come up and at they wanted him to come up and get him. They did not go up after him until about two weeks ago, when General Bell went up with the 36th United Stabes volunteers and put him off there rather suddenly. Bell is driving them in toward Borack.

Detachments of our regiment went this morning to head them off in a pass over the mountains and make them fight or give up the ghost. Everyone they catch now they take to the penitentiary, give him a trial the same as they give a horsethief In the west and sentence him. Six of our men out of G. Co. were killed here Feb. 5. They were here at Orani to draw rations, and when the ni to draw rations, and when they were returning to Deniluphan they were fired on from an ambush along the side of the road. There were 10 of them in all, four got away while or them in all, four got away wine six stayed and gave them a fight, and all of them were killed before rein-forcements arrived. They had tele-graphed to Co. G, but they got there only in time to see them lying around dead. The men just went wild, and scattering in every direction, they killed every negro they came across. Then they burned their shacks and killed all their stock and chickens. They tied one negro to a rice shack and then set fire to it. I'll tell you he hollered some. The officers could not do anything with the men.

FIRED INTO EVERY SHACK. "I was detailed to go with a detachment to Deniluphan for a week or so to reinforce Co. G. as they thought the negroes would attack the town that night. The boys were not in town two minutes before they were shooting into every old shack which they thought might contain a negro. It was terrible, and as soon as theofficers got the shooting stopped someone set fire to the town and all the north

"One of the boys killed enlisted the and was a friend of mine. Another e, you have read of him, Kid Welch, the noted St. Louis jockey, he had just got out of the hospital at Manila, where he had been sick with fever and where he had been sick with fever and was not very well when he left to join his company. There were 25 empty chells around him when he was picked up; after killing him they had shot him full of holes, blowing half, of his head off. I tell you this was a terrible sight when we arrived, but ever since then we have been putting them on the hummer proper. We got out on a bike, catch a negro and ask him if he has a gun; he will give us a polite bow and say no sabby, and then we take hold of him and give him the 'water cure.' After which he can get us two cure.' After which he can get us two or there guns. I'll tell you the rest after dinner. Now this is the way we give them the water cure: Lay them on their backs, a man standing on each hand and each foot, then put a round stick in the mouth and pour a pail of water in the mouth and nose, a part of water in the mount and a sand if they don't give up pour in another pail. They swell up like toads. I'll tell you it is a terrible torture.

"We went up the bay the other day to get some robbers and secured three. They would not tell where they had their guns. So we gave them the water cure, salt water, and two of them gave us their guns. We gave the oth-er one so much water we nearly killed him yet he would not tell. Guess he was an old head; they have lots of was an old head; they have lots of grit. They will stand and see you half kill one of their friends and won't tell a thing. When it comes to their turn to take the cure they will take their clothes off, lie down and take two or three pairs of water before they will ear a word. One of them said you can kill me, but you cannot make me word. One of them said you
