EDITORIAL NOTES

In order to supply the need which Hantsport has for some time experienced of having a newspaper which might properly reflect its civic and social life. The Hantsport ACADIAN has been brought to light. The publishers bespeak for it the patriotic support of citizens and promise on their part to do the utmost in their power to advance the interest of the community in all that affects its material and moral advantage. While primarily the Hantsport ACADIAN will be made a newspaper it will be our aim to include within its columns such articles and comments as will give information to its readers and proper publicity to Hantsport and surrounding country. Contributions have been promised by a number of our best informed residents which we anticipate will be found of special interest. We invite the hearty co-operation of citizens in the promotion of this journalistic enterprise which has already received the unanimous approval of the Mayor and Council.

So far as we are able we are sending The Hantsport ACADIAN this week into every home in this vicinity, in order that its contents may be duly inspected and pronounced upon. If any homes are inadvertently omitted we shall be very glad to supply sample copies on request. Look over the paper and let us know what you think of it. If you have suggestions to make that will add to its efficiency we will be pleased to receive and give them due consideration. Let us have news items that are real news and they will receive a place. Tell your friends about the paper and ask them to become regular patrons and readers. You can serve your community by assisting The Hantsport ACADIAN.

The business men of Hantsport have shown their interest in The Hantsport ACADIAN by freely patronizing its advertisements. They feel the need of a town paper and are apparently ready and willing to stand behind the undertaking. Their announcements in this issue are worthy of public attention and we commend them to our readers. Hantsport has well equipped business houses that are noted for square dealing and deserving of public patronage. Through the columns of The Hantsport ACADIAN they will have opportunity for a closer relationship with their customers, most of whom, we anticipate, will soon become constant readers of this paper.

The Hantsport Women's Institute has undertaken a purely community work, in order to secure the publication of a newspaper that will furnish proper publicity for this section, to conduct a canvass for subscribers to The Hantsport ACADIAN. In accordance with their program residents will be called upon during the next few days and they are asked to give canvassers a cordial reception and all assistance possible. When they secure one hundred paid yearly subscriptions the publishers will pay into the treasury of the Institute a handsome cash bonus which will be devoted to the carrying on of the various activities in which the women are engaged. We understand that the Institute has in view several ambitious undertakings, and certainly the work which they have done during the past summer at River Bank Cemetery is well deserving of public approval. By aiding them in their present endeavor citizens will secure for themselves all the news of the community. Hantsport will get the advantage of the services of a newspaper, and the friends of the Women's Institute will be replenished and the organization placed in a position to continue their beneficial operations.

BE A BOOSTER

Do you know there's lots of people
Settin' round in every town,
Growlin' like a broody chicken
Knockin' every good thing down?
Don't you be that kind of cattle,
'Cause they ain't no use on earth,
You just be a booster, rooster,
Crow and boost for all you're worth.
If things just don't seem to suit you,
And the world seems kinder wrong,
What's the matter with a-boostin'
Just to help the thing along?
'Cause if things should stop a-goin'
We'd be in a sorry plight,
You just keep that horn a-blowin'
Boost 'r up with all your might.
If you know some feller's fallin',
Just forget 'em 'cause you know,
That same feller's got some good points.
Them's the ones you want to show.
'Cast your leaves out on the waters,
They'll come back" 's a sayin' true
Maybe too, they'll come back buttered
When some fellow boosts for you.

When touring by automobile, it is essential that all available space should be utilized to the greatest possible advantage. With this in view, a bed has been constructed which, when folded, takes the place of the springs in the rear seat, while the mattress and bedding can be used as a cushion.

CANADA'S GREAT BUFFALO HERD

Rapid Growth in Herd at Wainwright, Alberta, Necessitates Disposal of Two Thousand Animals

So successful have been Canada's efforts to save the buffalo from extinction that it has been found necessary, in order not to overcrowd the ranges in the great park at Wainwright, Alberta, to dispose of about 2,000 animals. Sixteen years ago it was the general opinion of naturalists and others that the buffalo was doomed to follow the passenger pigeon and the great auk into oblivion. However, the Dominion Government, through the Department of the Interior, grasped the opportunity to secure a herd of 716 animals, and had them placed in Buffalo park at Wainwright. To-day the greatest tribute to the Government's foresight is the immense herd of 8,300 animals in the reserve; and the increase of these animals when protected and allowed to roam freely over a part of their old habitat has set at rest the fears as to their possible extinction and indicates a possible line of industrial development.

Notwithstanding the number taken from the herd from year to year to supply specimens to other parks in Canada, the United States, Great Britain and other parts of the Empire, it was found that some other disposition must be made of a large number in order that the park might not become overcrowded. Hence the decision, indicated above, to kill two thousand animals, surplus to the requirements of the herd.

All arrangements have been completed for the killing which will be conducted by experienced men under the supervision of Government officials and carried out with expedition and the employment of humane methods which will also ensure the best economic results. Experiments have been made in every phase of the work and the plans incorporate the most modern methods in connection therewith.

In Buffalo park certain ranges are retained as winter quarters, where grazing is not permitted in the summer months, in order that ample forage may be provided for the cold season. When the time comes for the migration to the winter quarters this fall the animals which are to be killed will be kept in the main enclosure and not allowed to enter the reserved areas with the main body of the herd. Riders will herd the selected animals and drive them near the buildings where the dressing is to be done. The buffalo will then be quickly despatched by expert marksmen using powerful rifles, this being the most humane method of dealing with animals of such size and strength.

The autumn has been selected for the killing since atmospheric conditions at this season are more favourable for the handling and preservation of the meat, and also because at this time the buffalo is in prime condition, that is in good flesh and with an excellent coat ready to resist the severities of the winter. These points are important since the meat obtained will be offered on the world's markets. Preliminary inquiries indicate that there will be a good demand for all available products. The flesh of the buffalo affords excellent eating with, in the opinion of experts, nutritive qualities superior to those of domestic beef and pork. Old-timers in particular emphasize the wonderful sustaining qualities of buffalo meat.

The contract for the slaughter calls for the preservation of the hides and heads, which will be prepared for market as they can best be utilized. Robes, garments, and novelties can be manufactured from the hides while the mounted heads provide an ornament much in demand. The sun-dried meat will be used to help to meet the cost of maintaining the herd and it is hoped that it is but the beginning of a renaissance of considerable proportions from this source.

A SEASONABLE RURAL RHYME

When in my barefoot boyhood state I used no sense in what I ate. Some unripe fruit I'd often take, which later on was sure to make my little what you call it ache. Perhaps I'd go to bed all right, all free from care and happy quite, but pains would seize me in the night. Then I would open up my jaws, emitting most unearthly howls. Poor ma would sigh and pa would swear, but they would snatch my tummy bare and rub it gently here and there. Though long and patiently they knelt, the more they rubbed the worse I felt. I'm older now and wiser grown with broader girth of stomach zone. I must be careful how I grub it, for if it aches no one will rub it. I feed myself with greater care, my apples must be ripe and fair, and very little pie or ham is stowed beneath my diaphragm.

PRINTED ENVELOPES cost little more than plain envelopes, and they give a much better impression to your customers and correspondents. Ask THE ACADIAN Job Department for samples and prices.

CANADA AS THE STATES SEE HER

(By Bert E. Collier in His Newspaper, The Referee)

While we realize that the people of Canada would not regard exaggerated flattery in the light of a compliment, we believe we remain within the confines of simple truth when we remark that no nation in history has met the financial demands of war with greater good spirit and carried the financial burden with greater intelligence than the vast Dominion that tops the North American continent. Ten years ago Canada's debt was less than $350,000,000. On January 1, 1923, it was $2,516,929,000—over two billion dollars added by the war. Were it not for the fact that the bulk of this colossal debt is owned within the Dominion—Canadians themselves owning bonds to the extent of $1,969,995,000—the interest payments would doubtless drain the country dry, reduce the exchange value of the Canadian dollar to a ruinous figure and plunge Canadian finance and business into a chaotic condition. As it is, the semi-annual interest payments go into hundreds of thousands of Canadian homes, and provide money for the payment of the Federal taxes from which the interest payments are drawn. At the time, Canada might have met the enormous demands of the war by borrowing from New York, but the wisdom, as well as the patriotism, in resisting the temptation and instead placing the burden immediately upon the shoulders of her own people is now apparent. Within a few weeks $172,000,000 of Dominion Government bonds will fall due. With the same spirit and intelligence, the Government is again co-operating with bankers and brokers to keep the debt in Canada. The prospect that practically the entire amount will be replaced by money advanced by Canadian investors is pleasing to the friends of plucky Canada the world over.

WHY THEY ADVERTISE

No limousine ever had stopped at her place. So she just put an ad in the paper. She didn't want work, so 'twas quite a disgrace. To cut such an imbecile caper. She made the assertion that she was a cook. Well knowing how such a statement would look. To dames who had worn out the telephone book— So she just put an ad in the paper. She put on her very best lingerie dress. When her ad had appeared in the paper. She powdered her face to the point of distress. While her garb would have startled a draper. Then grand ladies came with their footmen and such. Came dames who had little and dames who had much (And some with the skins that one hankers to touch!) On the day of her ad in the paper. She questioned each one in the very same way. This mix with the ad in the paper. "How many in family?" "What do you pay?" And they answered, though longing to scrape'er. She promised each one "I will work for you, sure. Though knowing 'twas fiction both simple and pure. Yet for social starvation she found it a cure. To have put her small ad in the paper! Hantsport has a comfortable and well conducted picture house in the Empire Theatre conducted by Messrs. Beazley and Pulsifer. Good pictures are shown at a reasonable price and furnishes a combination of amusement and instruction which ought to be encouraged. The proprietors of the Empire are young men of enterprise and good judgement and are doing their best to promote the welfare of Hantsport and its people.
