The addition of Paris green to the list

M. J. Proudfeot, L.S. V.G.

The addition of Paris green to the list of farming implements has given a new danger to life. Paris green is one of the most dangerous of colsons, inasmuch as it is cumulative in its effect. A man may take a little tomorrow and by sade by the drug will begin to have its effect. Many fatal accidents occur by the drug being used by unskillful or negligent persons, and many more through its being used in malice. The laws relating to the wale of Paris green out ht to be rigorously enforced throughout the Province as we observe they are being in some sections.—[Ex.

THE HONEST, THE THOUGHTLESS, AND THE HONEST, THE THOUGHTLESS, AND THE ROGUES.—A Rumber of our more honest, or rather mure thoughtful subscribers, who happened to be in arrears, paid up their little score during the week. Other honest folk, not so thoughtful or prompt, failed to goundot. There are others still, who stangather as honest nor as thoughtful as they might be, who are trying our patience and credit, and tempting the division court. These persons must oblige us very soon by paying up; if they don't, we will oblige them. We expect to hear next week from the honest subscriber who has from inattention to small matters fallen in arrears

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT. - Sir Rich and Cartwright has given a farewell address to his constituents. Mr. McMillan, president of the Reform association who represented the constituency, South Huron, heretofore in parliament, and who resigned the seat to make way for Sie Richard Cartwright. who resigned the seat to make way for Sir Richard Cartwright, will be the candidate at the next election. In delivering his farewell speech at the Brucefield convention Sir Richard gave a review of the work of last session, and pointed out in a telling manner the corruption and misgovernment now going en at Ottawa. He exposed the testimonial dodge, and showed how the taxes were being trebled, the Dominion depopulated and the country generally suffering from the hand writing on the wall was debt, deficit, rebellion and secession. A Literary Coup D'Etat.

Of all the surprises to which the read ing public has been treated by Mr. A den's surprising Literary Revolution, p rhaps the most remarkable is the last. Two of the choicest and most famous books in modern literature, Washington Irving's "The Sketch Book" and "Knickerbocker's History of New York," just published in style worthy of this nost widely celebrated and universally honored of American authors. The two books together form one of the nine volumes of his works also just published. The type is large, leaded, beautiful; the two volumes bound in one comprise 60% pages; the binding is half Morocco, mar-at the next election (cheers), and this bled edges. The only other edition in faith in the improving fortunes of the the market that at all compares with this or rivals it, is advertised by the publisher at $3.00 per volume. Mr. Alden's price when sold in sets of nine volumes, is a little less than $1.00 per volume. He now offers this single specimen volume until September 1, 1886, for the price (if it can be called a price) of 50 cents, by mail, postage paid. This offer is without restriction or condition; if there are a hundred thousand, or half a million of those who take pleasure in the works of Washington Irving, who want the volume, he says he will fill their orders as fast as his printers and binders can turn them out. If you want to complete your set after you have re-deived this volume, you can of course do so by paying the additional price for the set. The object of this extraordinary Coup D'Etat" is of course, advertising; except for this consideration the would be ridiculous and ruinous. for this consideration the price Alden sends his complete Condensed Catalogue of standard books free to any applicant, or his Illustrated Catalogue, in policant, or his Illustrated Catalogue, 132 pages, for four cents. We think that in justice to the other parties who tendered for the contract, the contractor should be awakened.

And what do you think they say? Why, that M. C. C., Q.C., M.P., has been to blame for it! Mr. Cameron did, they say, shortly before the close of the session, make a very bitter speech, in the course of which he accused Sir John's son, and also a son of Sir Charles Tup-per, of some little trifling irregularities, in which they were supported by the government. For which reason Sir John has determined that not a dollar shall be spent in our representative's riding, which makes us to think that the Tories hereabouts have formed a very correct opinion of their leader and their party.

he did from "palm leaves, skins, bladecones, and the hearts of men" and presented to Omer a copy of the Koran substantially as it is now.

man because alarmed at the license taker in interpreting texts as arranged by Zaid and fearful of danger from the frequen and fearful of danger from the frequent quartels resulting from the continued, differences, employed Zaid and three men of Mahomet's own tribe, the Qurais, to decide upon the text and fix the reading according to the pure Qurais fatom. He then caused all previous copies to be burned and sent revised copies to all the cities in the empire for distribution. His revision has remained the authorized fext, and his been taught by the Mohammedan theologians since that date, 660 A. D.

hammedan theologians since that date 660 A. D. The creed of Mahomet is termed Islam because Islam means "resignation to the will of God." It is based upon four great will of God." It is based upon four great principles. (1) The Qur'an or Koran itself. (2) The Hadi TH, or traditional sayings of the prophet, which supplements the Koran, and makes provisions for laws and ceremonial observances on which it may be silent. The life of Mahomet and his divine relations and the laws embodied therein are called the Sunnah. (3) The Igma'h or the consensus of opinion of the highest authori-Sunnah. (3) The Igma'h or the consensus of opinion of the highest authorities in the Moslem church upon points which are not clearly defined in the Korsn or Hadi TH. (4) The Quiyas or Analogy, the reasoning of theologians by analogy from the other three where anything in any one of them is not decided. As already said, Islam is Purest theism. The fundamental principle underlying Islam is a belief in Allah, whom previous Arabs had worshipped under the name of Allah tahala. Allah, according to Mahomet, is eternal, everlasting, one and indivisible, "Not endued with form, nor circumscribed by limit lasting, one and indivisible, "Not endued with form, nor circumscribed by limit of measure; comprehending all things, but comprehended of nothing," says Professor Palmer. Allah's attributes received ninety-nine epitheta in the Koran, and the epitheta are the various names by which he is called, and all of them are used in Moslem devotion, and rosaries are used as the Romish church use them.

The Koran surther demands a beset in angles. Their angels are sexless, created of fire, and neither eat nor drink, nor multiply the species. The archangels are Gebra'l—Gabriel—or Ruhel Amin, "faithful spirit," and God's measurger to Mahomet; Mika'il, the guardian angel of the Jews; Israfil, who will sound the trumpet at the resurrection, add Azra'il, the angel of death.

angels are given to each person. One stands on the right, the other on the left, and all he does is recorded. The angel Razwan—"Good Will"—presides over heaven, and Malik—"the Ruler" over hell. It is believed that Malik identical with Molock.

Munker and Nakir are the angels who preside at "the axamination of the preside at "the axamination of the tomb," that is, they visit the dead immediately after burial, and examine him in the matter of faith. If he says there is one Ged and Mahomet is his prophet, he is left to rest in peace; but if he does not so so, he is best with iron maces until he screams so loud that all the powers force cent to west except inpa and ers from east to west, except inns and men can hear him. They then press the earth down on the corpse, and leave it to be devoured by serpents and drag-

Heaven is divided into eight parts:
the Garden of Eternity, the Abode of Peace, the Garden of Resort, the Garden of Pleasure, the Garden of the Most High, and the Garden of Paradise. Hell is divided into seven parts: Gehenna, the Flaming Fire, the Raging Fire that splits everything to pieces, the Blaze, the Scorching Fire, the Fierce Fire, and the Abyss.

As to what becomes of the soul betwee death and resurrection, Mahomet is si-lent. Says Professor Palmer: "The general opinion is that there is a limbo somewhere or other for the souls of the good, while the wicked are imprisoned in some foul dungeon to await their doom." The duties required by the Keran are profession of faith in one God, and the mission of Mahomet, prayer, fasting, almsgiving, pilgrimage.
Prayer must be made five times daily,
and the time is called from the minarets of the mosques by criers. Fasting is exacted between dawn and sunset all through Remadah.n, the ninth month of the Moslem year, and only the sick and infirm are allowed to even drink water at this time. Almsgiving, or "poor salt," is the gift of one-fortieth of all property that shall have been in the owner's possession for a year, to charity. The pilgrimages existed long before Mahomet's time, and it would have been impossible for even him, great as was his influence, to have abolished them.—
