The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

The other day I happened to sit behind two young musicians in a street car and overheard them patting each other on the back because they had talents and did not have to stoop to stenography or any such mundane task.

What they said at first rather amused me, but when they began to speak pittingly and disparagingly of a former classmate of theirs, whom I happened to know as an exceptionally clever business woman, I positively had to bite my lips to keep from saying some things to those girls.

To look down upon anyone because his talents are different from yours is one of the most foolish forms of snobbery in the world.

It is a beautiful thing to be a great musician or artist, but how would you like to live in a world where everyone was able to paint or sing beautifully, and nobody knew how to farm or cook or sew?

Nor is it just the professional woman who looks pityingly down upon talents other than hers.

The successful business woman is all too apt to regard the girl whose ability lies in the line of cooking and sewing and embroidery as rather her inferior in the matter of talent.

How many of us could wash a tub full of clothes snowy clean and iron them to look like silk or satin? And yet to how many of us did it ever occur that the thoroughly good washer-woman is a distinctly talented person?

"If I could only write as you do," I heard a young girl say to a successful journalist. "How splendid it would be to have a talent like that."

The young girl is herself an exceptionally clever private secretary.

By looking after the detail work she makes it possible for her employer to devote all his energies to big business.

She is quite as successful in her line as the journalist is in hers.

One would have expected the journalist to say something of the sort.

But she didn't. She merely acknowledged the admission as one to whom it was due.

It probably never occurred to her that the two talents were comparable. I wish people realized more fully that it isn't what you do that counts so much as the way you do it.

If you do whatever you do given to do better than any of your neighbors, you will be pretty sure to win recognition, and you will deserve it.

A man's position in the world does not rightly depend on whether he writes a book or preaches a sermon or makes a mouse-trap. It makes no difference which of the three he does, but "if a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, the world will make a beaten path to his door."

I never hear anyone looking down upon someone else because that someone else's talents happen to differ from his, but I think of what the squirrel said to the mountain:

"If I'm not so large as you, You are not so small as I, And not half so spry. I'll not deny you make A very pretty squirrel track; Talents differ; all is well and wisely put;

If I cannot carry forests on my back, Neither can you crack a nut."

Women's Secrets

There are women in the United States who have perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear, as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

"TIM" TELLS OF DELANEY'S SEND-OFF.

A High Old-Time at Tucker's.

Delaney is gone to tread the frozen plains, to consume his share of pork and duff, and to relate to his shipmates the many queer old yarns with which we have become familiar. Up to a day within sailing time Delaney had no show for a berth, but he is one of those determined men who can't be put off once he makes his mind up on doing a thing. At last he succeeded in securing a berth in the Viking, and he was just as happy and thankful as if he got in command of the Adventure.

There was great rejoicing up at Tucker's when it became known that Delaney got a berth, and all the gang put on a gait to give him a good send-off. Mrs. Tucker is a great woman in many respects, but in getting a fellow ready for the ice she shines in all her splendor.

"I'd sooner be getting a man ready for the ice," said she, "than I'd be getting myself toggled off to get married. I glory in men being got ready for the ice. 'Tis my delight to bake the sweet loaves, to darn the socks and to pack the chest."

We all assembled at Tucker's the night Delaney's box was being packed, and what a time we had. On the days of the good old times seemed to fly back once more and I seemed to live the youth of me over again.

DELANEY'S CHEST.—Big enough to hold clothes for a man-o'-war's crew, and ugly enough to be fired overboard in more high-toned company.

DELANEY'S CHEST.—It had been to the ice often and met with some hard frosts. It was in the Regatta when she sailed under the great Arthur Jackman, whose name will ever live in the memory of seafarers. It had been thrown on the ice to be hauled and jugged miles and miles when that gallant ship went down. It had found a berth prior to this in the old "Husky" and the Proteus.

It was amidst all the knocking about that it got. It was still hale and hearty, just like Delaney. Do you know I have a queer idea about sailors and their "chests," for I believe the "chest" begins to look like the sailor? There may be a more learned way of saying it, but that is the only way in which I can express it, and 'tis here my limited learning bothers me. But surely you can understand me when I say that Delaney's box looked like Delaney and Delaney was a thoroughly private secretary.

PACKING THE CHEST.—Mrs. Tucker had full charge of the job. She looked the part and played it to perfection. Oh, 'tis here in a job like this that we old bachelors have to admit that women are indispensable in this hard old world. With her sleeves tucked up to the elbows and her big white apron, Mrs. Tucker looked a queen, of what I cannot say; but she was a queen, that's all.

Everything that a man wanted, or was expected to want, went in that box. In fact I believe there was a lot went in it which neither Tucker nor Kelly or Delaney ever owned, and between me and you, one of Mrs. Tucker's petticoats found a place in one corner, aptly stowed away by the jester Kelly.

Sweet loaves, plain loaves, mustard, pepper, ginger and a bottle of "seven sorts" (?) went in in the first batch. Canned meat, pickles and another bottle of "seven sorts" went in in the second. Drawers and shirts, pants and "gansies" in galore, enough to start an ordinary man in business. We were about finished with the job when along came Kelly with a straw hat.

"Here," said he, "Delaney, why you were nearly forgetting the principle article of attire."

Delaney gave him a look that nearly sent him through the floor, and Mrs. Tucker said there was a time for joking but there was no joke in that. She was just getting mad enough to tell Kelly he was never any good at the ice and that he was always looked upon as a jinker when Kelly, with his usual wit, took the wind completely out of her sails by saying:

"You can turn up your nose, but all the same Delaney will require that straw hat before he gets back. He's going to the Gulf and ye can expect him back on a good hot evening in May. Judging by the look of it now we'll have it hot enough in May; and anyhow 'tis no harm to take it—'twill be no load."

The hat went in, but only as a joke; for we all expect to see Delaney home log-loaded before the end of March.

We drank his health and drank about a gallon and a half of Mrs. Tucker's tea, with flakes of soda biscuits and "crust" sugar. Kelly got up and made a fine rattling speech in which he paid a high tribute to the industry of Delaney, and remarked that he was never a jinker himself. True, he had come in shipmates with two dog hoods after being out all the spring, but there were two hundred and seventy more men in the same ship, and he therefore couldn't see why all the blame should be attached to him. Some one sang out, "How is it you never went outside the heads, not even shooting gulls, since?" But Mrs. Tucker called order, and when she calls order—well, there is order, that's all.

She then gave Tucker orders to sing the "City of Baltimore" in a low key, but when he started all hands thought he was trying to raise a cheer, and soon the dogs on the mantel-piece tumbled over and the cat ran up the curtain as we cheered again and again for Delaney and the good old Viking.

Horse's Leg Swelled.

Animal Was Too Sore and
Lame to Work—Quickly
Cured by Nerviline.

"I have had a long experience in treating horses, and I can safely say that I know of no liniment for strains, sprains, and swelling that is so useful around the stable as Nerviline." Thus writes Mr. Joshua E. Murchison, from his home, Crofts Hill, P. O. I had a fine young mare that wrenched her right fore leg, and from the shoulder down she was stiff, sore and swollen. I applied Nerviline and it worked like a charm; in fact that mare was in shape to work a day after I used Nerviline.

"We have used Nerviline on our farm for twenty-five years and never found it wanting. For man or beast it is a wonderful liniment."

We have received nearly five thousand letters recommending Nerviline as a general household liniment, as an all-round cure for aches and pains. One million bottles used each year. Try it yourself. Large 25c. bottles of Nerviline, five for $1.00. All dealers, or The Catarrhose Company, Kingston, Ont.

There was a large gathering of the members. Mr. Warwick Smith introduced the subject and in an eloquent speech showed up the merits of the new legislation. The other speakers who took part in the discussion were Messrs. W. R. Searle, G. C. Phillips, F. C. Willis, T. F. Thompson, W. Pittman, J. Davey, J. Chaffey and E. P. In-

Minard's Liniment Cures Gout in Cows.

Old Folks Coughs.

Because Resisting Power is Weak
Pneumonia Often Follows.

Tells of a Sure Cure and a Never-failing Comfort for Colds, Coughs, Catarrh.

One of the worst terrors of old age is that distressing chronic cough. Colds settle on the chest, are wrongly treated with drug-laden and chest-weakening cough syrups, and from year to year the condition has grown worse. Formerly the cough went away when fine weather came, but now bad weather makes it worse and fits of racking, tearing, coughing make life a burden.

Because you are old is no reason for suffering with an old and coughing—those terrible chest troubles and difficult breathing can be thoroughly cured with Catarrhose. You simply breathe the healing vapor of Catarrhose and instantly its rich balsamic fumes are carried by your breath into the finest recesses of the nose, throat, chest, bronchial tubes and lungs.

Just think of it—a direct breathable medicine, full of soothing antiseptic pine essences that reaches every sore congested membrane in two seconds. No drugs to take—nothing to harm the aged or the infant, because Catarrhose is the purest, safest cough catarrh and cold remedy ever devised.

Mrs. M. E. Walford, wife of a well known grocer in East Sheffield, writes: "For three years I suffered with a hard racking cough and bronchial irritation which annoyed me so much at night I couldn't sleep. I tried many remedies, catarrh tablets, sprays, syrups, etc., but they only helped for a short time. Catarrhose brought me wonderful comfort from the first. I inhaled its balsamic fumes every hour or two and am now free from any trace of cold, bronchitis and catarrh. I can't take it in all kinds of weather and don't take cold."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhose, but being a good remedy it is limited. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhose last two months, price $1.00; smaller sizes, 25c. and 50c. All reliable dealers or the Catarrhose Co., Kingston, Ont.

EXCELLENT BAND MUSIC.—The music given by Prof. Bennett's band in the B. I. S. parade on St. Patrick's Day was of an excellent character. Two new Irish quick-steps presented by His Grace Archbishop Howley to Mr. Bennett were discoursed. They were "Along the Ocean Shore" and "On the Banks of Glenmore" two pretty pieces. In the execution of which the band received much praise from citizens.

St. Patrick's Day
Celebration at Burin.

Special Evening Telegram.

BURIN, March 18.

The Catholic Association held their annual parade here yesterday. Despite the inclemency of the weather the Society marched all through the town, the band discoursing lively Irish music along the route. In the afternoon a large and appreciative audience attended the production of "Through Snow and Sunshine" in the C. A. Hall. Every available seat was occupied, and the rounds of enthusiastic applause that greeted the performers amply testified to their histrionic abilities. The play was excellently staged and the players were as realistic in their roles as professionals. Rev. Fr. McNamara was unavoidably absent, being called to St. Joseph's to attend to the sacred duties of his calling.

AT PLACENTIA.

St. Patrick's Day at Placentia was observed with much enthusiasm this year. The Star of the Sea Society in large numbers paraded to High Mass, which was celebrated by Rt. Rev. Monsignor Reardon, who, after the conclusion of the ceremonies, delivered a beautiful panegyric on the life and labors of Ireland's Patron Saint. After Mass the Society, headed by their band, led by Mr. T. Bennett, paraded through the town, calling on Rev. Mons. Reardon and the Nuns of the Convent, who were given an ovation. There was a universal "wearm" of the green. At night a splendid concert was given in the hall which was largely attended. Several ladies and gentlemen took part and the band materially assisted in making the concert a success. Over $100 was realized.

In the Assembly.

Yesterday petitions were presented by Mr. Watson from Little Heart's East for a road; by Mr. Woodford, from Holyrood, for a wharf; by Mr. Piccott, from the South Side of Coley's Point, for a road; by Mr. Seymour, for Harbor Grace to be made a port of call for the Northern Coast a boats; by Mr. Moore, from Doorkeepers and messengers of the House for an increase in wages; from Bay Bulls, for a road; from Ferryland, on the keeping of dogs; by Mr. Clapp, from the fishermen of Goose Cove, St. Anthony, Big Braha, Little Braha, St. Leonard, North and South, Grigiet, Quignon, Noddy Bay, St. Julien's, and Western Head, asking for a law prohibiting the use of trawls and bulwots within the three mile limit after the 10th August, in each year.

The Colonial Secretary tabled the Harbor Grace Industrial Society Report for 1908-9.

The Board of Trade Bill providing for arbitration courts to whom differences may be voluntarily referred, the Petroleum Bill, the Magistrate's Jurisdiction Bill, enlarging the power of Magistrates, were disposed of.

Mr. Seymour gave notice of a question about the Harbor Grace Water Co. report of 1907-8.

The House will meet on Monday and take up any matter referred to them by the Legislative Council.

It is expected that the formal closing of the Legislature will take place on Tuesday next.
