St. Bonaventure's College.

The Aula Maxima of St. Bonaventure's College was the scene of a very pleasant function yesterday afternoon when the students foregathered there to evince their esteem and affection for the Rev. President, Bro. J. B. Ryan, who leaves for Ireland on Sunday next to attend the general chapter of his order, as a representative of the American Province. The assembly was an enthusiastic one, and the feeling that pervaded the hall spoke eloquently of the hold which Bro. Ryan exercises over the affection of the boys—big and small. The stage was occupied by a group of boys, representing the various class-rooms and when the Rev. President made his appearance, a cheer went up that made the very welkin ring, and must have convinced him—if indeed proof were needed—that he occupies a place years deep in the hearts of the St. Bon's boys. The address, beautifully illuminated by Sr. Josephine, of the Presentation Convent, was read by Gerald A. Strapp, the presentation of the pupils' gifts being made by Edmund Phelan, John Ryan and Jerry Styles amidst the applause of all present. Bro. Ryan's reply to the address was listened to with rapt attention; the kindness and forethought of the boys whilst palpably affecting him, did not prevent him from putting his heart into a little speech which will long be remembered. He reminded his hearers of the glorious traditions of the College and referred most felicitously to the appreciation of the people of Newfoundland of the Brothers' labors in their midst. In conclusion he again thanked the boys for their kindly feeling towards himself and the Brothers, wished them a successful Sports' Day and expressed the hope that examination week would bring a happy consummation to the work of the session. A rousing three-times-three brought to a conclusion a little ceremony which speaks most forcibly of the cordiality and respect with which the Rev. President is regarded by the students of the College whose destinies he directs.

ADDRESS

To Rev. Bro. J. B. Ryan, on the occasion of his visit to Ireland as Representative of the American Province of the Irish Christian Brothers.

Dear Bro. Ryan:—

We have foregathered here to-day for the double purpose of offering you some slight token of our affection and esteem and of wishing you a hearty God-speed upon your journey across the waters that separate you from the land of your birth.

Of your mission and its purport we well realize the importance. We rejoice at the fact that with Bro. Culhane, whose name will ever be coupled with your own wherever St. Bonaventure's is known and mentioned—we rejoice, I say, that with him you have been chosen to represent the American Province at the General Chapter of your Order, about to be held in Dublin. When we consider that both yourself and Bro. Culhane have been so long and so closely identified with the highest interests of our Alma Mater, and incidentally the improvement of our country, spiritually and materially, let us assure you that we regard your selection as the greatest and the happiest compliment that could be paid to Newfoundland and the thousands within her shores who are under such heavy obligations to the Brothers and the cause to which they are so devoted.

By your edifying life as well as by your sympathetic and fatherly devotion to our interests you have taught us to love and respect you. May no train of circumstances prevent you from continuing to point out to us at St. Bonaventure's the way to exalted and noble things. Were your services demanded elsewhere we should find it very difficult to reconcile ourselves to a separation certain to cause a void in the hearts of all who have had the good fortune of sitting at your feet in the halls of this College.

To conclude, we offer you, Bro. Ryan, this little gift with the heartiest good-will; we wish you a very pleasant trip and trust that time and circumstances permit you to make the most of your stay in your native land. Finally, we respectfully request you to salute for us the hills and valleys of Old Ireland. For us it is a land of dreams known only to us through the medium of song, story and history, and ere we separate, we venture to express the fervent hope that upon your return to our shores you will bring with you good tidings of great joy—that all is well with the old land—that 'tis dawn on the hills of Ireland.

Signed on behalf of the students of St. Bonaventure's College,
GERALD A. STRAPP,
EDMUND J. PHELAN.

An Early English Sea Fight.

On the morning of June 6, 1191, long after the treacherous Emperor Isore of Cyprus had sunk in the dark blue sea behind them, the fleet of the Crusaders under Richard of "the Lion Hearted" of England, sighted a sail, and made towards it. As they approached, they were astonished at her size; having three tall masts, lofty bulwarks, and fore and aft castles. "A marvellous ship," said the Crusaders, "and none greater was ever read of." She had on board nearly fifteen hundred men bound for the relief of Acre, then besieged by the Christian forces. This huge Saracen vessel carried high catapults in her tall deck castles, with heaps of stones and iron ready to be dropped on to any low-decked boat that approached her sides, and—most dreadful weapon of all—Greek fire. King Richard signalled his ships to lie upon their oars, while a "snake" went forward to challenge the stranger. The little vessel came back with the report that none could speak any "Christian tongue" with ease, but they had proclaimed themselves to be French. Again the "snake" was despatched, and again it returned with the ambiguous answer that the ship had now declared herself to be Genoese. One of the crew of the King's ship then said that he recognized her as a Turkish warship. "Let one of the ships advance in hostile manner," said he; "and then you will see if her intentions are peaceful or not." Richard took the sailor's advice, and a war galley shot out from the fleet and dashed down upon the stranger. She was at once met with a storm of arrows and bolts, and shouting with joy, Richard signalled a general attack, leading the way in his own vessel. Brave to foolhardiness as were the Crusaders, they soon found that they could do nothing against the Turk. It was impossible to carry her by boarding while from her towering sides stones, arrows, iron bars, and worst of all, the Greek fire, fell in a constant shower on their low-lying craft. Soon the Christian galleys drew back in sullen defeat, but, stamping the deck in his fighting fury, Richard said that he would hang as cowards the crew of any vessel that did not return to the attack. They knew he would not hesitate to fulfil his word, and again rushed to the attack, but once more were the Moslems triumphant. One last resource was left to Richard; to capture her was impossible, but to sink her was in his power. Drawing his galleys in line, he gave the word, and charged down on the doomed vessel, the water building under the oars of the straining crews.

Amid the crash of rending timbers the Turkish vessel heeled over, pierced by the iron tipped rams in a dozen places. Slowly she righted, and then as slowly filled and sank, carrying with her all her crew save fifty, who were saved.

Prospects for Sugar.

(From the Brockville Recorder.)
Reports are going the rounds that sugar is likely to be very scarce in the future and all kinds of alarming prices are heard of as possible. How justifiable these are it is difficult to say at present, but rays of hope that they are not absolutely right can be seen. Thus the Dominion's ships are bringing thousands of tons of the raw material from Cuba, and this will continue. Then the Huns will probably have a good deal of beet sugar to export. Now comes the news that Russian and Rumanian sugar may be imported in large quantities to New York later on; it is said that 40,000 tons have already been arranged for. Then there are the other European countries to be considered which are sure not to have been idle in sugar production. There may be hope in all this for at least a break in prices before so very long.

HOW YOU CAN TELL GENUINE ASPIRIN

Only Tablets with "Bayer Cross" are Aspirin—No others!

If you don't see the "Bayer Cross" on the tablets, refuse them—they are not Aspirin at all.

There is only one Aspirin, that marked with the "Bayer Cross"—all other tablets are only acid imitations. Look for the "Bayer Cross"! Then it is real Aspirin, for which there is no substitute.

Aspirin is not German but is made in America, and is owned by an American Company, all rights being purchased from the U. S. Government.

Genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" have been proved safe by millions for Pain, Headache, Neuralgia, Colds, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuritis.

Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets—also larger "Bayer" packages, can be had at any drug store.
Aspirin is the trade mark (Newfoundland Registration No. 761), of Bayer Manufacture of Monocarbonyl-dioxybenzoic Acid.

Our Coal Mining.

(Western Star.)

Last week it was our privilege to visit the A.N.D. Company's coal mining operations near the old Howley coal workings. Up to quite recently the work had been practically all of a prospecting nature covering an area of nearly five miles. Their present and main operations are located about two and three-quarter miles from Howley railway station, being on opposite side of Coal Brook to the old workings. There coal seams have been unearthed for a distance of three thousand feet. Two shafts have been sunk, the present one being some three hundred feet deep, from which two drifts have been driven three hundred feet each, one about fifty feet above the other. There is coal all the way from thirty feet below the surface at the main shaft, thus showing a seam of coal hundreds of feet east and west and at least two hundred and seventy feet in depth and improving all the time. The coal is of the very best quality. We saw it in use both for domestic and steam purposes. It is bright, burns readily, giving out a blue flame, leaving no clinkers, but only a white ash.

At the workings, a boiler house, a cook house, and a number of cabins for the men have been erected, also a saw mill for the supplying of the timber for the mine as well as lumber for necessary constructional work. Over a thousand feet of new road is being constructed and the roads to the railway station will be put in good repair preparatory to the shipping of coal to Grand Falls; over a hundred tons of which have been stripped and ready for hoisting, besides the supplying of all the needs at the workings.

Capt. D. McCuish, who has had over forty years' mining experience in this country, is in charge there, with Augustus Farnell, of Corner Brook, as assistant. At present the mine is on a single shift owing to shortage of men, but all winter she was running three shifts. Good wages are being offered, from three to four dollars a day, according to experience and ability, and there is openings at present for all the experienced coal miners they can get.

Woman Billiard

Champion.

Although no relation to the late Mr. John Roberts, Miss Ruby Roberts, the Australian billiard player, who has arrived in this country to play Miss Ena Collins, the English expert, was regarded by the greatest of all billiard players as the champion of her sex.

Two hundred and sixty-seven is her best break, and there are not many men in England, outside the front rank, who could play Miss Roberts level and give her a beating.

With the Rod.

(Western Star.)

There are some salmon going at Robinson's and Crabbes Rivers. Sandy River is very high, the water being within a foot or two of the railway bridge.

There are some two or three parties on Robinson's River, but up to date we have not received particulars of any catches.
The Lower Humber is altogether too high for any salmon fishing and is likely to continue so for some weeks. This river is usually one of the latest on the Coast.
