GEN THOMAS AND DAMAGES.—The N. Y. Herald says. — The venerable General Lorenzo Thomas values his personal liberty and his time at a very respectable price. He demands from Stanton the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars as damages for being submitted to the kind attention of a Marshal for a few hours. This bears George F. Train, who sues (by telegraph) the British government for a hundred thousand pounds sterling for two or three days' incavcration in a British Dungeon' known as the County of Cork Jail. Of course there is a clear case of false imprisonment in both instances. The stupid policeman who contributed to Train's notoriety, and the stubborn Stanton, who took General Thomas from the breakfast table leaving his hot coffee and beefsteak untouched, are both amenable to the law; but it is not at all likely that either Train or Thomas will ever recover a dollar, and in both cases the complaints are only prolonging a farce by adding an unnecessary, act to it.

An Experiment in Living.—The prolonging a farce by adding an unnecessary act to it.

An Experiment in Living.—The Pall Mall Gazette describes a new experiment in living, now making in part of London known as Bolgravia. The attempt is to provide accommodations, after the French fashion, for that large class of people in good circumstances—bachelors, single ladies, or married couples without family—who are afraid to face the trouble and expense of becoming householders, especially as small houses of the size that would suit them are rarely to be obtained in a good situation, even at a high rent; and who, on the other hand, find an irksome sacrifice of independence in ordinary lodgings. To accomplish this result a large pile, of buildings, called Belgrave Mansions, has been built on Lord-Westminster's estate. The rooms are let singly or in suites as unfurnished apartments, each tenant having the liberty, of course, to furnish and fit them up as he pleases. The company provides all necessary service, and there is a coffee room for the use of the tenants. There is no obligation, implied or understood, that the tenants should take their meals in the house—they are free to live just as they like; in short, it is proposed that they shall enjoy as manda privacy and independence as if they were in a house of their own.

The colored man is making trouble with the temperance organization known as Good Templars. The people of the neighbouring village of Spencerville are in a state of excitement in consequence of a colored individual who has been admitted to the Lodge there. At a meeting held last Mongay, this colored man, with some thirty-five white sof both sexes, was elected. His full name was not recognized, when proposed, as the one that he bore. He was supposed to be a white man. When the candidates appeared, the black was mong the number and was taken in.

The Lodge comprises over three hundred members, and it is said that about one-half have declared that they will leave with the negro continues in members, and it is said, have declared that if anybody had objected to the election of the negro, they would have consed the hitry-five white persons who were proposed with him.—Rechester Unitary and Paterson's celebrated Stephenson with the negro of the leaves.—Some of the latter, it is said, have declared that if anybody had objected to the election of the negro, they would have consed the hitry-five white persons who were proposed with him.—Rechester Unitary and Paterson's celebrated Stephenson who were proposed with him.—Rechester Unitary and Paterson's celebrated Stephenson who were proposed with him.—Rechester Unitary and Paterson's celebrated Stephenson who were proposed with him.—Rechester Unitary and Paterson's celebrated Stephenson who were proposed with him.—Rechester Unitary and Paterson's celebrated Stephenson who were proposed with him.—Rechester Unitary and Paterson's celebrated Stephenson who were proposed with him.—Rechester Unitary and Paterson's celebrated Stephenson who were proposed with him.—Rechester Unitary and Paterson's celebrated Stephenson who were proposed with him.—Rechester Unitary and Paterson's celebrated Stephenson who were proposed with him.—Rechester Unitary and Paterson's celebrated
