The officers were enthusiastic over the success of the experiments in The officers were enthusiastic over the suc-cess of the experiment. Experiments in this line have recently been made by the hydrographic office with uniform success. The use of scapsuds is not likely to entirely supersede oil for the purpose of soothing the seas, but scap is cheaper, occupies less room on the ship and its suds lie heavier on the water than oil, so that it is likely to be generally adopted.

WHILE two wedding processions were fighting for the road at one of the gates of Hankow, the chairs holding the brides got mixed, and each lady was taken to the wrong bridegroom. The gentlemen, never having seen their wives before, according to the Chinese custom, knew no mistake. When the next morning the mothers of the two brides went to present the usual hair oil to their daughters, each found a stranger installed in her place. Neither mother, moreover, had any means of finding out where her daughter had gone. After a very difficult search of the city the brides were both found, and then the idea of making the best of things was blocked by the fact that one of the brides, who was rich and intended for a rich husband, had fighting for the road at one of the gates of rich and intended for a rich husband, had fallen into the hands of a very poor man.
