Constipation

Constipation, with its attending disorders, is undoubtedly one of the most common of all inco-ordinations, affecting peoples of all nations; therefore is important and should be of interest to both those affected and all interested in promoting

It is strange to note that but few people realize or know just what constitutes constipation or how it is caused. This is certainly important to the practitioner that he may speedily rectify the trouble and equally important to the patient that he may intelligently seek the assistance of those pursuing rational and scientific methods of practice, thereby eliminating that prolonged period of experiment.

Obstinate constipation is a term applied to those cases that cannot be reached by ordinary methods of physic. It results from prolonged overstimulation of the intestines by physic until they become weak and refuse to work.

It has been adequately proven by scientific experiment that the act of digestion and the propulsion of the contents of the bowels is produced and regulated by the brain through the spinal cord and spinal nerves, which carry energy from the brain to all parts of the body. We all know that when a man's back is broken his legs and also bowels are zed because the spinal s pressed upon by bone is very much harder than herve tissue.

if this be true deficient tic motion must result lack of energy from ain, or there must be ng which prevents this reaching the intestines. s but one thing capable ing this, and that one can readily be demonstrated by the Chiropractor.

The nerves distributed to the intestines emit from the lower part of the spine between the vertebrae, or spinal segment and these segments are slightly movable and are capable o being displaced by lifts, falls etc. If through some slight accident one of these bones is displaced or put out of the proper place it will press upon the nerves that pass between them, and as bone is hard and nerve tissue soft and sensitive, the result is evident. The nerve then is unable to do its normal work, the energy fails to arrive at the intestines and the intestines fail to act because of a lack of force or power supplied by these nerves. The only way to rectify this is to relieve or remove the pressure from the affected nerve by the proper spinal adjustment given by an intelligent Chiropractor. Effects may be treated for a lifetime without permanent results, for they can only be attained by removing the cause.

There are thousands of satis fied patients today who know and can testify as to the merits of Chiropractic in dealing with this and other ailments which are common in people the world over.

A Connoisseur.
A tall, thin, bald-headed man entered a shoe store the other day and sat down by a handsome woman.

Presently the clerk came to wait upon him. He took the gentleman's foot measurement.

Oh, what brings my childhood to me As I sit here sad and gloomy, And with grim determination

I now make my preparation
To tackle once again this old beet

In fancy now I'm roaming n the country, in the gloaming, And for sixty years I've felt life's griefs and joy,
And I'm certain that it gamboled
In the pastures when I rambled
In my childhood days, a tousled

A bore is a person who, when you ask him how he spent his vacation,

The things we sometimes do with-out intention ofttimes bring better re-sults than the things we do with the For instance, a San Francisco bookkeeper thought he was klssing the landlady's daughter in a dark hallway; instead he kissed an old maid music teacher.

She died the other day and left the bookkeeper a small fortune.
