TOWN RAIDED IN THE EARLY

TOMBSTONE, Arizona, Dec boldest outrages ever recorded has just no doubt that two robbers were in the town during the day engaged in planning for the raid. Their descriptions have been obtained and several citizens of Bisbee can readily identify them if caught. The robbers, five in number, rode into town, com ing. They dismounted at a lumber yard just below Castenado's store, hitched their horses and proceeded leisurely to the latte place. Three of the miscreants entered the tore in which at the time were six or seven persons. Drawing revolvers as they entered they ordered the inmates to throw up their hands, which order was con plied with with alacrity. One of the then, commanded the bookkeeper to open

Orders given: "Open that safe." Joe lost on otime in complying, and when it was opened one of the robbers produced a sack and ordered their unwilling helpers to assist in emptying the contents of the drawers and boxes into it. A cigar-box nearly full of Mexican money was tipped over in the operation, when one of the bandits exclaimed: "Why don't yot shoot the old ______." After the safe had been despoiled of its valuables one of the bandits went into the back room, where Castenado, the proprietor of the store, was lying in a bed suffering from an attack of rheumatism. I am sick with rhematism in my shoulders." Have you got anything about you?" bluffly demanded the robber, bringing his six-shooter in close proximity to Castenado's head.

"Not a cent," replied the latter.

The robber then thrust his hand beneath the pillows and brought to light a buckskin sack containing over $700 in gold coin. Turning to leave, the robber said, government of the world in His son Jesus
