What the Great Strike May Lead To.

The great strike in London is still "on," and fears are now expressed that it may be long take a more serious turn than anything which has before been considered likely. Among the points in dispute the chief one now appears to be the demand by the men for sixpence an hour, the employers refusing to give more than fivepence. The tailors are joining the strikers, so one cable despatch says. "A Member of Parliament" cables to The New York Herald that there are many signs that the entire movement has been preconcerted, and that London Socialists have for some little time been busy preparing for it, which indeed is likely enough; for they would prepare for anything that seemed to promise them fitting occasion for a grand row. The "Member" thinks that what seems to be impending is something very like a general rising among the labor classes. He says the men who have turned out have thus far shown great good humor in their processions and other demonstrations; but they are also very determined not to allow others to work in the places they have left. A day or two ago it was rumored that three or four thousand workmen would be brought over from Belgium; but later it has become a certainty that none will come and the employers know that hope to be vain.

Things are looking really serious, and the feeling is spreading that the Government will have to interfere, by bringing pressure to bear on the employers. So it looks as if the sixpence an hour will have to be conceded at last. For the crisis is a terrible one; or may become so any time within a few hours. London is threatened with total darkness at night, for want of coal to supply the gas works; and even famine may not be far off.

We expect to hear next that the British workman is practically in rebellion against the decree which says that there must be Free Trade, even though it be on one side only. According to this doctrine, it matters not where the goods we use are produced, if only we are free to import them whence we choose. Now, don't let it surprise you to learn that one sided Free Trade is now on its trial in England, in a way in which it never was on its trial before.

Can We Get the Scientific View of It?

The economic relations of this continent—that is a subject interesting and important enough to be worthy of elaborate discussion, we should say. Are we likely soon to be favored with the scientific view of it, or something thereto approaching, we wonder? The present gathering of scientific men in Toronto may suggest that such a result is not wholly among the improbabilities, after all. We do not advise people to expect that the question is going to be settled secundem artem, in such terms as laid down in some paper or papers read before the Scientific Association or any of its sections; although we do think that a valuable beginning in this very way was made last week by Professor Hill, of Washington. Scarcely would the Professor, or any one else in his behalf, we fancy, claim that in that single effort of his he had settled "for good" the great question as to "the economic and sociologic relations of the Canadian States and the United States, prospectively considered." And yet there are doubtless many amongst us who are thinking already that he has done something important in clearing the ground of things that do nothing but obscure the view and obstruct progress. For he, certainly, does something to help us towards the solution of a problem, who begins by showing us the true character of certain impossible solutions that may be offered, and on which it were best not to waste much time. We hold, then, that Mr. Hill has done the State some service on both sides of the border, by his emphatic declaration that Commercial Union is impracticable. He rightly considers it an absurdity to think of having Free Trade with Canada and at the same time Protection against Great Britain. That is, it would be so for the United States; but if possible it would be still more absurd for Canada—having political union and commercial separation in relation to Great Britain, while vice versa having political separation and commercial union in relation to the great Republic. Either science or common sense, or both, should quickly bring us to the conclusion that a jumble of political and economical relations so hopeless as this will never do. It would be preposterous (for the States) to establish a Free Trade policy with Canada and preserve a Protection policy with England. So says Professor Hill, speaking as a man of science, and it is safe to add that the first thousand men you can get together, taking such view of the matter as merely common sense suggests, will say the same thing.

That commercial union will not do is affirmed by some of ourselves. This is the view taken by Sir Richard Cartwright, by Mr. James D. Edgar, and by The Globe. So we many consider the commercial union "fad" as having been abundantly kicked out already, unless, indeed, it be that either Mr. Wiman or The Mail has a kick or two more to add. But, says The Globe—All this concerns not us; what we are advocating is something else—Unrestricted Reciprocity to wit. C. U. is "gone up," so The Globe admits; but still it harps on that Unrestricted Reciprocity is the great thing.

Mr. Hill is wide awake enough to see that, under the Grit Reciprocity arrangement Canada would become a big side door, open for the free admission of British goods into the United States. Of course The Globe understands that this objection, if sustained, would be fatal to the Grit plan from the start; and so it tries with a tug of despair to make its feet stay on ground where there is no hold for them.

It is our reading of the probabilities that the Canadian Grit plan of Reciprocity can never be much of anything in practical politics, except as a means of wrecking the party that risks its fate and fortune on the dangerous craft. For, before that Reciprocity on the Grit plan has had time to get any grip on Canada, it will practically have been rejected in advance by the people of the United States. Still, it is worth while to get hold of The Globe's own explanation of the flimsy thing upon which it build its false hopes. Nothing easier, don't you see?

"His impression (Mr. Hill's) is that Washington would not be able to apply its tariff against English goods coming through the Dominion. The proposal of the Liberal party of Canada is simply that goods which, on being offered for entry, could be proved products of Canada or the States, should be admitted free from one country to the other, but that each country should maintain its own tariff against European or Asiatic goods, and apply that tariff against these goods whether they come to its ocean ports or to the inland ports upon the Canadian border. There could be no great difficulty in carrying out this scheme. For instance, as to American imports from Canada, it would be necessary only that Canadian goods entered to the United States should be accompanied by the certificate of an American consul resident in Canada, or by some other sufficient proof of Canadian production."

Just as easy as rolling off a log, don't you see? And yet, we venture to say, having in it difficulty enough to wreck the whole Grit party, Cartwright, Edgar, and all their aids included. Read The Globe's explanation, we say; and remember it against the day of trial that is coming. Our contemporary winds up with this invitation:

"If the gentlemen of the American Association will take the trouble to apprehend this proposition fully in all its bearings—if they will grasp the truth that such an arrangement would not only conduce vastly to the prosperity of both peoples but powerfully encourage intercourse and so promote amity—they might, on their return to their own country, perform a great service and promote the interests of both nations by using their extensive influence in instructing their people as to the feasibility of the Canadian Liberal scheme, and the international advantages which would ensue from it."

The World cordially invites the gentlemen of the Association to try their skill on the problem of economic relations. And we are free to say that Professor Hill has made a very creditable beginning upon it, though it would at the same time be just against nature to admit that its true solution lies in the annexation of Canada to the United States. However, we hold ourselves back a little, leaving something to the intelligence of our American friends. Our too officious contemporary, however, would leave nothing to themselves, but dictates to them in advance what solution they must offer.

The question of economise relations is the one now before the House, so to speak. What The World ventures to ask for, on behalf of the public, is that some one who is both able and willing shall give us the scientific view of it. We say—the scientific view, as distinguished from a political view of any kind. For the present the environment seems to favor the taking of a scientific view, or trying to take it, at least; and let us hope that after this Association meeting is over, there may be found more than a few on both sides of the border respectively around whom the scientific spirit and environment may hang, like the never-fading perfume around the vase of which the poet Moore wrote.

It is not at all too far-fetched an idea that these regularly-recurring meetings of the Association must have an appreciable effect in inclining men towards taking scientific views of public questions, or trying to take them"; that is, we mean in distinction from views which are the very reverse of scientific, being not according to knowledge. It may not be this year or next year, perhaps [illegible] coming yet, for all that," we firmly believe.

"Does the end justify the means?" is a question that will not be debated by Father Whalen and Dr. Hurlbert, their respective arbitrators having failed to unite upon a fifth one. So an anxious public must continue to remain in doubt as to whether the end justifies the means, or whether the means justify the end, or if there are any means to justify the end, or what it means to justify the end by the means, or if a justification of the end will satisfy the means, or if it is not mean on the part of the end to try to be justified, or if justification is not a mean thing in the end, or what would become of the means if the end was justified, or—well, is is not about time this sentence should come to an end?

The St. John Carnival committee finds itself with a nice little deficit to meet. That's the spectre which haunts the promoters of all such free demonstrations. As The Hamilton Herald remarks, "a carnival produces no revenue to make it self-sustaining." We trust our Ambitious City friends will not come out at the small end of the horn. Just here it might be observed that Toronto's great Industrial Exhibition is superior to any carnival. It entertains as well as instructs the people, and pays well.

The whining school-boy, with his satchel, and shining morning face, creeping like snail unwillingly to school, will be seen on the street in large numbers this morning. But he would much rather go to the circus.

The Pope's income is made up entirely of the voluntary tax called Peter's pence, and averages $1,400,000 per annum, for all of which he finds use. His Holiness does not spend anything for himself or for his relatives, but has to maintain nuncios in different capitals of the Old and New World, to correspond with more than 1000 Episcopal Sees in every part of the globe, to support missionaries abroad, to maintain at Rome the Congregation and Ecclesiastical tribunals, which study and elucidate theological, canonical and liturgical questions of all countries and in all languages; to pay the Cardinals' salaries, and those of the dignitaries and other employes of the Pontifical Court; to furnish funds for the support of some ecclesiastical schools, as well as for keeping in good order the sacred "Casiliques," churches or chapels, like St. Peter, St. Mary Major, St. John Latran, and finally to preserve intact and improve if possible the art and literary collections of the Vatican. Like his predecessor Leo XIII proudly declines to receive one cent from the $300,000 annually set aside by the Italian Chambers for the Pope, and which, since the disappearance of the temporal power in 1870, has accumulated in the Italian treasury.

Jottings About Town.

The City Council meets to-night.

Squire Wingfield Saturday committed Thomas Tremble for trial on the charge of having stolen a watch from James Taylor at West Toronto Junction.

Judge McDougall on Saturday made an order for bail for John Butchart, held for shooting Robert Newsome. The accused's bond amounted to $1000 and himself in $1000.

The tournament of the World's Bicycle and Racing Association in the Mutual-street rink October 21 to 26 inclusive, will be the finest event of the kind that has ever taken place in this city. Many of the fastest amateur and professional riders in America will compete.

A court of appeal will sit on Thursday at 11 o'clock, and will proceed to hear the County Court appeals in the order in which they stand on the general list of cases. Peremptory list for that day: Berber v. Clark, Dawson v. Dodge, Watkins v. Toronto, Waldon v. McGloghlin, McIntyre v. Hocken.

The annual picnic of the employes of Rolph, Smith & Co. was held Saturday at High Park and was a big success. There was a programme of good sports and many other pleasing features. The committee were composed of C. Dowson, S. C. Lingham, W. Burns, E. Hall, A. L. Wilson.

THE SCULLING CHAMPIONS

THE O'CONNOR-SEARLE RACE POSTPONED TILL SEPT. 11.

El Rio Rey Again in Front—Racing at Chicago—Drake Carter Breaks His Leg—Toronto Loses at Baseball But Wins at Lacrosse—At the Wickets—Other Sports.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The interest in the Searle-O'Connor race, which has been postponed till Sept. 11, is wonderful. Every day thousands of persons line the banks of the Thames to see the rivals practice. The men are nearly fit and ready for the race. Both are practising starts from moored boats during the week. The Canadian was slightly off color six days ago owing to the non-arrival of his new Ruddock boat, which he received on Thursday. Searle is in splendid condition and has recovered from the effects of an abscess on the jaw from which he was suffering. The Australian rowed a trial on Thursday and made the boat move at a tremendous pace. His friends are jubilant and say he cannot be beaten and they have raised the odds to 2 to 1 on their man. The Canadian's backers have not invested a single dollar as yet. They consider that they should get longer odds than those as present offered, as Searle has the better record of the two. The reason of the lack of betting is because the English sports are unable to bet in confidence on winning. They say that there has never been a race the result of which is so uncertain.

All the amateur critics are loud in their praise of O'Connor's magnificent style, and his victory would be popular.

Protts is here watching the Canadian's interest. He is certain to compete for the Diamond Sculls at Henley next year. Yesterday he arranged to have his best racing shell stored at Putney during the winter. He sails for home as soon as the O'Connor race has been decided.

AGAIN BEATEN BY SYRACUSE.

The Stars Knock Titcomb Out of the Box in Two Innings.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 31.—The St [illegible] knocked Titcomb out of the box in 2 innings to-day. In that time he made 10 errors, including 6 bases on balls, 2 wild pitches and 2 wild throws. Serad held the Stars well down after that but too long a lead had been gained. Umpire Emslie sent McQuery to the bench in the 3rd innings for chinning. Briggs took his place. Score:

DRAKE CARTER BREAKS HIS LEG.

While at Work He Meets With an Accident Which Ends His Career.

Another of America's great race horses has entered that snake which never closes. The sensational old gelding Drake Carter has answered his last call to the post. On Saturday morning he met with an accident that ended his career. While working a trial on the Woodbine track he struck his off fore leg with his hind foot, shattering the cannibalous bone, which necessitated his being destroyed.

It was the intention of his owner to send him to Kingston this week to run at the meeting there and Wise, in whose charge he has been since last spring, was giving him his final "prep" before shipping him. It was in company with Oliver and Martial and the trio had just turned into the stretch, when Drake Carter was seen to go down on his knees, and the boy shoot over his head. The old gelding recovered himself and limped to the outside of the track, where he began eating grass. Wise and Phair then arrived on the scene. The bone was protruding through the flesh and his trainer at once saw there was no hope and sought help to put him out of misery. One of the men who are working on the track with an axe, sent the game old horse to his last resting place by a blow on the head. On examination it was shown that the bone was completely shattered, and marks on the flesh indicated that it was done by a blow from the hind foot, and not in the fall, as he only went to his knees.

Drake Carter was a bay gelding foaled in 1880 by Ten Broeck (son of imp. Phaeton and Fanny Holton by Lexington), dam Plasma by Planet out of Acrolite, by Lexington, out of Florine, by imp. Glencoe. He was bred by F. E. Harper at the Natural Stud, Midway, Ky., and was sold to G. B. Morris as a two-year-old for $5000. He never raced as a two-year-old, but as a three-year-old he started twenty times, winning twelve races. Ability to run a distance under due weight at a high rate of speed was his chief characteristic. He won that year the Cotton Exchange Stakes at Memphis; the Champion stakes, 1½ mile at Chicago; the Sequel stakes, at Saratoga, 115 lbs., 1 5-8 mile, in 2.53¼, defeating George Kinney; Handicap sweepstakes, at Mammouth 1.18 lbs., 1 1-2 mile, in 2.48 1-2, defeating Adella and Pizarro (Miss Woodford, same day, won the West End Hotel stakes, same weight and distance in 2.42); United States Hotel stakes, at Saratoga, 1 1-2 mile, in 2.36, defeating Barnes; the Omnibus, 1 1-2 mile, at Mammoth in 2.38 1-2, the fastest for this race, after which he was bought in by Mr. Pierre Lorillard, for $17,500, the largest price ever paid for a gelding, but failed to give 3 lbs. to Miss Woodford in the Great Eastern Handicap at Sheepshead Bay.

His chief four old victories were the Shrewsbury Cup, at Monmouth, 1¼ mile, 2.42½; the Monmouth Hop, 1½ mile, 2.43½; the Monmouth Hop, 120 lbs., 1½ mile, 2.37½; the Autumn Cup at Coney Island, 3 miles, due weight 115 lbs. 5.24 (the record); Grand National Hop at Jerome, 2½ miles, 120 lbs., 4.11½; at Baltimore, the Bowie stakes, 3 miles, 5.30; at Washington, the Washington stakes, 1½ mile, 2.11½. As a five-year old he started nine times winning once, when he won the Stirrup Cup at Coney Jockey Club spring meeting. At the sale of the Kanoosa stable, that fall he was purchased by the bookmaking firm of Emery & Catton for $1250 and went into the hands of Charley Boyle. The following year Boyle started him ten times winning once, a handicap sweepstakes at Washington, beating Enigura, Wandering and Frankie B. In the fall of 1886 he was sold to a gentleman in New York for $150, and was purchased this same season by Mr. T. C. Patterson who bought the old gelding mainly for his past performances. Mr. Patterson afterwards disposed of him to the Bay View Stable of this city, and last fall was his first appearance before the public since he left Charley Boyle. His record at 3 miles, 5.24, is still unbroken and his sire, Ten Broeck, has the record for 1 and four miles, an unparalleled family history.

EL RIO REY THE UNBEATEN.

His Gallops Home in Front of 14 5-Year Olds for the White Plains Handicap.

WESTCHESTER, Aug. 31.—Fully 30,000 persons witnessed the close of the most successful racing meeting ever held in America. The crowd filled the mammoth stand from end to end and covered the lawn, the ring was filled with an eager, pushing throng of racegoers, who were compelled to fight their way to reach the bookmakers' boxes. All interest was centered in the great White Plains handicap for two-year-olds. El Rio Rey was for the second time to battle with crack youngsters. In the betting his price was 1 to 2, as which hundreds and hundreds went into the bookmakers' strong boxes.

First race—5 furlongs, purse $1000, for beaten 2-year-olds and upwards. Britannic won, Fordham 2, Jay F. Dee 3. Time .59, a second better than the record. Mutuals paid $26.30.

Second race—1 1-16 miles, sweepstakes for 3-year-olds and upwards; $1000 added. Kingston won, Sleve 2, Wilfred 3. Time 1.50. Mutuals paid $550 straight, Sleve paid $710.

Third race—White Plains Handicap, for 2-year-olds, at $100 each, half forfeit, $25 only if declared by 4 p.m. of the day before the race, $1000 added, of which $200 to second, $500 to the third; ¾ mile. Theo Winters' ch c El Rio Rey, by Norfolk—Marian, 126..... (Winchell) 1

Time—1.11.

Betting—2 to 5 against El Rio Rey, 8 to 1 St Carlo, from 10 to 100 to 1 against the others.

THE RACE.—The first to appear was Gunwad followed by Prince Fonso, June Day and the Ecosia colt. Then came the others in a bunch with El Rio Rey the last. He was heartily cheered as he passed and was eagerly watched until he was at the post. The flag dropped on one of the prettiest starts imaginable. Every horse was in motion. W. G. Morris had a slight advantage, Ruperta was second, St. Carlo third and the others so closely bunched that it was impossible to pick them out.

When they came in sight ahead of the hill they were stretched across the track like a troop of cavalry, Ruperta led, followed by Cayuga, June Day and El Rio Rey. The latter appeared to be in a bad position, and the leaders bore over until it looked as if he would be shut off. With a shake Winchell got him clear and in a couple of jumps he was in front. Then he began to take things easy.

Suddenly Ruperta came from the ruck with a rush. She was gaining every stride. In fact for a moment she was ahead, but with one cut of the whip the gallant chestnut was again in front and had added another to his long series of victories. Ruperta was but a head behind. She got the place by four lengths from St. Carlo. Time 1.11, a second better than the record. Leighton was fourth; then came Juneday, Magnate, Masterlode, W. G. Morris, Gramercy, Ecosia colt, Iago, Prince Fonso, Banquet, Gunwad and Cayuga, the latter pulled up.

Mutuals paid $670 straight, $770 place. Ruperta paid $2980.

Fourth race—Pelham Bay handicap, 1 1-4 miles for 3-year-olds, sweepstakes of $100, $5000 added. Tenny (Hamilton) won, Castaway II 2, Spokane 3. Time 2.09 3-4. Mutuals paid $770. Castaway II paid $1145.

Fifth race—Baychester handicap, 1¼ miles, sweepstakes, $1500 added. Elyton (Hamilton) won, Barrister 2nd, Tomboy, 3rd. Time 2.35. Mutuals paid $8.65. Barrister paid $9.40.

Sixth race—Purse $1000, selling allowances, 1 mile. Golden Reel won, Fannie H. 2nd, Spectator 3rd. Time 1.42¾. Mutuals paid $37.30. Fannie H. paid $37.85.

Sporting Matters in the East.

The man who visits the great commercial city of Canada, Montreal, said who has one iota of sport in his soul's list—lost to a great treat if he does not drop into 522 St. James-street and have a quiet chat with that famous sportsman, George Carslake. To all sportsmen he is well known for his "sweeps." He has now three on hand, one of a $20,000 deal for September, one of $10,000, "The Cambridgeshire," for October, and another of $50,000 for Oct. 21, 1890. The '89 list is now nearly filled and, as Carslake puts it, he could sell double the numbers, as he has, from a sense of a square deal, refused a monopoly to some who are overreaching in their ambition.

In a gossipy way your correspondent, in a stroll a few evenings ago, got into George's confidence, and he gave the following as a recent outpost of his big heart to encourage our best sporting events: He has put up $500 for the Bell Air race meet, and now has closed a correspondence with Sir Adolph Caron, Minister of Militia, who has accepted his original design of Mr. Carslake and will be in the form of a statue of Queen Victoria, nearly four feet in height, on a base of 12 inches, to be surrounded by a representative volunteer of each provinces, and between these a typical shield on which the Provincial team of six competitors' names will be engraved. As the foot of the statue a shield on which the winning team's names will be recorded. The trophy will lie of Canadian art work and in cash value fully $500.

The recent dry spell has made itself felt in business circles. Hay and oats crop, the great staple of our Eastern Townships and surroundings, has been fairly well gathered and is of good quality. This has quite naturally revived the somewhat drooping spirits of our merchants and the gloom of the past has been dispelled.

For the Bell Air meeting preparations are being made that should secure a big meeting and one that must be a success. Many improvements are being carried out both as regards track and stand. The Lepine Park got just what they deserved for their ignorant, selfish kick at the press. That sort of work won't go down to-day, and if a few D.B's. think they are of sufficient force to muzzle the great lever they are dreamers, and the sooner they wake up and make an effort to act as gentlemen the better.

THE FLYING SCUD.

TORONTO WINS AT LACROSSE.

The Home Team Turns the Tables on the Athletics of St. Catharines.

A swift game of lacrosse was played in the Rosedale grounds on Saturday between the Athletics of St. Catharines and the Torontos. The Athletics defeated the Torontos easily on Wednesday last at St. Catharines, and as the Torontos put on the met, with one or two exceptions, who are going to meet the Montreal-ers next Saturday, about 700 people went to the grounds expecting to see some good play. They were not disappointed. The Athletics are a well made lot of fellows, well trained, and among them are some brilliant runners. They showed good individual and team play and by their side turned out a game which, as Garvin said, was "one of the fastest that we have played this season."

The teams lined out with eleven men a side as follows:

Athletics.		Torontos.
Riddell	Goal	Carmichael
Morton	Point	Gordon
F Williams	Cover Point	Garvin
R Williams	Defense	Drynan
Lobb		Gordon
Fairfield		Gale
Notman	Centre	Dixon
Downey		Irving
Walker	Outside Home	F Carmichael
Yielding		Schofield
Doyle	Outside Home	Sewell
Rogers	Field Captain	Bull

Mr. J. A. McKay of Woodstock was referee.

The match commenced at five minutes to 4 o'clock and was opened with some dashing play by the visitors. The ball was carried down to the Toronto flags and several attempts at shots were stopped before the defence relieved the goal. Then the ball passed to the other end of the field and did not re-cross centre before a game was scored for the home team. There was a little dexterous play in front of the flags, which concluded with Sewell making a pass to Carmichael and the latter putting the ball through, 3½ minutes after the face. The second game was about the same as the first, except that Irving was called off by the referee for rough play. The game was finished with 10 men on the home team, Downey scoring for the Athletics.

The wind of both teams was well tried in the last game, which lasted three-quarters of an hour. More than one on both sides wished that some one would scorer after they had been playing in red hot style for half an hour. The visitors made a desperate effort to make the match a draw, and the home team was determined to have it go their way. For more than half the time during this game the ball was in front of either one or the other goal, while two or three sticks represented mid-field most of the time.

The following is the summary of the games:

First game won by	Toronto in	3½ min.
Second " "	Athletics "	4 "
Third " "	Toronto "	9 "
Fourth " "	" "	4½ "
Fifth " "	Athletics "	5 "
Sixth " "	Toronto "	45 "

Queen City Yacht Club Races.

The annual weekly races of the Queen City Yacht Club took place on Saturday, the wind being from the south-east. The first class boats started at three o'clock in the following order: Elsie, Madeline, Little World and Wilbee. The spar buoy was turned in the following order. Little World, Elsie, Madeline and Wilbee. From the buoy to the channel the boats kept the same position. In the Bay she the Madeline passed the Elsie. They crossed the line in the following order:

	H.	M.	S.
Little World	5	36	30
Madeline	5	51	00

	H.	M.	S.
Elsie	5	50	00
Wilbee	6	00	00

The second class started at 3.05 o'clock, the following boats crossing the line: Tramp, Ripple, Hunter, Alliance, Koor-l-noor, Rambler, Come Again and Once More. The start in this class was a beautiful one, the boats lining all close together when crossing the line. The Alhance having started outside the buoy had to put about and make the start over again. This lost her 3 minutes. When this is taken into consideration on her time, given below, it will be seen that she sailed a beautiful race. They finished as follows:

	H.	M.	S.
Alliance	5	49	00
Rambler	6	09	00
Come Again	6	15	00
Koor-l-Noor	6	17	00
Hunter	6	17	30

After the races the prizes won on Aug. 10 and 24 were presented to the successful owners at the club house.

AT THE TRAPS.

The Fortnightly Shoot of the Stanley Gun Club for the President's Watch.

At the Stanley Gun Club's shoot on Saturday afternoon at McDowall & Co.'s grounds quite a number faced the traps, being the fortnightly shoot for the President's gold watch. The shooting was good, considering the distance from the traps at which some of the shooters stood. There was much enthusiasm, as three of the members have already captured the trophy twice. Mr. Sawden, sr., is was thought, had it with 23 out of 25, having already won it twice, but by steady work Emond slid in with 23, thus beating old Tom by one bird. The scores:

Watch shoot—at 25 birds each:

	Yards.		Yards.
F Emond	23	G Black	18
T Sawden, sr	24	J Jones	21
N Dick	19	T S Bayles	18
W McDowall	24	J Mitchell	19
J Draisey	19

First sweep—at 10 birds each:
