MISS PENELTON

The HIDDEN HAND

By Mrs. Southworth.

"God help you, David Bayne, in your great trouble, as I will call you to help you in this world I will go to the Governor myself, and tell him I know you've been 'murdered'!"

"Remove the prisoner," said the judge, peremptorily.

The constable approached and led away Black Donald.

Old Hurricane rushed upon Cap. seized her, and, shaking her fiercely, exclaimed, under his breath:

"You—your—your New York harrah boy! you foundling! you vagabond! you vagrant! you heartless beggar! will you never be a baby, fit to be shaken hands with that ruffian?"

Sure, uncle, that's nothing now; I shake hands with you often enough!"

"Dumpty, you—your New York trash, what do you mean by that?"

"Of course I mean, uncle, that you are as rough a ruffian as ever, David Bayne was!"

"Dumpty, I'll murder you!"

"But, uncle, they have an unenviable way here of hanging murderers," said Cap., shaking his head.

Old Hurricane's grasp, and hastening out of the court-room to mount her horse and ride home.

One night after tea, Captain and her niece occupied their usual seats by the little bright wood fire, that the chilly evening and the keen mountain air made agreeable.

Old Hurricane was smoking his pipe and reading his paper.

Cap. was sitting with her slender fingers around her throat, which she with a shudder, occasionally compressed.

"Well, that demon Black Donald will be hanged the 10th of July," said Old Hurricane, exultingly.

"I don't want to see him hanged," said Cap., "but I don't want to see him hanged."

"I don't want to see him hanged," said Cap., "but I don't want to see him hanged."

"I don't want to see him hanged," said Cap., "but I don't want to see him hanged."

KING ALLOWED NOW TO READ

Wound Now Shows More Active Signs of Repair.

Only One Announcement a Day From and After Sunday, July 6. Until His Majesty is Entirely Convalescent—Queen Takes an Afternoon Drive, the First Since His Majesty's Illness—Ceremonies May Be in August.

London, July 5.—The following bulletin was posted at Buckingham Palace at 7 p.m. yesterday.

"The King had a quiet day. His constitutional condition is satisfactory, and the wound shows more active signs of repair. (Signed) Treves, Laking, Barlow."

"The King had a good night, and, indeed, slept better than at any time since the operation. The wound now gives less trouble, and his Majesty can move in bed with greater ease. His Majesty's appetite has improved. (Signed) Treves, Laking, Barlow."

King allowed to read.

The progress of King Edward's condition is satisfactory. Beginning July 6, only one bulletin a day concerning His Majesty's condition will be issued; this bulletin will be posted at 9 o'clock in the morning, and the arrangement will be continued until His Majesty is entirely convalescent.

The fact that Queen Alexandra, in company with the Duchess of Aosta, Prince Waldemar of Denmark, and Prince George of Greece, drove out yesterday afternoon, is taken as a sign of the King's satisfactory condition. This was the first recreation of this kind that the Queen has indulged in since His Majesty was taken ill.

The King is allowed to read a good deal now, and he enjoys looking at the newspapers. He expressed amusement lately at some of the sensational and detailed reports of the operation in the press.

Immense Sales This Week.

We are not surprised at the large sales this week throughout the store we advertised a stocktaking sale and in consequence made a liberal cut in the prices. Now stocktaking is not an easy matter and we do not intend taking more than we are obliged to. On Monday we start in real earnest and not an article that is not gilt edge will be left in the shelf. People know what that means. Our stock is all new and cheap therefore the bargains will be appreciated all the more.
