

Henry Glasmacher and Eddie Burns are busily engaged preparing their new duet, "Always together," which they will render at the next meeting of the Junior Glee Club.

Wanted—For the Christmas holidays a situation as waiter by W. P. Ryan. For further particulars as to character and experience, address,

JUNIOR EDITOR OWL.

Owing to unfavorable weather the hockey players had to content themselves with playing "shinny" about the yard. Their is a lot of good material for a first class hockey team. The greater part of of last year's club is here again this year and those of our new friends who showed themselves such efficient players in the other games, will doubtless prove themselves equally good on the rink. After the Christmas vacation challenges will be sent to several of the city teams, and some first-class matches may be looked for. The first team will likely be chosen from among the following players: Slattery, Fahey, O'Connor, Lamoureux, Burns, Glasmacher, McCabe, Murphy, Goulet, Allard, and Cunningham.

C. Phaneuf, who is to have charge of the boxing-class this winter will take a special course under Prof. Curry, during the Christmas holidays. We are requested to announce that all those who intend joining the class must send in their names as soon as possible, as only a limited number will be taken.

The race for first place in the second grade was pronounced a draw. It will be run over again next month. In the meantime all bets are declared off.

A contribution has been received for publication from a would-be poet of the first grade. On reading over the poem we find that it has been in our Public School Readers since 1840. We hereby notify the contributor that if he does not call and apologize for this attempt to impose upon our credulity, as we have his name and address, we will expose him in our next number.

The following is a list of those who held the first places in class for the month of November:

First Grade. { 1. W. P. Ryan.
2. Geo. Casgrain.
3. Robt. Caron.
