"Seventy years have made a vast difference in the status of the missionary work. Then the difficulty was in securing an opening in the foreign field. Now the difficulty is to obtain and sustain sufficient men to meet the demands. God has opened up the door to the whole world. From all quarters we hear the earnest and pressyng cry from the perishing, "Come over and help us." Missionaries are appealing for helpers. When will the Church awake to her duty and responsibility?"
