A NEW departure from all the old established conditions on which proprietary medicines are sold, has been made by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., who having for many years observed the thousands of marvellous cures of liver, blood and lung diseases effected by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, now feel warranted in selling this wonderful medicine (as they are doing through druggists) under a positive guarantee that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

SOLDIER DOGS.

It is now about three years since the Germans began to train dogs for outpost service in time of war, the first experiments being made at Labben, in Prussia, and Elsass. The dogs are all of the same breed, a breed not thought of very highly amongst us. They are Pomeranians or Spitzes, mostly white in colour, but occasionally grey, the grey ones being chosen when possible, owing to their not being so conspicuous. Our Spitz dogs are always faithful so long as they are left at liberty, but once they are chained but little dependence is to be placed upon them, and the same peculiarity distinguishes the breed in its native country. Each dog wears a light iron collar and pouch for letters, but he is never tied up or led by a string. His education is very carefully attended to. He is taught to smell out a Frenchman or a Russian anywhere, and to know the difference between foreign uniforms and that of his own land. By certain sounds and gestures he is taught to give his master notice of his discoveries, and he has to run from post to post with letters in his pouch, besides looking up the wounded and straggling of the regiment to which he belongs. Every company has two or three dogs, so that "the regimental dogs" number a couple of score at the least. And these dogs always go out with the advance guard. A strange sight it is to see a German regiment on the march with the dogs behind the band, each looking as important as if he carried the proverbial field-marshal's baton in his pouch. The dogs are always stationed with the outer ring of sentries. As soon as a stranger is noticed, off goes the dog to investigate. A good long sniff gives him the characteristic odour, and back he comes to report. Should anything suspicious be noted, away goes the dog skirting the hedges and woods in search of an ambush. When the information is complete the report is written on a slip and placed in the pouch, and the dog hurries off to the rear office in command. The dog-drill likewise includes the proper behaviour after a battle—the dogs being taught on the St. Bernard principle to discover and succour the wounded and watch by the dead.—Spare Moments.

THE best medical authorities say the proper way to treat catarrh is to take a constitutional remedy, like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

If your house is on fire you put water on the burning timbers, not on the smoke. And if you have catarrh you should attack the disease in the blood, not in your nose. Remove the impure cause, and the local effect subsides. To do this, take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, which radically and permanently cures catarrh. It also strengthens the nerves. Be sure to get only Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THE question of purity in food is a matter of the greatest importance, and deserves most careful and constant consideration; yet so ingenious are the methods nowadays adopted to adulterate, and the processes employed to cheapen manufacture, that it is often very difficult to determine the merits of any particular article of food. With W. Baker & Co.'s Breakfast Cocoa, however, no such difficulty arises, for it is produced from the finest cocoa seeds only, exclusively by mechanical processes; and as no chemicals whatever are used in its preparation, all possibility of impurity is avoided. The result is that W. Baker & Co.'s Breakfast Cocoa is not excelled in solubility, and is not approached in purity by any similar product in the market, and it still remains, as for over one hundred years past, the standard of purity and excellence, and the most healthful and nutritive cocoa in the world.
