

the Requesting Party if the person consents and there are no overriding grounds against transferring the person.

- (2) The transferred person shall remain in custody in the territory of the Requesting Party unless the Requested Party asks for the release of the person.
- (3) The Requesting Party shall return the person in custody when the presence of the person in the territory of the Requesting Party is no longer necessary and in any case within the time limit specified by the Requested Party. This time limit may be extended by the Requested Party if the presence of this person in the territory of the Requesting Party is still required.

ARTICLE 11

SAFE CONDUCT

- (1) Subject to article 10(2) a person who appears in the territory of the Requesting Party in response to a request seeking that person's attendance shall not be prosecuted, detained or subjected to any other restriction of personal liberty in the territory of that Party for any acts or omissions which preceded that person's departure from the territory of the Requested Party. That person shall not be obliged to testify in any proceeding other than the proceedings to which the request relates.
- (2) Paragraph 1 of this Article shall not apply if a person who appeared, being free to leave the territory of the Requesting Party, has not left it within a period of thirty days from the date when a competent authority advised that that person's attendance was no longer required, or, having left that territory, has voluntarily returned.
- (3) A Requested person who failed to appear in the territory of the Requesting Party shall not be subjected to any sanction or compulsory measure in the territory of the Requested Party.
