

March 23, 1933.

E. W. Beatty, Esq., K.C., LL.D.,
Chancellor,
McGill University.

My dear Chancellor,

As you are aware, Sir Arthur Salter is coming here next month to deliver the second annual Massey Lecture. He arrives on April 15th. McGill has offered him an honorary degree, which he has accepted. We are planning the Special Convocation for Tuesday, April 18th, at 12:10 o'clock. After the Convocation I shall take him down to the Bank for lunch.

I do hope you can be present at the Convocation. If you will preside, then I will introduce him for the degree, and he can deliver a brief ten-minute address.

The Lecture has been arranged for Tuesday evening, in the Windsor Hotel Hall, and as it is the only address he will make in the City we expect it will be well attended.

I am also thinking of giving him a dinner on Monday evening, April the 17th. I have written