Dr. Lamb,
C/o the Registrar's Office,
McGill University.

Dear Dr. Lamb,

There will not be time before the meeting of your Committee to-day for me to consider with Miss Cartwright and other members of the Royal Victoria College staff the draft proposals you brought to me yesterday from the Committee. I can therefore only ask you to be good enough to report to the Committee in general terms what I endeavored to convey to you in our talk yesterday.

Changes in the organization of physical education for Royal Victoria College students will be welcome to the College if they meet in principle and practice the three considerations I endeavored to indicate in the brief conference in the Acting-Principal's Office with Dean Adams, Mr. Glassco and myself, namely:

1. That the teaching of women should be in the hands of women and under the superintendence and direction of a chief woman ~~and~~ instructor of high standing and high qualification in the department.
2. That there should be adequate representation of women's interests on the Committee.
3. That there should be a close association of the physical education of women with other aspects of their education in order to provide a real unity in their education.

At the interview you remarked that things would probably work out much as at present. That may be the intention but it would seem to be impossible to bring the College work into relation with the general University department without incurring possibilities of change concerning which careful consideration should be required.

The organization of physical education in the University has become necessary for a variety of reasons, and in so far as it may touch the provision for women students the duty of the
