MANUEL SEEKING THRONE WITH ROYALIST HELP

Insurgent Troops Said To Be Surrounded in Northeast Portugal.

LISBON, Oct. 6.—A band of royalists has been defeated in a fight with the Republican troops near Braganza, in Trás-os-Montes, the northeasternmost province of Portugal. It is reported that a royalist column of 1,000 men, under the command of King Manuel, was surrounded by the Republicans.

A column of 700 monarchists commanded by General Canas do Amaral, leader, Capt. Couderc, entered Portugal Thursday morning from Zamora, Spain, and occupied Braganza, Carregosa, Espinho, Foz, Soutello and Paredes, all in the district around Braganza.

Two thousand royalists gathered from various places also have joined the column which is now at Vimeas. BADAJOZ, Spain, on the Portuguese frontier, Oct. 6.—The Portuguese Government admits that royalist disturbances are in progress in northern Portugal, near the Spanish frontier. Besides the interference of the censorship there is great difficulty in learning the exact situation where the monarchists are operating because of the distance of these points from the railways and telegraph stations.

Royalist agents and sympathizers ward Oporto. Yesterday the invaders are spreading the news of a triumphal march of the monarchist troops to Oporto. It is asserted that 6,000 men are following the white and blue flag of the deposed King Manuel. It is also stated that the royalists engaged and defeated the republican troops at Guimaraes, a fortified town, 12 miles southeast of Braga, and that Capt. Couderc will have 30,000 men behind him when he is prepared to invest Oporto.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—A despatch to The Agency from San Sebastian, Spain, says:

"King Manuel is believed to have arrived here on the Paris express to-day, accompanied by his uncle, Alfonso, the Duke of Oporto, and various other personalities. It is presumed that he will make his way thru Spain to join the royalists in Northern Portugal."

CHECK AND COUNTER CHECK
Seat for Fielding May Be Contested by Cahan.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 6.—The Chronicle (Liberal) announces that the seat for Fielding may be contested by Cahan. Mr. Cahan, who by 1300 majority, will be vacated to afford Hon. Mr. Fielding a chance to get back into parliament.

The Halifax Herald will to-morrow publish an article suggesting to the Conservatives of Yarmouth to nominate C. H. Cahan of Montreal to oppose the ex-finance minister.

Mr. Cahan is one of the ablest men in Canada, and a speaker of the first order. He is a native of Yarmouth County, and The Herald asserts that he would be a much more formidable opponent of the Liberal leader than was Mr. McCurdy in Shelburne-Queens.

APPEALS TO SEC. TARIANISM

and I save them the cablegram the home church sent from New York, of firing them a vacation, not one of them quit his post." (Applause.)

Rev. E. W. Byashe La Tronche, Fr., said: "Let me tell you an incident. I had a fine day with a man on a train. He told me that he had no use for God or the church. I did not argue with him, but like a good Methodist, I told my experience. How Jesus Christ is my Friend and Saviour. We talked for twenty minutes, and there were tears on both sides. Then he said, 'If our priests talked to us like you have done, we would go to church too.'"

A Popular Bishop.

Bishop Hoss is nothing if not original. He seems to have felt that enough had been said in the one strain. His stenographic voice boomed up, and although the chairman said, "The audience called for 'Hoss.'"

The lesson I think we can draw, what is sure to happen when a single church has an unchecked dominion. Persecution or corruption will be sure to follow. Under Protestantism, it would be very much the same. (Noisy applause.) "These are the instincts of a corrupt human nature." (Heard heart.) "If there ever comes a time when the Methodist Church wants to vote itself out of existence, I don't want to be there. If I am present, it will only be as a broken-hearted sinner." (Laughter.)

M. le Pasteur Theophile-Roux, St. Brice, Fr., who speaks like Johnnie Courteau, and looks like Zed Grey, a smile when he said: "I am a Frenchman. The conversion of France would be of universal interest. She holds a unique place in the history. Let us win her back for Christ."

Bishop Smith had vacated the chair and appointed his young brother, Bishop C. H. Phillips, to rally the speakers. This powerful man in mind, heart and physique, made a stirring speech on race distinction. He said, amid applause, there is too much hatred of race and two little of Christ. It is not color, but men he thundered.

Lady Delegates Heard From.

The conference was so gallant. Although a chorus of voices cried "Here," the young bishop's eye fell upon the figure of the first lady who had risked the interpretation of Paul and braved the face of the world's Methodism. It was the winsome leader of women, Mrs. George E. Robinson, Detroit, Mich. "As women," and there was not a tremor in her musical voice, "we hold no high station. But our numbers are great. We supply over one-half of the members of the church. And although we act meekly as women, yet we do the sewing, supply the oysters and get you the money for the church. Just at the hour of adjournment, Rev. James Lewis, Cambridge, Eng., whose piercing Welsh voice had frequently called to the chair, now had a word of criticism. His parish is within the sound of the historic college bells of that renowned seat of learning. There he has cherished a more than ordinary charity.

A Word in Defense.

He said: "I want to draw attention to the stations and to the whole sale pronouncement here to-day. Surely the Holy Spirit is at the core of the Roman Catholic Church. (Hear, hear.) We have been told about the condition of France, but who has not read the biographies of her priests. Or think of the fourteen priests in India doing mission work under conditions we would not serve. (Hear, hear.) Would to God, we had more of the personal devotion which Catholics have for the personal Christ! Then it has been said that France has lost her people. Have we not lost ground too in England?"

This created considerable confusion, and as the chairman announced the adjournment of the house, one excited brother said, "I tell you I would like to ask a question."

Missionary Theme.

The afternoon session was crowded in spite of heater showers. The speeches were good missionary addresses, and the discussion well maintained. Rev. James Lewis, who had stood out at the previous session as a critic, had the opening essay. It concerned men and means. Again he showed his Welsh fire and well trained intellect. He said: "Statistics are deceiving. By them Paul counts one, the widow's mite was only two, and the alabaster box, one. But when measured thru God, they count differently. What we want is not to have missionaries, but to be a missionary church."

Uncontroversial Ground.

Bishop Clinton, Dr. Leonard, Bishop Hoss gave good ten minute speeches. The discussion was at full blast, although nothing was said to excite the house. Rev. G. Bloomfield, Cooke, Eng., and Rev. Owen S. Watkins, London, Eng., took part. Two laymen, Mr. M. W. Russell, Toronto, and Mr. E. G. Forsheim, Ger., held the attention in five minute addresses. Another lady, Miss Clementina Butler, Newton Centre, Mass., spoke hopefully of work among Roman Catholics. Rev. T. Barkley, Southport, Eng., a quite oratorical young man, presented problems arising out of the relation between the old doctrines of salvation and the new discoveries in science and religion. A colored brother, one of the numerous brood of "quills" who are delegates, Rev. G. C. Clement, D.D., Charlotte, N.C., editor of The Star of Zion, made a thrilling speech. He referred to the infant Jesus being taken to Africa for safety from Herod. The same Saviour is a protector of women and children.

Hope of Evangelization.

Bishop E. R. Hendrick of Kansas City at the evening mass meeting of the conference, speaking of Methodist missionary work, thought that certain leaders of the mission movement, will evangelize the world. The world will be found among the great and growing nations. He said the value of the work for Christianity now being done by the missionaries could not be estimated.

Bishop Lewis, in his message from China, said China contained one fourth of the earth's population and was the most ancient kingdom now existing. In 1866 the rich lands of China were blooming with poppies and the nation was drunk with opium. Placed before the matter up with the Chinese Empire and promised to reduce the importation of opium from India to 10 per cent. per annum for ten years. China compelled to bend many poppy growing farmers before the matter was accomplished.

The Poppy Gone.

He said, on a recent trip thru one of the greatest poppy districts, he never saw the plant at all and was told that it was not planted any more.
