THE CARIBOO BURGLARY.

Alleged Thief is in Custody—Overlooked a Couple of Thousand Dollars in the Safe.

The Ashcroft (B.C.) Journal of Nov. 4 says:

A man named McBride was arrested at the 150-Mile House by Officer James Bain this week, charged with the recent robbery at the Cariboo mines. On searching him nothing was found until the leather holster was examined, in which McBride carried his revolver. In the end of this was found a gold nugget, worth $16, wrapped in a $20 gold certificate, which were identified as part of the stolen goods. McBride denied all knowledge as to how the money and nugget came to be where they were found, claiming that his pistol had been hanging on the wall of his cabin for some months, and that the thief must have secreted the plunder there.

McBride has for the past 18 months been a trusted employe of Mr. Hobson, and last fall he remained at the camp for the winter with several others. He was given the combination of the safe that time for the convenience of himself and others, so they could keep their valuables in it during the winter months. This spring the combination had not been changed, and it see ns like a clear case against McBride. The thief had only about 20 minutes' time in which to get in through a window, open the safe and get away, and in his haste overlooked $2000 in nuggets and a large quantity of amalgam, securing in all only about $220.

McBride was well known in Ashcroft, where he stayed some months a year ago last spring. He then claimed to be a reporter attached to The Cincinnati Enquirer. It is reported that he has sent to his home for $1000, stating that his people are well-to-do, and that he will make a big fight for his acquittal. On jumping from the window of the office the thief left a footprint that McBride's boot just fits, being made by a pointed shoe of a kind not worn by others at the mine. If McBride is guilty it is a much worse crime than that of the ordinary sneak thief or burglar, for he had been particularly well treated by Superintendent Hobson and others at the mine, and has apparently deliberately betrayed their confidence. Officer Bain is entitled to much credit for the clever capture.

Mr. Hammond Denies It.

The Cariboo Hydraulic mine will in a few weeks send down the largest gold brick ever melted in Canada. It is expected the clean-up will be $100,000 or more, according to reports of men just down who are familiar with conditions at the great mine.—Ashcroft Journal.

Mr. Hammond, of Osler & Hammond, was spoken to regarding the above, and he said the report is entirely incorrect.

The Deal Was Made.

Editor World: Can you explain the transaction referred to in the following paragraph:

"A block of 1000 shares of Golden Star sold on call on the Standard Exchange yesterday at 75, delivery on June 1, 1900."

On the face of it, it would seem that the purchaser of 1000 Golden Star is willing to pay for a loan of $320 until the 1st of next June, $420. Surely there must be some error in the paragraph.—E. S. C.

The sale was reported in the ordinary way among Thursday's transactions on the Standard Mining Exchange. Secretary L. R. Arnett was asked by The World if it was correct, and he stated that the sale was made by a broker who had just purchased the stock at 31½ to another broker who has great faith in Golden Star. The transaction was singular, but Mr. Arnett says both buyer and seller are responsible men.—Ed. World.

Says Dividends Are Certain.

Mr. J. Hugo Ross, writing from Kaslo regarding the Rambler Cariboo, says:

"I attended the meeting and everything looks fine in regard to the company, and dividends from now on, of 1 cent per month, are certain. Bernard McDonald (McCuaig Rykert's expert) has gone on the directorate and purchased a big block of the stock. All the old directorate are re-elected.

"W. H. Adams, the secretary, took us up to see the property on Friday morning, and I must say the showing is immense, and their shipments this winter will be big. They have now about four feet of solid ore, running 200 oz. in silver and 35 per cent. in lead, in their lower workings, and are now running an up-raise to connect this, and everything points to their having sixty feet in depth in this, and it is now estimated there are about $400,000 to $600,000 ore in sight. Insiders are buying, and the stock will go to very much higher figures. I believe it a great buy."

A BRAVE WOMAN.

How a Drunken Husband Was Made a Sober Man by a Determined Wife.

A PATHETIC LETTER.

She writes:—"I had for a long time been thinking of trying the Samaria Prescription treatment on my husband for his drinking habits, but I was afraid he would discover that I was giving him medicine, and the thought unnerved me. I hesitated for nearly a week, but one day when he came home very much intoxicated and his week's salary nearly all spent, I threw off all fear and determined to make an effort to save our home from the ruin I saw coming, at all hazards. I sent for your Samaria Prescription and put it in his coffee as directed next morning and watched and prayed for the result. At noon I gave him more and also at supper. He never suspected a thing, and I then boldly kept right on giving it regularly, as I had discovered something that set every nerve in my body tingling with hope and happiness, and I could see a bright future spread out before me—a peaceful, happy home, a share in the good things of life, an attentive, loving husband, comforts, and everything else dear to a woman's heart, for my husband had told me that whiskey was vile stuff and he was taking a dislike to it. It was only too true, for before I had given him the full course he had stopped drinking altogether, but I kept giving the medicine till it was gone, and then sent for another lot to have on hand if he should relapse, as he had done from his promises before. He never has, and I am writing you this letter to tell you how thankful I am. I honestly believe it will cure the worst cases."

A pamphlet in plain, sealed envelope, sent free, giving testimonials and full information, with directions how to take or administer Samaria Prescription. Correspondence considered sacredly confidential. Address The Samaria Remedy Co., Jordan street, Toronto, Ont.

A TRAGEDY OF LIFE

A Toronto Girl's Terrible Experience in the Shadow of Death.

Laura Sheehan, 93 Armstrong Avenue, Has a Hair-breadth Escape—A Modern Miracle—Thrilling Narrative of the Young Girl Fully Corroborated.

[From The Toronto News, Oct. 21.]

We read every day of narrow escapes from death, but few persons, if, indeed, there are any, have had the terrifying experience of pretty, vivacious, industrious little Laura Sheehan of this city, who has actually been in the awful presence of Death, who has felt the grip of his icy hand, and who yet lives to tell it. Not soon, it is safe to say, will the pretty, blue-eyed maid forget that awful struggle with the grim King of Terrors, and years hence, when she sits, a silvery-haired grand dame, among her stalwart Canadian grandchildren, she will tell them, and with bated breath they will listen to, the story of the tragedy of her girlhood's days, of how she battled with, and, by the timely assistance of a true friend, overcame the Grim Reaper.

There is rejoicing to-day in the snug little home at No. 93 Armstrong-avenue, where Laura lives with her parents and her brothers and sisters. John Sheehan, her father is an employe of the Warren-Scharfe Company. Laura, though only 16 years of age, is her mother's right hand, cheerful, industrious and ambitious. Previous to the event that marks an epoch in her life, she was in the employ of Mrs. Ward, 581 Dundas-street, leading dressmaking. A reporter called yesterday to get her story, and was kindly received by Mrs. Sheehan, by whom the details were given, Laura endorsing her words.

MISS LAURA SHEEHAN.

"Laura has always been a social favorite," said Mrs. Sheehan, "and among her friends and acquaintances no party was complete without her. She made many friends among her work-mates and neighbors, and was much sought after. In fact, she tried her strength too severely, and it gave way. Shortly before the Queen's Birthday, this year, she complained of being out of sorts. We did not think there was anything serious wrong with her, but on the 24th of May last I went with her to St. Michael's Hospital for advice.

"When the doctors had examined her, however, they told me she was in a very serious condition—dangerously ill, in fact—and advised me to leave her in their care. I did so, and she was put to bed, and placed under treatment. A day or two later I went to see her, and was amazed and terrified at the change that had taken place. She lay absolutely speechless, and incapable of moving any portion of her body. She seemed to me to be completely paralyzed. The doctors appeared not to know what was wrong with her, but said she was very ill. She tried to speak to me, but could not. I was nearly distracted. Day after day I visited her, but, instead of improving, I found that she was growing worse every day. After remaining there for some weeks and finding that she was gradually sinking, I determined that, if she was going to die, she should die at home, and had her removed from the hospital. I am firmly convinced that if she had remained there much longer she would have come home in her coffin. I asked the doctors if they could not tell me what was the matter with my girl, but they could not. All their skill, all the care, attention and kindliness of the sisters and nurses, had failed to help her.

"Well, we brought her home and gave her every care. Old and reliable home remedies were used; we bought medicines of nearly every kind, but still she grew worse. She failed to a skeleton almost, and lay unable to move hand or foot, as helpless and speechless as a new-born babe. Even her digestive organs were paralyzed and she could not swallow her food. We had to cut it into small pieces and force it down her throat. We called in doctor after doctor, but none of them could help her; none gave us the least hope of her recovery. They all said she was 'incurable.'

"At last, we, too, gave up hope. We had tried every means we knew of to restore her to health. Everything had failed and there seemed to be nothing to do but wait for the end, which we all thought was very near. It was hard to watch her slowly fading away—she who was once so bright and strong and happy—but we were powerless to help her; and all we could do was to watch her as she day by day grew thinner and thinner, with her terrible pain.

"One day a friend came to see Laura, and could not realize that the poor, helpless, voiceless form was all that was left of the once bright, healthy, robust girl. Before leaving this friend asked me if I had tried DR. ARNOLD'S ENGLISH TOXIN PILLS. I said: 'No, they are the only medicine we have not tried.' Later in the day, in sheer desperation, I bought a box of these pills and began giving them to the poor girl, according to the directions. A few days afterwards I was amazed and delighted to hear Laura call me. She had recovered her speech. Then she could tell me how she had suffered; how she had heard the doctors discussing her case at her bedside in the hospital, and speaking of the hopelessness of it. Soon her appetite came back and strength followed. In a few days she was able to walk across the room, and two weeks after she had taken the first one of DR. ARNOLD'S ENGLISH TOXIN PILLS she walked to Parkdale and back, a distance of four miles. The improvement was marvelous. Our neighbors could not believe that Laura was so nearly well again. They had the evidence of their own eyes for it, however.

"On the day Laura walked to Parkdale and back I fell ill myself. I remained in bed for two weeks, and during this period Laura waited lovingly upon me, and cared for her three little brothers and sisters as well as doing the housework. Her improvement has been rapid, uniform and continuous. She has not ceased using those wonderful pills and has gained the full and perfect use of her limbs, and is gathering strength daily. She eats heartily and sleeps soundly—twelve hours every night. She is no longer deathly pale and thin, as you see, but the color has returned to her cheeks, and she is gaining flesh every day. She will soon be her own self again—thanks to DR. ARNOLD'S ENGLISH TOXIN PILLS, which have positively saved her life—have brought her back from the very brink of the grave, and dispelled the dark shadow of death that hung over our home. They are the wonder of the age. I did not think it possible that any medicine could do what they have done for her. I don't believe there is any other medicine in the world but DR. ARNOLD'S ENGLISH TOXIN PILLS that could have cured her, for we tried them all."

Such was Mrs. Sheehan's account of Laura's illness and recovery. It was corroborated by her husband, and by Laura herself.

But reporters are skeptical individuals. The one to whom Laura's story was related thought it was over-drawn, and he resolved to test it for himself. Accordingly he says: "I visited several of Mr. Sheehan's neighbors and questioned them. They all had the same story to tell. Laura had been brought home from the hospital, to die apparently. Several doctors were called to attend her, and they each pronounced her case hopeless. Dozens of different kinds of medicines were used, but none did any good. Finally DR. ARNOLD'S ENGLISH TOXIN PILLS were used, when it looked as if Laura had only a few days to live. From that date she began to mend, and is growing stronger every day. DR. ARNOLD'S ENGLISH TOXIN PILLS cured her when every other earthly means had failed. No other medicine but DR. ARNOLD'S ENGLISH TOXIN PILLS could have saved Laura Sheehan.

"Determined to further investigate this case, which, if genuine, marked a new era in medical progress, and was, without doubt, a modern miracle, I went to St. Michael's Hospital for information. There the records show that Laura Sheehan was admitted as a patient on May 24, 1899. Her case was recollected well by physicians and Sisters. It was the most serious one of the kind that has ever come under their notice. The patient's condition during her stay in the hospital was as described by her mother, who came and took her home.

"From the hospital I went to Mrs. Ward's dressmaking establishment, at 581 Dundas-street. Mrs. Ward has an extensive business, and could, therefore, spare me little time. She fully corroborated the story as it had been told her. She said: 'Laura, or Lola, as we called her, was with me till the day before she was taken sick and went to the hospital. I had noticed for some time previous that she was not well. She became very weak and nervous—so much so, indeed, that she had not nerves enough to hold a piece of cloth in her hand. Frequently I would make her lie down and rest. I really did not believe that her nervous system could ever be restored to its proper condition. When I heard that she was paralyzed I gave her up as lost for a certainty. In curing her—even if it had been only partially, instead of so thoroughly and perfectly—DR. ARNOLD'S ENGLISH TOXIN PILLS have accomplished a wonder.'

"There was one other person from whom I could obtain information regarding this wonderful case, and that was the druggist from whom Mrs. Sheehan had bought the pills that saved her daughter's life," writes the reporter. "I found that they had been purchased at Gilpin's branch store, corner of Bloor and Bathurst-streets, and there I went. Mr. Moyer, the manager, knew of Miss Sheehan's case. Mrs. Sheehan, he said, purchased a box of DR. ARNOLD'S ENGLISH TOXIN PILLS there some time ago. A couple of days later she consulted him regarding the effect of the medicine. She informed him that already there had been a most astonishing improvement in Laura's condition, and asked his advice regarding the pills. 'I said to her: "If they have effected such good results as you tell me they have already, STICK TO THEM." I have sold many boxes of these pills, and every person who has purchased them from me has given them the very highest praise.'

"This completed the chain of proof—a chain without a single weak link; and I have concluded that DR. ARNOLD'S ENGLISH TOXIN PILLS are fully entitled to stand beside the anti-toxin treatment for diphtheria, and Pasteur's inoculation for the cure or prevention of hydrophobia, with this advantage, that whereas comparatively few people need treatment for hydrophobia, EVERY PERSON needs DR. ARNOLD'S ENGLISH TOXIN PILLS."

Such are the details of Laura Sheehan's case—a case without a parallel in the history of medical science. She was pronounced incurable—given up to die by several well-known physicians; hospital treatment had not the least effect; she was speechless and powerless; she failed in flesh till she was nothing but "skin and bones." SHE WAS DYING; yet DR. ARNOLD'S ENGLISH TOXIN PILLS cured her.

One point that every young girl, every mother, every father who reads the particulars of this most extraordinary escape from death should clearly understand and profit by is this: That although Laura Sheehan was young and apparently robust, strong, vigorous, and in the best of health, could attend social galeties, etc., yet the germs of disease were eating away her vital powers, sapping her strength, undermining her health, filling her blood with poison (toxin) and surely bringing about her final collapse, for which there seemed to be no cause. We are all liable to collapse at any moment, just as Laura Sheehan did. The germ of disease may be eating our lives away now, though we may look and feel to be quite strong and well.

And why did DR. ARNOLD'S ENGLISH TOXIN PILLS save this young girl's life? Why could the doctors not save her? Why could not the other medicines she used cure her? Simply because DR. ARNOLD'S ENGLISH TOXIN PILLS killed the germs of the disease that afflicted her and destroyed the poisons (toxin) these germs had created in her blood. No other medicine could cure her.

This is the only instance where native copper is found in conglomerate, outside of the Calumet and Hecla. The ore so far is very rich in shot native copper. Send for reports and particulars.

Bavarian Premier is Honorable.

Munich, Nov. 10.—In the Chamber of Representatives to-day, the Premier, Baron Von Crailsheim, severely reprobated the strong language employed by certain Deputies concerning British action in the Transvaal. He declared that such attacks on a friendly state were an inadmissible violation of parliamentary usage.

Have Mining Stocks Made You Rich?

The old plan of buying Mining Stocks is condemned in all quarters. The Mining Stock Investors Co. will be your protection. Expert engineers will be engaged and everything possible will be done to protect investors. They invest your money for you. Arrangements are being made with a Trust Company to manage the affairs of the company. English investors are after the stock of the company, but Canadian investors will probably be allowed to subscribe for 50,000 shares, but this is not certain. They will at any rate enter the brokerage business on a large scale.
