TWENTY-THIRD YEAR

BURGOMASTER'S HANDS TIED BY AN INJUNCTION

Ald. Spence Gets Power From C to Restrict Mr. Howland on Gas Question.

CITY CAN DO NOTHING FOR A TIME

In the Meantime the Citizens Have a Chance to Become Educated on the Situation.

Acting on behalf of himself and all other taxpayers of the city, Ald. P. S. Spence yesterday obtained an injunction at the City Hall to restrain Mayor Howland from taking any further steps towards the gas question, or from suing against the Consumers' Gas Company. The injunction was granted by Chief Justice Falconbridge and is in effect until Tuesday. It was served upon the Mayor at the City Hall just before the close of a meeting of the Board of Control.

The Mayor handed the document, after glancing at it, to Controller McMurich, remarking that it was "amusing." The controller concurred and pursued the injunction and the writ accompanying it very carefully.

The order of the court is as follows: "This court doth order that the defendant, both individually and as Mayor of the City of Toronto, his servants, agents, and attorneys, who may be or are under the control, authority or direction of the defendant, as Mayor of the said city, in that behalf, be and they are hereby restrained from executing, delivering or doing, or other act, matter or thing, with regard to a certain proposed agreement or settlement, or from entering into any agreement or settlement, or from doing or attempting to do any act, matter or thing, or from making any motion, until Tuesday, the 26th day of January, and from making any motion to be made to continue this order and injunction, shall have been heard and determined."

Wants a Mandamus.

Ald. Spence also seeks a mandamus to the effect that the agreement be carried out to carry out the ultra vires of the corporation of Toronto and that his Worship had no authority to execute it, as no by-law of the city had been passed authorizing him to carry it out on behalf of the City. Further, the plaintiff was of the opinion that the majority of the members of the Council were opposed to the agreement and that he had signed a requisition asking the Mayor to call a special meeting to consider the agreement. The Mayor had refused to comply and Ald. Spence had taken further steps to carry out the agreement without it being so considered, as requested by a majority of the Council. Therefore, he asked an injunction to restrain the Mayor from further action without the approval of the present Council.

Sound Resolutions.

At the conclusion of the Board of Control meeting his Worship politely declined to give the particulars of his newly acquired legal documents to the press, and he was asked to stand by the terms of his office, where he held a consultation with Corporation Counsel Fullerton and shortly afterwards handed the papers to the reporters without any further comment. Controller McMurich, in discussing the matter, said that he could hardly see the use of Ald. Spence's action, as he understood that the Mayor had already signed the agreement on behalf of the city. He would, therefore, consider that the city was "morally" bound to stand by the terms it had offered to accept.

Controlled London thought differently and so did Controller Graham.

GRAFTERS IN THE GAS HOUSE.

Read the article on our editorial page in reference to municipalizing the gas plant. Follow it up by joining The World in asking Mr. Cockburn and Mr. Pearson for statements as to:

The salaries of the president and vice-president, the fees of directors of the Consumers' Gas Co.

What the chief officers, and what their salaries, of the Consumers' Gas Co.

What and what has been paid on the average for ten years back for law costs?

Who supplies the meters? Is it a subsidiary company?

Are supplies furnished by companies or firms made up of relatives of the management?

What is young Mr. Pearson's business?

Who handles the by-products: tar, ammonia, etc.? Are these in subsidiary companies?

Is Mr. Cockburn or Mr. Pearson or any of their relatives in these companies?

At what price are these things sold? Is there competition in this business?

Who supplies the gas pipes? Is that in competition?

In a word, isn't the Gas Co. milked in its supplies by certain favored individuals, and milked again by the same individuals at the other end when its by-products are sold?

Is it because of these grafts and these grafters that municipalization is being opposed so vigorously, so financially, so to speak?

CONDEMNNS SCHOOL SYSTEM.

Dr. McInnes Finds It Too Theoretical and Bookish.

Winnipeg, Jan. 22.—I intend bringing before the government the question of a more practical system of education in our Public Schools, said Dr. R. McInnes, M.L.A. for Brandon City to-day.

"I have inspected carefully the schools of Brandon, and have paid visits to several of the Winnipeg Public Schools. I find that the system of education in vogue is, as I have held for years, too theoretical and bookish, and I believe the ear is overstrained at the expense of the eye and hand."

"I paid a visit to the Central School here to-day, and while I found everything in exact accord with the regulations as presented by the governing board, yet I hold that the system itself is erroneous, and results in producing young men and young women who are not qualified to engage in the active pursuits of the business world."

EXTRAORDINARY TUMULT

Attended the Ceremony of Consecration of Bishop of Worcester.

London, Jan. 22.—The ceremony of the consecration of the Right Rev. Charles A. Gore as Bishop of Worcester at Westminster to-day, was attended by an extraordinary scene of tumult.

The objectors were led by John Keble, the anti-Ritualist crusader, and Bishop Gore's editorship of Lux Magazine, and the fact that he is the founder of the Monastic Cellar Society figured largely among the arguments of the protestors.

Most of the protests were ruled out, and Bishop Gore was confirmed amid shouts of "Farrell" and "Conspiracy!"

FRENCH IN MANITOBA.

Fine Schools, Teachers Well Paid and Children Learn Something.

Montreal, Jan. 22.—Zotique Clement, a French farmer from St. Elizabeth, Manitoba, is here to-day, and he says if the Province of Quebec would leave them alone the French people of Manitoba would be all right. He said, in fact, they had fine schools, their teachers were well paid and their children were at last learning something.

Mr. Clement said he visited his old home in St. Mary's County of Ontario, and he adds that, although the farmers there are well off, he was quite ashamed of their schoolhouses. Manitoba, he added, would be no better than such schoolhouses as he saw in his native parish.

Before the magistrate Blake he pleaded not guilty. He was remanded till next Tuesday. This morning he was taken to Berlin, B. Galt, where he is being furnished by himself and two other residents of Galt.

MR. COCKBURN AND MASSEY HALL

Editor World: I read Mr. Cockburn's deliverance on public honor and the honor and standing of the directors of his company, and the instances he gave of both. What do I conclude? That the Gas Company has swindled me and other consumers by overcharges, and that the public who put their money in enterprises connected with the other gentlemen cited by him lost it. I couldn't Mr. Cockburn lose it. I had to for a night and say the same thing over again to gas consumers and wronged shareholders? It's so damned refreshing.

GEN. DEWEY HOLDS KEY TO PEACE POSSIBILITY

But the Elusive Burgher Will Fight for Independence—Gloom at Boer Headquarters.

Amsterdam, Jan. 22.—Since the Boers have practically decided to waive their demand for the independence of the South African republic, great gloom has pervaded their headquarters here and at Hilversum.

Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's recent speech in which he promised that there would be no confirmation of a general amnesty, with the reduction of speedily given, seems to reduce matters to a point where an agreement is impossible.

It is admitted that but for Gen. Dewey and other Boers in the field, who are still fighting for independence, peace would be a matter of weeks only.

The Boers here say that the prolongation of the war now rests on Dewey's reputed determination to fight until he has expended his last man and his last cartridge.

FOR CONSERVATIVES TO PONDER OVER.

Editor World: What is the reason of so much apathy in the Conservative party? Why did a man of the standing of George Gooderham, a member of the Albany Club, an almost daily caller there, neglect to vote in West York the other day? Why did his son, who also has a vote in that constituency, neglect to vote? Why this apathy? No one doubts that these men are Conservatives. And why, having asked of these, did hundreds of others near or more remote Conservative neighbors of Mr. Gooderham neglect to vote?

Why is it that a Conservative convention has not been called for many years? Why is it that any forward movement of the party or any progressive element is clubbed down in private by the reactionary element and the discredited element?

Why is it that when, for instance, the new gospel of public ownership is proposed as a plank for Conservatives to take up, certain members of parliament associated with corporations resort to defamation to prevent any such thing being done?

Why is it that for ten years now not one new proposition has been offered by the Conservatives to the crop of fresh young voters that come on to the lists every year in thousands?

Why has the Conservative party, having been out of office in Ontario for many years, out of office in the Dominion for near six years, not made a single appeal to these young men? Only the old hussies have been offered. The world moves and so must political parties.

A party in opposition has neither offices, nor spoils, nor money, nor contracts, nor favors to offer. It can only offer ideas, political ideas, political sentiments. But these are the very things the young men, fresh from their first vote, gladly accept.

They have clean minds, they are anxious to try their powers, they have not yet been introduced to the devious ways of older men, and they will rally round a patriotic idea, a progressive idea, as they will rally round nothing else. And next to the new ideas they are ready to rally round a man who presents and upholds these new ideas.

Why is it that men of the corporations who have for years chloroformed the Conservative party and clubbed the minds of new ideas are still allowed to block the way and to create and cultivate apathy? These are the men who are responsible for things as they now are.

Why do not Conservatives, at least when out of office, cultivate the people rather than corporations? The Liberal Governments at Ottawa and Toronto have the corporations already. What did Sir John Macdonald do? He announced a new plank, a new idea, called National Policy, and he went among the people with it. He told the workmen that it would give them more work, our own work for our own workpeople, our own market for our own products; and he told the farmer that national policy meant a better home market. And in less than two years of campaigning, with an idea, a sentiment, with the money of corporations, he won over the people and was in office. Why isn't this being done again?

Why is it that that newspaper and the men controlling it that betrayed Sir John Macdonald, betrayed British connection, that tried to betray Canada and offered to turn their newspaper into the service of annexation, that sought the right of free trade in prohibition, that betrayed protection for coercion, that in its time has betrayed everything, that has never yet apologized for one of its sins, but still flatters them all, are allowed to attack, in the name of the Conservative party, every progressive man or suggestion that comes forward?

Why do not the Conservative press, the Conservative members, repudiate such conduct? Is there no good reason for the existence of it, difference, of apathy, under such circumstances?

Why is the Conservative organization of Toronto more or less discredited? But think them all over.

The discredited element, the corporation element, that is not for progress, The Mail gang, are right crowded at last into one corner, and into one ring, and before many days Conservatives all over Canada will have the satisfaction of seeing this backward element bunched. When this is done and the party does some genuine headway, may be some lots of thinking still to be done. Keep thinking about it until you find a cause for the apathy that is shown in West York. Again I recall Sir John's cry of Union and Progress.

CAN BE AROUSED.

Montreal Gazette: The figures of the voting in West York show that Mr. Campbell's election was due to Conservative voters' failure to go to the polls. This is bad, but it is more easily remedied than if the Conservatives had turned out to vote for the wrong man. The lazy man can be aroused.

Services Throat the Empire.

Another rich strike has been made on No. 27 claim, Eldorado, where the second bed rock has been reached. Prospecting ranging in value from $1 to $5 have been taken out. He held several concessions from the Argentine government for the building of waterworks, electric tramways, etc. He lived for two years in Paris, and at the Hotel Cecil, where he was a reputed millionaire. The assets in question are principally shares in a light and power company. He was admitted to bail in the sum of 2000 pounds.

It is likewise stated that Dr. Webb's project will embrace the construction of the Canoe Bridge and the taking over of the Nova Scotia Eastern Railway charters.
