The more prompt and saits should be no less agreement in the hope factory administration of justice in that under its new name the building MAN SLOWLY FREEZING civil matters and the limitation of its will now enter upon a fresh and pros cost are entirely in the public inter- perous lease of life. est and experience has shown are not ultimately prejudicial to the legal profession. The notion that protracted and complicated processes of law and an abundance of technicalities bring grist to the legal mill is antiquated and unsound. More miscarriages of justice are attributable to an involved and dilatory system than can come from the simplification of procedure and the limitation of appeals.

Attention will be chiefly concentrat-judgment of the provincial appellate court final in all cases except where constitutional questions arise, the constitutional questions arise, the constitutional question of a federal statute are involved or where one of the litigants resides outside the province, and the other abolishing the appeal of right to the judicial committee of the imperial privy council or limiting it, if retained, to cases involving large amounts or important questions of general interest. With regard to of general interest. With regard to the first of these it has been a subject of comment that appeals from Ontario, where the English common law prevails, should frequently be decided by the voice of appeal judges unfa-miliar with it and apt to introduce ele-nual general meeting of the sharements from the civil law with which they are more conversant. This obsuch cases where the parties are Ontario citizens there appears to be no valid reason why litigation should not other charges, amounted to $131,154.80. After paying dividends equal to 7 per

It is instructive in this connection to recall the proceedings that took place at the imperial conference of last year with regard to this appeal. In the course of the discussion introduced by Mr. Deakin, prime minister of the Commonwealth of Australia, in speaking to his resolution in favor of the establishment of an imperial court of appeal. Dn. Jameson, then premier of Cape Colony, enquired whether that state proceedings that took place at the im Colony, enquired whether that state could deprive itself of the right of apply the lord chancellor (Loreburn) stated that it could not be done by order in council, but could be done by the imperial parliament if the colony so, required. He added, "My present impression—and I am sure you will not teem to it if I am wrong—is that the parliament of a self-governing colony with the royal assent could peal to the privy council and if it could regulate that as well as anything else." Ontario of course is not a selfgoverning state in the sense Cape Colony is, but if the lord chancellor was right in his opinion there does not appear to be any inherent reason why the province should not by its own act abolish privy council apepals in the traffic offered for shipment. strictly provincial litigation. Mr. Foy's resolution, however, prudently proposes that communications be had with both the imperial and Dominion Governments on the important points involved. His proposals will rightly be closely scrutinized, but in the meantime the provincial government deserves credit for the firm and statesmanlike measure of law reform outlined by the resolution to be submitted on Tuesday next.

No Patronage Report Yet

OTTAWA, Feb. 6.—(Special.)—Claude Macdonell (Toronto), in the house to day, asked the postmaster-general if the vacancy in Toronto postoffice had been filled. The office had been vacant many months, and public service demanded that the appointment be made without

"under consideration." The general in-spector of postoffices, Mr. Ross, was fill-ing the office at present. He was an old and trus; worthy official, and the ser-vice was not suffering.

Mr. Macdonell asked when the appointment would be made, and Mr. Lemleux said: "Shortly."

Mr. Foster asked if the postmastergeneral had received the report of the patronage committee. Mr. Lemleux said he had not.

February Silverware Sale We Save You Money on Warranted Goods

Nobody with a present or future Silverware purchase in mind should miss the very unusual savings.

Silverware-bright, beautiful, tasteful; genuine silverware—what housewife has not a pride in its beauty, and happiness in its real intrinsic value?

And We Wish You to Read These Facts

The silverware, large or small, every piece of it, is genuine full plate. We insisted upon the manufacturer's best; insisted that every piece must bear their name or trade-mark. And every piece does. We declined everything from any maker who wasn't willing to do this, for it stamps his genuineness and reputation into it, and thus protects our public.

The variety in this sale is almost inconceivable—it covers 'most every wanted article in silverware, from a plain tea-spoon to great massive carved candelabra.

The savings range from one-quarter to nearly one-half what you must usually pay-and the savings are on all silverware under the February Sale tickets.

Lots of things at little prices-all of them genuine. As fit for the dining-room of a mansion as of a cottage. Some of the best values disappear Saturday.
