Prices Decline on News of wket Sentiment Cut in Prices at Seaboard.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Favorable weather conditions over the west and low selling price of Canadian wheat to the seaboard today caused all grains to suffer a setback after they had started fairly steady. Provisions, however, remained quiet and firm. Compared with the previous close, wheat was off 3½c to 4½c, with December $2.32½ to $2.33½, and March $2.55. Corn was down 1½c to 2½c, while oats showed a net loss of %c to 1½c. Provisions were 20c to 80c net higher.

Fear of Canadian competition on an increasing scale, with the belief that British purchases will be confined largely to Canadian grain, for a time at least, created a more bearish view here. Selling induced by reports that Canadian wheat has been sold to the seaboard at about 10 cents under the domestic, caused the market to decline readily. Soaking rains overnight in parts of Illinois and Indiana, that have been in Mining mar symptems on Saturds symptems of Chicago, Aug. 21.—Favorable weather Soaking rains overnight in parts of Illinois and Indiana, that have been in needed moisture for some time past, led to free selling and a lower range in

In Winnipeg No. 1 northern hard was quoted at $2.50 for December, a drop of five cents on Friday.

And the demand for export was light at both cities. Brokers say that a still greater slump in prices is only prevented by the slow receipts. A rush to sell and deliver is about due to weaken these markets next week.
