RECORD CROP IN AROOSTOOK.

Gross Yield of the Potato Crop, and Yield Per Acre Largest Ever.

Presque Isle, Me., Nov. 2.—Harvest season is over. October was a bad month and September was but little better—wet, wet and cold—but Aroostook's crop is large, in spite of the disagreeable fall months. Then, perhaps, all things considered, the season was of the best, as a yielding season. Because of the enormous crop last season, a larger acreage was contemplated for last spring's planting, but last spring was cold and the spring rains continued later than usual, curtailing the number of days within which the planting could be done. As it was, however, more acres were put under cultivation than last year, and very much more phosphate was purchased during the past winter for the intended larger acreage. The consequence was that a more liberal quantity was supplied to the potato land than otherwise would have been done. In many cases the extra quantity was an afterthought, farmers deeming it better to put the phosphate intended for other acres which they were unable to plant on those already planted, before the first hoing and from doing so, the idea is prevalent that it is the better way to divide the application, putting one-half of the phosphate in the ground when planting, and applying the other half while hoing. As the hoing could be done with the plant, it becomes a simple and easy way to do so.

Then again, because of the greater yield, last season, where the Bordeaux mixture, six pounds of vitriol and 12 pounds of lime to a barrel of water, the usual formula though the quantities are varied by some, was freely used, spraying machines purchased by those who did not own them, consequently but few potatoes without being sprayed. Yet, those not sprayed grew equally as well as those that were, and no rust made its appearance, many argued that the whole cost of spraying was a sacrifice and not needed. However, as tidings of the rot from many states and counties came to hand, the conclusion was reached that the expense of spraying in the fact that none of Aroostook's crop was touched by the rot.

Some frost bitten potatoes that were in the ground at the time of the October freeze, committed the loss, which is very small. Spraying now has a double value until times as other conditions prove to the contrary. Large as the crop was last season (and none expected to see as large a crop) the gross yield and that per acre is larger than last year. Cony & Carter, of New York, contracted with the farmers for the crop last spring, calculating to get 20,000 barrels. They are obliged to purchase 40,000 barrels, building new store houses and hiring others so that at the present time they are shipping from 14 potato houses. The George Robinson Co. is doing a like business. The farmers' colars are being full; many need potato houses of their own which are full; barn floors were piled full during the digging time and it is doubtful if such potatoes can all be disposed of in time to avoid losses by weather.

The cry of the shippers is for more cars. The B. & A. is nearly swamped with freight; it is simply impossible for the road to handle the business offered. The road should be doubled, and the number of freight cars trebled. There are two farmers in this town who raised 1800 barrels of potatoes and the average yield of the town is quite close to 100 barrels to the acre.

Hay and grain have yielded equally as well as potatoes. The presses are busy, the quality fine. The railroad is fairly groaning under its burden of business. Fair Aroostook has no equal in the United States.

SUCCORED BY THE SALVATION ARMY.

Destitute Family Cared For at the Army Home Last Night.

The Keating family who were reported in last night's Times as being in a destitute condition are still at the Salvation Army home, Mrs. Keating has given up her rooms on Sherif street, and no effort has as yet been made to place the children in homes. The mother and two older children are in comparatively good health, but the baby is not strong. Prospects are that they will remain at the Army home for some little time, or at least until employment can be found for the mother.

Another Anniversary.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 3.—12.50 p. m.—There was little attempt to-day to celebrate, except in a perfunctory way, the tenth anniversary of the accession of Emperor Nicholas. The imperial family attended a Te Deum at the Kasan cathedral and there were services in all of the churches. Later the troops were paraded, the theatres gave free exhibitions to the school children and there was music and other holiday displays in the parks. But, on account of the war and the anxiety regarding the situation at Port Arthur, everything was on a small scale.

IRA D. SANKEY A VISITOR IS BLIND FROM JAPAN

But at Eventide "The Ninety and Nine" is Heard Again as Memories are Awakened.

Fearful of the effects of the Northern winter the relatives of Ira D. Sankey, famous singer of gospel songs, are preparing to hurry him to the South in the hope that his life may be prolonged. "I have just had a letter from mother," said Allen J. Saukey, No. 369 Park place, Brooklyn, to the New York Herald, this week, "and we have decided to send father to the South. We hope the warmer breezes may preserve him to us. He is now up the States, just where, I do not care to have published because he is so sensitive. We have hoped that his eyes would improve, but I may now say that he is blind. He will never see again. In his decline the knowledge that he is blind forever depresses him. He who sang in front of thousands now shrinks from the gaze of sympathetic friends. In seclusion he spends his days waiting his end. Occasionally in the evening on the pleasant trolley ride the notes of an old hymn awake a memory. Then the wailing sobs come again as with an old world echo the song of "The Ninety and Nine." It is Sankey singing his old favorite. Then the venerable singer seems to forget his blindness.

MEN'S FINE TAILORED GARMENTS

NEW 20TH CENTURY SUITS. HONEST INSIDES.

We say honest—because most ready-to-wear clothing is not tailored on the inside—the parts that are hidden between the outer cloth and the lining. The makers of 20th Century Clothing make the insides of their garments the fundamental principle on which they base the permanent perfect fit and the wearing qualities of all their garments.

More new suits came in yesterday—stylish double and single breasted sacks—in the fashionable brown mixtures. These add to our already good line of suits at that ever popular price, $15.

Our Black and Blue Serge Suits at $16 are all new lately. These are the most popular lines we have yet handled. The 20th Century label on every coat affords a thorough guarantee.
