THE TWO PARTIES

Mr. Borden's Ontario tour is ended for the present. He has been cordially received by political opponents as well as by his supporters. He is the leader of one of the great political parties, and a man of marked ability and high reputation. As such he has been welcomed, regardless of politics, though he went on a political mission.

Mr. Borden struck no new note in this campaign. To his general observations on the necessity and value of high ideals and a high sense of honor in public life, every citizen will readily assent. Such observations are commonplace. To Mr. Borden's credit it can be said that he endeavored to live up to his professions; but not more earnestly than other men, who are not on the same side in politics. Mr. Borden knows perfectly well that this is true, and that it is also true that if he were in power tomorrow he would be confronted by all the difficulties with which the present government has to deal. His followers are not any more scrupulous in regard to matters of patronage than the followers of any other leader.

Nor is Mr. Borden any more desirous than Sir Wilfrid Laurier to advance the welfare of Canada. The latter has proved his quality, and the evidence is found in the history of this country since 1896, with its marvelous record of substantial progress. It is easy to say that too much money has been spent, and to charge that there has been graft as well as extravagance, but what sane man believes the Conservatives would have produced any better results? The history of that party is not forgotten. Those too young to remember have only to ask their older neighbors. There was progress in Canada under Conservative rule, but there were also grave scandals, leading up to the utter defeat of the party, which has been kept out of power since 1896 because of its sins of omission and commission. Mr. Borden endeavors to persuade the people that a new Conservative administration would be above reproach, but when the cautious enquirer looks over the list of prospective Conservative ministers he is not encouraged to believe the story.

On the other hand, the present government is led by one who is conceded to be one of the leading statesmen of the empire. He is surrounded by able and experienced men, who give him invaluable support in carrying out a policy that has made good his memorable phrase that "the twentieth century is Canada's century." The progress made by Canada under Conservative rule was very slow in comparison with that of the last five years. This great development could not be accomplished without heavy expenditure in the opening up of new territory, enlarging the means of transportation, developing the seaports and the interior means of communication, and constructing such public works as are made necessary by a rapidly increasing population. If the debt is increased, there is something to show for it, and the people get value. If the annual expenditure is greater, it is because of greater legitimate demands upon the revenue. But the revenue has also increased, the trade of the country grows at a remarkable rate, and thousands of new settlers with millions of capital are pouring in to aid in the work of national development.

The policy of the Liberal government has immensely enlarged the field of Canadian trade in other countries, without menacing home industries. It has brought increased population and wealth. It has opened up a vast area of new territory for settlement. It has encouraged the development of resources. It has drawn Canada closer to the mother country and to the overseas states of the empire.

All this could not be accomplished without mistakes, or without some resultant open to criticism by an alert opposition. It has been a gigantic task, growing with the years. Today the world is paying more attention to Canada and this Canadian than ever before, and there never was a time when men of clear vision and strong grasp were more needed at the helm of its affairs. The country cannot do better than to continue to repose its confidence in those men and that party whose policy and administration have achieved these results. Mr. Borden is useful in opposition. There let him remain, until he strikes a new note, and develops a policy that will command popular support.

THE CHAMPLAIN STATUE

The unveiling of the Champlain monument last evening was an event of much historic interest. It is doubtless fitting that the first statue erected in St. John, with the exception of a symbolic statue in memory of the men who died in South Africa, should be that of the man who discovered and named the great river which here enters the bay. It is none the less significant of racial good feeling to the freedom enjoyed by men of all races and creeds under the British flag, as well as by his brief but brilliant address in the French language. Premier Hazen very properly commended Champlain's high purpose and lofty patriotism as an example to Canadians. Mayor Fink who for the first time as mayor of the city presided at an important public function, acquitted himself admirably; and Mr. Ward's brief paper added the historical touch to the proceedings. The Union Jack and Fleur-de-Lis, the British national emblem and the Marcelline were joined in honor of a great man, the lustre of whose fame the passing centuries have not dimmed. The statue on Queen Square is a noble work of art, an ornament to the city, and a fitting memorial to the intrepid voyager and great colonizer whose name is written so large on the page of Canada's early history.

THE CHAMPLAIN STATUE

Let it be said that the Times-Star got a garbled report of what Mr. Johnson, M. P., said about Mr. Foster at the Niagara Falls meeting, in presence of Mr. Borden, we quote the following from the report in the Montreal Gazette, Conservative:—

"The speech of Mr. Johnson, the local member of West Hastings, caused some stir. Mr. Johnson made an open allusion to Mr. Foster's position in the party in the following words: 'When Mr. Borden is called to form a cabinet we will require from him that it shall contain no man whose record is tainted, no matter how valuable his services have been in the past. The Conservative party cannot afford to carry anyone who has used time and money to his own advantage which he owed to the business in which he was employed. The Conservative party has carried that burden too long.'

THE CHAMPLAIN STATUE

Commenting on the affair the Montreal Herald observes:—'A speaker at one of Mr. Borden's meetings broke silence on the Foster question. For most people his absence from the picnic was sufficient sign that he had been side-tracked, but this ardent partisan, who is an old school teacher and writing master, thought the crosses and dots ought to be put in.'

The children are free for the summer holidays. It is to be regretted that there are not more supervised playgrounds to combine the delights of play with wholesome lessons.

Once more there is an Edward, Prince of Wales. All Canadians will join in the wish that he may wear the title as worthily as did his father and his grandfather. He is like his father in his love for the navy.

THE CHAMPLAIN STATUE

Opening the summer congress of the Good Templars of Sweden this week Crown Prince Gustaf Adolph said that "the nation which frees itself from intemperance and its damaging effects will make the greatest progress."

THE CHAMPLAIN STATUE

The North Shore Leader says:—"The whole province is interested in a greater St. John because its expansion means a greater New Brunswick, and the North Shore will rejoice to see that city come to giant growth within the next few years."

Mr. A. Kelly Evans, the Ontario champion of the conservation of fish and game, was appointed commissioner last July to enquire into the fish and game situation in Ontario, and his interim report has just been issued. He urges the advisability of placing the department of game and fisheries under the control of a small, working commission, somewhat after the model of the Tensinkam and Northern Ontario Railway Commission.

THE CHAMPLAIN STATUE

A most enjoyable reunion and musicale was held by Miss Emma Rubins for her pupils on Thursday evening. A programme of twenty-four numbers was carried out most successfully, reflecting much credit upon the teacher.

THE CHAMPLAIN STATUE

Piano solos were given by the following: Misses Eva Chase, Helen Munro, Elsie Adams, Pearl Sears, Helen Brown, Margaret Craft, Gladys Davidson, Ruby May, Irena Brown, Lena Watson and Troop Thorne. Vocal solos were rendered by Misses Ethel Boyce and Emma Rubins. After the programme, ices were served by Misses Lena Smith and Sarah Lamb, and a most enjoyable evening was brought to a close by the singing of the national anthem. R. J. Adams, on behalf of those present tendered a vote of thanks to Miss Rubins and her pupils.

EVERY DAY IS A NEW BEGINNING

Every day is a new beginning. Every morn is the world made new; Yet who are weary of sorrow and sinning, A beautiful life for you— A hope for me and a hope for you.

All the past things are past and over. The tasks are done and the tears are shed. Yesterday's errors let yesterday cover. Yesterday's wounds which smarted and bled Are healed with the healing which might has shed.

Yesterday now is part of forever. Bound up in a sheaf, which God holds tight. With glad days, and sad days, and bad days which never Shall visit us more with their bloom and their night. Their fullness of sunshine or sorrowful night.

Let them go, since we cannot relieve them. Cannot undo and cannot atone; Go, in his mercy, receive, forgive them; Only the new days are our own, Today is ours, and today alone.

Here are the skies all bright and brightly, Here is the sun and earth, all around; Here are the tired limbs, springing lightly To face the sun and to share with the dawn. In the stream of dew and the cool of dawn.

Every day is a fresh beginning; Listen, my soul, to the glad refrain, And spite of old sorrow and older sinning, And troubles forecasted and possible pain, Take heart with the day and begin again.

—Susan Collidge.

THE PERFECT MAN

"There was one man whose life was perfect," said the Sunday school teacher. "What one of you can tell me who he was?"

Little Mary Jane's hand went up, and the teacher nodded to her. "He was mamma's first husband," she said.—Everybody's.

THE HEIGHT OF WOE

TOO CLOSE

He (to his niece, palely)—"Why did you let that man kiss you?" She—"He's a distant relative."

"Distasteful!" He—"You're too much to suit me."—Boston Transcript.

ENCOURAGING

Friend—Where there laughter and cheer during your speech?" Young Statesman—Well, there weren't any cheer, but now and then people in the audience looked at one another and laughed.

EVER NOTICE

"Why are the children of the rich so often unattractive?" "When you see a home without a woodshed, there you are apt to find a spoiled kid."

BEYOND CRITICISM

ack—"Those young fellows have an advantage over you single girls, because they know all about men."

Madge—"Yes, and because the only men who know all about them are dead."—Boston Transcript.

EDIFYING

Gentleman (looking for room)—"Did you say a music-teacher occupies the next apartment?" That cannot be very pleasant."

Landlady (eagerly)—"Oh, that's nothing. He has eleven children, and they make so much noise you can't hear the piano."—Harper's Bazar.

JIPES JAW RIDE

Mrs. Jipes didn't wait to go out in the new automobile, anyhow, and she was telling her husband so in several different kinds of ways.

"I'd rather have waited until I had something fit to ride in," she said, "but you just would have come along with me. A bit of fun for me, and I'd like to see you! You narrowly missed running into the curb. What do you think you're doing?"

"I'm taking a jumpy ride!" answered Mr. Jipes.—Chicago Tribune.

FOR ECZEMA

A Treatment That Is Guaranteed to Give Relief.

Eczema is parasitic in nature. It is said to be a contagious disease. Until the parasite or germ hidden in the skin is completely removed, eczema cannot be cured. Fully one-third of all skin disease is in the form of eczema. It affects persons of all ages and classes. It is very prevalent among people between the ages of 20 to 40.

I unhesitatingly guarantee to return every cent paid me for Recall Eczema Ointment in every case where it fails to give entire satisfaction. It possesses remarkable cleansing, antiseptic, healing and curative power. Its great value is very pronounced in the treatment of eczema, whether of the scalp, face, neck, or of the weeping kind, where there is a constant flow of pus, or where there is a constant flow of pus, or where there is a constant flow of pus, such as ring worm, acne, pimples, blotches and discolorations.

Recall Eczema Ointment is very useful in treating ulcers, sores, wounds, insect bites, nettle rash and liver spots. It is particularly recommended for the treatment of children who are afflicted with itching, burning, and stinging disease. I urge you to try a jar at my risk. Your money, wait you if you are not satisfied with the treatment. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. Remember you can only obtain Recall Eczema Ointment in this town at my store—The Rexall Stores, Chas. R. Wesson, 100 King street.

Kingston and Hampton Schools

The closing exercises of the Kingston Consolidated Schools and the picnic of the Kingston Agricultural Society were held on Thursday afternoon. Andrew Elliott of (alt. Ont., spoke on soil culture. T. B. Kildner presented the Governor General's medal for perfect proficiency to Garret Carmichael.

The closing exercises of the Hampton school took place yesterday afternoon. There was a good programme and the presentation of medals and certificates was a feature.

GRADUATES WELCOMED BY ALUMNAE SOCIETIES

A pleasant time was had last night by the graduating class of the St. Vincent's and St. John High Schools. The graduates of the former were entertained by the alumnae at a dinner at White's, while the High School graduates were given a reception in the assembly hall. Mrs. Walker received the High School graduates, and delivered an address of welcome. Speeches were made by Supt. Bridges, R. B. Emerson and T. H. Bull. During the evening the young ladies presented to the school a complete set of Browning's works for the library. The school orchestra provided music.

The St. Vincent's graduates had a fine time in White's restaurant, presided and welcomed the graduates, and there was a response from Miss Marion Nugent. The following toast list was honored:—Our Former Teachers, proposed by Miss E. T. Reed and responded to by Miss E. O'Neill; Our Married Members, proposed by Miss O'Neill and responded to by Mrs. J. McMurray; The Gentlemen, proposed by Miss Reid and responded to by Miss K. O'Malley. The following programme was enjoyed:—Piano solo, Miss H. Harrington; vocal solo, Miss F. O'Neill; reading, Miss Agnes Scully, selections by the orchestra.

Percy W. Thomson and Alexander McMillan reached home last evening by the Ocean Limited, completing a visit to Europe which has occupied them for the past six weeks. They left the steamer Corsica at Rimouski on Thursday. Of those who sailed on the same steamer as Mr. McMillan, J. Roy Campbell sailed for home from Liverpool yesterday by the Virginius, and Boyce S. Smith, J. G. Harrison as well as Charles Danson, Mrs. Eason and Miss Katie Hazen, will follow shortly. Ireland, Scotland and the Continent were included in the itinerary of Mr. McMillan's party.
