RECENT DEATHS

Dr. F. A. Rand.
Parrboro, April 25.—(Special)—The community was shocked this afternoon when it became known that Dr. Frederick A. Rand had suddenly expired. The doctor had been on the street only about ten minutes previous to his death. On entering the house he discovered that the fire was on fire. The excitement and exertion of going up and down stairs brought on an attack of heart failure, which terminated fatally.

The late Dr. Rand was born at Canning sixty-seven years ago. He studied medicine at Dalhousie University and the University of the City of New York. After being graduated from the latter institution he practiced in New York City for two years. For the last thirty-four years he has been one of Parrboro's leading citizens. He served six terms as chief magistrate of the town with the greatest satisfaction, and had been coroner for this end of the county for over thirty years. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Hattie Rice, of Bear River, one daughter, Irene, a student at Acadia University, and one son, Fred, of Sackville; one brother, Charles, of Cambridge, Kings county, and one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Strong, of Canning.

David Tapley.
The death of David Tapley occurred at the residence of his daughter in West St. John yesterday afternoon, at the advanced age of eighty-one years. He was born in Sheffield, Sunbury county, on August 27, 1841, a son of the late John B. and Anne V. Tapley, and was of Loyalist descent. In 1867 he was married to Mary E. Houy, who passed away some ten years ago. Mr. Tapley was an employe of the old New Brunswick Railway Co., working up to the position of trackmaster, which position he later held with the C. P. R., until he entered the customs service twenty-one years ago. In his younger days he took

Pimples and boils
—caused by errors of diet

A well-known skin specialist says that pimples are "signal flags of danger" often indicating errors in diet.

Indeed pimples are so frequently associated with faulty habits of eating and improper digestion that the first thing to do is to see that our food is right.

Fresh yeast is a wonderful corrective food for these skin disorders. Fleischmann's Yeast is rich in the elements which improve appetite and digestion and which keep the intestines clean of poisons.

Physicians and hospital men over the country are recommending Fleischmann's fresh yeast for pimples and boils. It gets right at the basic cause of these complications.

Get 3 to 4 cakes of Fleischmann's fresh yeast daily before or between meals to keep your skin healthy. Beware of cheap imitations. The familiar tin-foil package with the yellow label. Place a standing order with your grocer.

Blackheads
indicate your cleansing method is wrong

USE this famous treatment to keep your skin free from blackheads:

Each night before retiring apply hot cloths to the face until the skin is reddened. Now with a rough washcloth work up a heavy lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap and rub it into the pores thoroughly with an upward and outward motion. Rinse with clear, hot water, then with cold. Finish by rubbing your face for 30 seconds with a piece of ice.

Begin this treatment tonight. Within a week or ten days your skin will show a marked improvement. The Andrew Jergens Company. Made in Canada.

IS DOBBIN DISPLACED?
A despatch from Denver tells a story which may become increasingly common as the general motorization of the world continues. After searching twenty-four hours for a horse-drawn hearse, it states, an undertaker found one in the basement of a livery stable, and as a result the last wish of Mrs. Ella M. Sears, wife of a physician, was fulfilled.

Upon her death-bed Mrs. Sears, who was sixty, asked that no motor-driven vehicles be permitted in her funeral procession.

The undertaker discovered it had been ten years since a horse-drawn hearse had taken its place in a funeral procession in Denver.

FLYING BOAT WINS RACE FOR WOMAN'S LIFE

Details of a race with death participated in by a slow sailing schooner and a high-powered flying boat with a woman's life one hundred miles away on an island staked against time and saved by the plane are given out by C. F. Redden, president of the Aeromarine Airways, Inc., Times Building, New York.

The news came to Mr. Redden by wire from Miami, Florida, one of the air bases of the Aeromarine Company.

"The schooner 'Lilly' put into Nassau after four and a half days," said Mr. Redden. "In traveling at her top speed from Norman Coast on the island of Little Abasco in the Bahamas. It brought the word that Mrs. Lottie Russell, wife of Roy Russell, manager of the Bahamas Islands Importing and Exporting Corporation, was in a critical condition and unable to live unless immediate aid was rushed to her. There were no physicians on the island and the skipper asked that one be rushed there on the fastest boat available. Even then, her condition was so desperate that he considered the odds greatly against the sick woman. He gravely doubted if aid could reach her in time. Every minute might mean life or death.

"While the captain of the schooner was seeking a swift boat to make the return trip and others were summoning a physician and a nurse, Dr. Graham and Miss Nellie Burns, he chanced upon Duke Schiller, pilot of the Aeromarine flying boat 'Florida,' who had just entered the harbor from Miami. Schiller at once tendered the use of the plane and volunteered to put off immediately. When the physician and nurse arrived they were bundled into the big plane and began a race to save a woman believed to be dying.

"The hundred miles they covered in one hour and a half—as against the four days and a half for the schooner—and were at the bedside of Mrs. Russell within two hours. Expert medical attention brought her from the shadow and she gradually improved.

"Schiller returned and at Nassau met Ed. Musick, piloting the big eleven-passenger enclosed-cabin Aeromarine flying cruiser 'Columbus' also sent out of Miami. Musick flew his ship to the island and found Mrs. Russell recovering and in such condition that the physician was able to return, leaving the nurse to care for her."

ENGINEERING STRIKE
(London Engineering)

During the recent debate in the House of Commons on the engineering dispute, Sir Allan Smith made it clear that certain unions had indicated clearly to the employers that for the last twelve months they had made up their minds that the employers were no longer to have the rights of management which they have had in the past; and he showed that the employers, far from desiring to attack the unions, had been forced to take up this challenge as soon as it became evident. He pointed out that the employers had no desire to work overtime where it could be avoided, if for no other reason than that it was not economic to pay men 50 per cent. extra for working at the end of the day when their energies were greatly diminished. He repudiated emphatically the suggestion that the employers wished to destroy the unions, and referred to Mr. Brownlie's acknowledgement that such a suggestion was unwarranted. He said that he, personally, desired that the unions should become stronger, provided their internal discipline were improved so that the workmen should in future accept the recommendations of their appointed leaders instead of turning them down as they had done in the present case with such unfortunate results. As regards the call for a Court of Enquiry he pointed out that no such court could be in as good a position to form opinions as to the proper relations of the engineering employers and employes as the conference of November 17 and 18, 1921, at which the unions conceded that they should not interfere with the right of the employers to exercise managerial functions in their establishments, and that the instructions of the management should be observed pending discussion of any question in dispute. Allan gave an important indication of the employers' desire to be reasonable in all things by saying: "If the unions are prepared to agree with us in principle that we are still to have the right to manage our factories, we shall be more than pleased to sit down with them in conference while their men are at work, in order to come to an agreement with them as to the manner in which these managerial functions are to operate." Out of the strong came forth sweetmeat, and at the moment of writing we were to learn whether any good thing would come of the conference which have followed on this declaration.
